ITALY ORDERS OUT U-BOATS

U.S. FAILS AGAIN TO SELL ALL ITS BOND OFFERING

Both Failures Come Under New Deal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—The federal government announced today that it was unable to float the full amount of one of its bond issues. This is the second time in United States history that the government has failed to borrow what it asked. Both failures have occurred under the present administration.

Only $85,592,000 in tenders were submitted for a 100 million dollar issue of 1½ per cent four year farm mortgage corporation bonds which the treasury had offered for sale during Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The bonds were unconditionally guaranteed by the treasury.

The treasury accepted $85,262,000 worth of the tenders at prices ranging from 100 down to 98. The average price at which the bonds were sold was about 99, and the yield on the bonds averaged about 1.762, according to the official treasury announcement.

One HOLC Issue Undersubscribed.

Today's undersubscription on the farm mortgage corporation bonds was the first since last August, when the treasury offered three series of 50 million dollars each of Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds. One series maturing in three years and bearing 1¾ per cent interest attracted only 48 million dollars in bids of which between 41 and 42 million dollars' worth were accepted. That was the first failure; today brought the second.

"Not so good," was Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's comment on the farm mortgage bond issue. He denied, however, that he would abandon the year old system of offering bonds on an "auction" basis to the highest bidders and insisted the auction system, which has been increasingly criticized by bond dealers, had not contributed to the failure of the farm mortgage bonds.

Blame Weakness of Market.

Weakness in the government bond market, which has been more or less pronounced since Aug. 12, was blamed by treasury experts for the failure of the farm mortgage issue. They opined that investors and dealers did not wish to buy new bonds on a falling market.

Analysis of government bond quotations also shows that the treasury was allowing itself only a small margin of safety when it put a 1½ per cent interest rate on them. On Saturday, the day before the farm mortgage issue was announced, a comparable issue of Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds was selling only slightly above par at 100 2-32. These HOLC bonds carried a 1½ per cent interest rate and matured in 1939, as did the farm bonds.

Can't Get Par for Bonds.

Obviously the new farm bonds would be particularly vulnerable if the bond market continued to decline between Monday and Wednesday while they were being sold, since a comparable issue was only slightly above par on Saturday. The decline occurred and the treasury was unable to sell the new offering at par.

Treasury officials refused to be worried over the outcome of the farm mortgage corporation financing. They said an increase in the interest rates which the government must pay was natural in view of the declining bond market. The increase, they added, was not serious as yet, since the new bonds sold on a yield basis of 1.762 per cent, whereas a year ago the treasury had to offer 2½ and 3 per cent on its borrowings.

RECORD CURRENTS FROM BRAIN AS PATIENT SLEEPS

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The electrical currents of the brain in sleep—possibly the stuff dreams are made of—are announced today with pictures in Science, the official journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Three fine needles were fixed to the scalps of the sleepers, one needle above the forehead, another near the back of the head, and the third at the top.

Wires were attached to the needles so the subconscious action of the forward part of the brain registered separately from that of the rear portion. Pencils traced the brain currents on a revolving drum.

BEARS DEFEAT ALL-STARS, 5-0, BEFORE 77,450

Field Goal, Safety Decide Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Jack Manders' 27 yard goal from placement late in the first quarter gave the Chicago Bears three points and a safety in the fourth period, added two more to complete the total by which they defeated the College All-Americans, 5 to 0, before 77,450 rain soaked fans at Soldiers' field last night.

It was the second successive year in which the contestants have failed to register a touchdown in the great football event originated and sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Last year's inaugural ended in a scoreless tie and the Bears, who had professed chagrin at their inability to cross the All-Americans' goal line in 1934, had to be content with whatever satisfaction they could gain from the work of Manders, the world's greatest placement kicker, and a fumble of a wet ball by Bill Shepherd which registered the safety.

Bears Win on Merits.

But the Bears won on their merits and, except for one especially dramatic flurry in the fifth minute of the final quarter when Don Hutson, the Alabama flash, all but got away for a touchdown on a stirring end-around play, seemed in command of the situation most of the time. The All-Americans advanced to the Bears' five yard line in this big drive.

Then Bill Shepherd, the All-American star from Western Maryland, was thrown for a six yard loss. The collegians' big moment vanished soon thereafter. The Bears punted out, Pug Lund of Minnesota fumbled the ball and two minutes from the time the All-Americans were bidding for victory, Shepherd was trying to punt from behind his own goal line. Bill dropped the pass from center and fell on the ball and the night's scoring had been completed.

Halted at 3 Yard Line.

Manders engaged in his specialty after the All-Americans had turned back a terrific onslaught which advanced the Bears to within three yards of the Collegians' goal line. Beattie Feathers, the Bears' sensational ground gainer, an All-American himself in last year's game, had turned on the heat with an 18 yard sprint through center and to his left, following the interference of Manders. Feathers was rammed out of bounds on the 15 yard line.

A moment later Feathers, with Manders again serving as pathfinder, swung to his right and ran to the All-Americans' three yard line. Manders and Feathers took turns in attempts to break through, but they gained only a foot. On the third smash Manders lost two yards, but during the play the Bears drew a 15 yard penalty for holding.

Manders' Toe in Action.

Shoved back to the 20 yard line, the Bears elected to pass, for the penalty left it third down. Bernie Masterson's throw, intended for Bill Hewitt in the end zone, was knocked down by Shepherd.

It was fourth down now and those who know the Bears began to focus their attention on Manders' superb right foot. It was an old story to Bear fans. Masterson dropped back to the 27 yard line, received the pass from Center Ed Kawal and plunked it to the still dry turf in perfect placement for Manders. A swish of Manders' right leg and the first score in All-American-Bears history had been rung up.

Crowd Ignores Rain.

The rain which marred the big show held off long enough to give the fans a chance to enjoy the colorful aspects of the carnival and see the first half played under favorable conditions. But it was a soaker during the second half.

Some appraisal of the intense interest of the spectators was given in the way they stayed. With the exception of a few thousand, all stood and took it. At first many fashioned paper hats and capes in the hope that the opening drizzle would be the worst of the storm.

Later on the customers gave up. They just sat and took it. Disappointing as the weather was, the drenched spectators kept vocal to the

ARRANGE FOR 100,000 PERSONS TO VIEW FALL OF THE SKY RIDE TODAY

Precisely at 3 o'clock this afternoon the east tower of the sky ride—the last important landmark of A Century of Progress—will be toppled to the earth. Transportation, parking and policing arrangements have been made in detail as if for a major event at Soldiers' field.

Officials expect 100,000 persons to witness the spectacle from the immediate vicinity of the Fair grounds. Additional thousands will be able to view the show from windows and roofs and towers in the loop and adjoining business district.

Street cars, buses, and taxicabs will maintain special service to Grant park. Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer for the Chicago park district, estimated that there is parking space for 20,000 cars along the lake shore. Eight thousand cars, he said, can get into Grant park.

Three hundred and sixty policemen have been assigned to direct the crowds. These consist of city and park district men, plus fifty of the former Fair red-coat squad, who have been recalled for duty today. The coast guard will patrol nearby water to keep all craft at a safe distance.

The island site of the tower will be closed to all visitors after noon. The entire Fair grounds also will be closed to the public, but the collapse will be plainly visible from along seven miles of shoreline.

ASKS RED MENACE BE STAMPED OUT BY FINGER PRINTS

How a national statute requiring the finger printing of every person in the United States would have prevented the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby, would effect honest elections, and would be immensely valuable in ridding the country of gangsters and communists was outlined yesterday by T. L. Kornmann, finger print expert of the Remington-Rand company, in an address before the Paul Reveres, patriotic organization, at Hotel La Salle.

He criticized Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins for opposing the establishment and maintenance of finger printing bureaus that would have been a formidable weapon against undesirable aliens who illegally entered the country.

"If we had a national finger print law," Kornmann said, "Bruno Hauptmann never would have been permitted to enter this country. If he had been smuggled in we'd have caught up with him when he obtained his automobile identification card.

"We know that finger prints are the strongest arm of the law. Gangsters are more afraid of finger prints than they are of machine guns."

Loop Burglar Reaches Top —and Falls Off

Francis Drury, 32 years old, who claims the title of Chicago's most industrious burglar, has a grudge fight on with fate.

FRANCIS DRURY.

For 14 years he has been plugging along in his chosen profession. Most of his hauls were little ones and his profits were due to volume. But to him, like to a veteran gold prospector, fortune always beckoned. Every time Drury crawled over a transom he felt that he was about to make the big strike that would enable him to wallow in riches the rest of his life.

Not even the two terms he served in Joliet prison dimmed his ambition. He was so busy burglarizing each time when he got out that he forgot to report to the kindly parole agents. Between March and August of the current year he looted 78 offices in the loop.

Then—the Big Haul!

His big strike came on July 22, when he broke into the real estate brokerage office of Andrew McAnsh at 130 North Wells street. He really expected to get only a few dollars and some loose stamps and possibly a typewriter. What he found in the office was $120,000 in negotiable bonds.

What happened thereafter is best told in the words of Burglar Drury, in durance at the detective bureau.

"You could have knocked me over with a feather," he said. "There I was, rich. All I had to do was sell my bonds and buy me a chicken ranch. Of course, I know now this feeling was a little previous and I shouldn't have had the swelled head just because I had arrived as Jimmy Valentine. But I didn't have a doubt then.

Error: He Let George Do It.

"I took the bonds and ran with them to George Kane. I lived with George and his mother at 113 West Ontario street. George had a business he called the Associated Brokers at 828 North State street and he said he would sell the bonds for a commission.

"Everybody knows now that George tried to sell them back to McAnsh and got arrested. He was so careless he got me arrested, too. Nobody knows but me how it feels to be a burglar that climbed to the top and fell over the cliff."

Drury claimed to be the inventor of a special technique in loop office burglaries.

How It Is Done.

He and a companion, who has not been apprehended, would ride to the top floor of a building, preferably on a Saturday afternoon, and climb through the transoms of all unoccupied offices.

Kane, Drury said, had nothing to do with the actual burglaries. "He was just a financier," the thief told Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan and Lieut. Thomas Kelly. "He knew the securities were stolen and was willing to sell them for me. Don't let him tell you anything else. I know I've got to go down for life as a habitual criminal. I hope Kane goes with me."

The police announced that $39,000 of the bonds stolen by Drury had been recovered.

SEN. COUZENS GIVEN BLOOD TRANSFUSION; RECOVERY IS LAGGING

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—United States Senator James Couzens of Michigan was given a blood transfusion today at the Mayo Brothers' clinic, where a week ago he underwent the last of three operations, this time for the removal of a kidney. Doctors tonight said there was "little change."

While asserting that the transfusion did not mean that the patient was in any immediate danger, clinic physicians admitted disappointment over the progress he has made in the last two days. They said the transfusion was given to further his recovery, inasmuch as he had lost considerable blood in the operations, particularly the last one. Immediately after it the senator's condition had been reported as satisfactory.

RAIDERS DEPART FOR SHOWBOAT; 5 WAGONS WAIT

Four policemen, led by Sergt. Frank O'Sullivan of Commissioner Allman's office, left Navy pier early today in a speedboat after announcing that they would raid the Showboat Sam barge, a night club and alleged gambling resort anchored two miles out in the lake.

At Sergt. O'Sullivan's request five patrol wagons from north side stations were concentrated at the pier to be used in hauling prisoners to jail. They were still awaiting the return of the policemen at 3 a. m.

Believed Reply to British Ships Sent to Red Sea

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—(Friday.)—(AP)—Sixty Italian submarines have been ordered held in readiness for naval maneuvers at Augusta, their base in southern Sicily, Le Matin reported today in a dispatch from Bolzano, Italy. The developments were regarded in informed quarters here as a reply to the recent dispatch of British warships to the Red sea.

LONDON — British Prime Minister Baldwin cuts short vacation to return to London. Britain seeks details on Mussolini's assurance that "there is nothing for England to fear" regarding Italy's Ethiopian policy. Page 9.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 29.—Diplomatic activity reminiscent of the feverish days preceding the outbreak of the world war prevailed in Paris today. French efforts to avert the impending league of nations crisis over Ethiopia seemed balked under the impact of Premier Mussolini's latest outburst and the restrained but uncompromising British reaction to it.

Premier Laval conferred this morning with Sir George Clerk, the British ambassador. They discussed Laval's scheduled meeting on Monday with Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league of nations affairs.

British Maintain Stand.

Though the conversation was officially stated to have been limited to the subject of Capt. Eden's visit, which will occur two days before the league council meeting, it was generally believed that Ambassador Clerk gave Laval to understand that the communique issued yesterday by Mussolini in no way alters the British position. England, Clerk indicated, stands firm on the question of sanctions [penalties] providing the council finds Italy the aggressor in the Ethiopian dispute.

Equal importance is attached here to the visit of the Italian ambassador, Victor Cerruti, to the Quai d'Orsay tonight, though what was discussed in the 45 minute conversation with Laval is an official secret.

Senator Pope Calls.

In addition to these visits Laval received the Belgian chargé d'affaires today.

The bulk of the French press continues to be strongly pro-Italian for reasons best known to itself, but a distinct note of alarm pierced through the commentaries today.

The belief that England will back down as soon as the idea penetrates that Mussolini really means business is beginning to waver.

BELGIUM'S KING ESCORTING BODY OF QUEEN HOME

How Astrid Died in Auto Crash Told.

A picture taken at the actual scene of the crash which cost the life of Queen Astrid of the Belgians is to be found on the back page of this issue.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

LUCERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 29.—The body of Belgium's beloved young Queen Astrid, killed today in an automobile crash, was started on a sorrowful journey home tonight, accompanied by her grief stricken husband, King Leopold.

Leopold, his shoulders thrown back and his head held high, watched the coffin, wound in black crêpe and hidden by flowers, put aboard a special royal train.

Then he swung aboard a sleeping car, followed by Premier Paul van Zeeland, who had arrived by airplane from Brussels, and other members of the royal entourage.

[Queen Astrid's body arrived from Switzerland by special train at 8:40 a. m. Friday (2:40 a. m., Chicago time).]

Dies in King's Arms.

Astrid, 29 years old and mother of three children, was fatally injured when thrown from a car Leopold was driving near Kussnacht this morning. She died in his arms on the roadside while a village priest gave extreme unction. Leopold, who will be 34 years old on Nov. 3, was not seriously injured.

The injury which caused Astrid's death, a fracture of the skull, was identical with that which killed her father-in-law, King Albert, 18 months ago.

Doctors who performed a hurried autopsy said the forehead wound was in the same position as the one which ended Albert's life in his tragic fall while mountain-climbing in Belgium.

Retains Beauty in Death.

"Her face suffered hardly any disfigurement at all," said Sister Brun, the nurse who prepared the body for burial. "She has a slight bruise under her chin. Otherwise she remains as beautiful in death as she was before the tragedy. Her eyes were still clear before they were closed."

In Brussels Astrid's three children went happily to bed tonight—unaware of their mother's death. The children returned home from Villa Hallshorn, the late King Albert's residence, last night.

Two nuns rode beside the queen's body in a baggage car, transformed into a chapel. Astrid became a Catholic after her "love" marriage to Leopold.

Thousands at Station.

Police had difficulty in holding back thousands who jammed the railroad station to see the departure. Professional pallbearers carried the coffin down the tracks to the car, which was then backed into the station with its doors closed.

Leopold, who had knelt two hours alone before the coffin at dusk at the royal villa, had his right arm in a sling and there was a gash on his forehead. He walked down the tracks with Van Zeeland, behind the queen's body, then climbed into his car, which was hooked to the funeral car.

The accident occurred while the royal couple were on their way to do some mountain climbing. The queen was dressed in sport clothes, while Leopold wore an Alpine costume and hobnailed boots.

Queen's Skull Fractured.

The royal couple's car swerved and struck a tree when Leopold took his eyes from the road to look at a map Astrid was examining. Moving at 45 miles an hour, the car hit the tree, bumped over an eight inch curb and rolled over among the reeds beside the road in shallow water of the Lake of Lucerne.

King Leopold was thrown from behind the wheel of the big American model touring car and fell not far from the queen, who lay beside the tree that had killed her.

She was unconscious. Leopold was knocked senseless, but was standing beside his wife when aid came.

Takes Wife in His Arms.

The ruler, his face bleeding, then took his dying wife into his arms and kissed her again and again. He spoke to her, but she gave no signs of recognizing him.

The chauffeur, who sat in the rear seat, remained in the car as it went over the curb and into the water. His face bruised and cut by glass from the smashed windshield, he scrambled out and went to the king and queen.

The tragedy occurred about 11:30 a. m. along a beautiful road skirting the lake.

King Tells of Crash.

King Leopold told briefly of what happened, piecing out his knowledge of the accident with what the chauffeur said. Members of the household in a second car far behind saw nothing.

A farmer on the other side of the road heard the crash. He ran and telephoned for Dr. Steinegger, then called gendarmes. The doctor was first to arrive, with two gendarmes, Hugo Ruckestuhl and Jean Rogg.

"The first person I noticed," said Ruckestuhl, "was a man standing with torn clothes near a tree by the roadside.

"I recognized immediately from photographs that he was the king of the Belgians. I addressed him, but he said nothing. I looked on the ground and saw the queen lying dead.

King Stunned by Blow.

"The king was not crying. He seemed stunned by the blow and stared at his dead wife with his face drawn.

"A man and woman who were beside him said they were part of the entourage and a woman gave me the king's and queen's joint passport, which was in the name of M. and Mme. Lambert.

"My reconstruction of the accident, which happened on a wide, straight highway, makes it seem the king must have taken his eyes off the road.

"For whatever reason it was, the car swerved, hit the curb, bounced against the tree, and then into the water. The queen must have been killed by the shock when the car struck the tree.

"The king stood as though he were in a trance beside the body of the queen until the doctor suggested we ride back to Kussnacht to get his wounds dressed there before going to Lucerne.

King Waits for Ambulance.

"The king waited until the ambulance arrived from Lucerne, then climbed into the car and went to Kussnacht, from which he followed his wife's body to Lucerne. The chauffeur was taken back to Lucerne.

"It was horrible. Gendarme Jean Rogg and I were first impressed by the fact the king did not talk, but later we learned he could not because his jaw was injured. The whole scene was one of shock and amazement.

"The doctor just examined the queen and found she was dead. The king's entourage told me she died in his arms. The king must have stood beside the body of his dead wife for an hour before the ambulance arrived."

Police said the queen was thrown more than twelve feet when the car struck the tree. Such was the force of the collision that the radiator was torn completely off the car.

Swiss authorities announced an official inquiry into the accident would be made.

A stone marker already has been put on the spot where the queen was killed. Officials said a permanent one would be placed there later.

MANY EUROPEAN PERSONAGES IN RECENT MISHAPS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Many prominent European personages have figured in accidents in Europe during the last two years. Among them were:

King Albert of the Belgians, killed while mountain climbing at Marche-les-Dames, Belgium, Feb. 17, 1934.

Former King Alfonso of Spain was in an auto collision in Vienna, in which Dr. K. Smetena was killed and two hurt, on July 19, 1934.

Prince Gonzalo of Spain died of hemophilia after an auto accident near Krumpendorf, Austria, Aug. 14, 1934.

Former Premier and Mme. Pierre Etienne Flandin injured in auto collision near Auxerre, France, May 5, 1935.

Former King Alfonso of Spain and aid hurt when car overturned near Rome, July 6, 1935.

ENTERS FIRST CONVICTION IN SALES TAX CASE

Judge Francis Borrelli in the South State street court entered yesterday the first conviction obtained in the Chicago area for violation of provisions of the Illinois retailers' occupational [sales] tax act. The defendant, Maier Kushner, 40 years old, owner of a bakery at 3340 Lawrence avenue, was found guilty of failure to pay $220 in tax collections since the law became effective on July 1, 1933. Kushner lives at 4821 Kimball avenue.

Mortimer Porges, assistant Illinois attorney general, prosecuted the case. Conviction, he said, carries a possible fine of $25 to $5,000, or imprisonment from thirty days to six months, or both. Judge Borrelli, however, set for Sept. 28 a hearing on a motion for a new trial, giving Kushner an opportunity to pay his arrearage.

Philip J. Simon, attorney for Kushner, asserted that his client had paid $30 in tax since Feb. 5 of this year. He pleaded that Kushner had made an effort to pay the tax, but had been unable to do so because of unusual family expenses.

PILOT DIES WITH ARMY CAPTAIN AS FATHER WATCHES

Prineville, Ore., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—With the father of one a witness, two army flyers from the Vancouver, Wash., barracks were killed in a plane crash here today. The men who lost their lives were Capt. H. W. Killpack, 35, and Lieut. Wister Rosenburg, 31, the pilot.

The pilot's father, Dr. J. H. Rosenburg, who witnessed the crash, said the plane fell from a height of about 100 feet.

RISE OF PRINCESS TO QUEEN READS LIKE FAIRY TALE

Astrid's Brilliant Wedding to Leopold Recalled.

The blue eyed Queen Astrid of the Belgians [her name signifies "the well beloved" in Viking] has been a figure of romance for Americans since her love match with the duke of Brabant, the Crown Prince Leopold, who became her husband in 1926 and later became king on the accidental death of his father, Albert.

It all seemed very democratic and American as the stories came out of Stockholm in the fall of 1926, just nine years ago, telling of the courtship of the Belgian prince. It read like a fairy story, with the prince taking on the disguise of a servant and traveling as a butler or pantryman in order to spend a few days with his sweetheart in the countryside of southern Sweden.

Ascended to Throne in 1934.

When the engagement was announced the simplicity was swept away. From then on until the brilliant court ceremonies of Nov. 3 and 4, 1926, when kings and cardinals and diplomats crowded upon the stage, the royal couple moved amid scenes of medieval splendor. Then came the ascension to the throne, in February, 1934, and the story seemed complete.

Queen Astrid was no Cinderella, however. She was the daughter of Prince Carl, duke of Vaestergoetland, brother of King Gustav of Sweden, and related by blood to the English royal family.

This was one reason why her reported engagement at one time to the prince of Wales was denied in British court circles.

The queen was trained from childhood to many accomplishments, not the least of which was that of being a good housewife. It is said that her knowledge of cooking was sound and that on the eve of her wedding she baked a birthday cake for her fiancé.

She was slender, of medium height and her dress was always simple. She was a good horsewoman, a beautiful dancer, a linguist, and a musician.

There is the picture of the princess and her fiancé taking an evening stroll in the public park at Stockholm before their marriage. They sought to be alone and to avoid pomp. The winter park, the royal lovers alone! That was one scene.

Pageantry of Marriage.

Then came the pageantry of the marriage. There had to be two marriages, for Astrid was a Protestant while the prince was a Catholic. The civil ceremony took place in Stockholm, the church ceremony in Brussels. Here is a description of the Brussels ceremony:

"Princess Astrid, pretty Swedish girl with American frankness and American stride, appeared as a bride out of a legend to her future people. She wore a dress of silver lace, full length veil of priceless Brussels lace, caught tightly around her chestnut hair by a wreath of silver filagree and tiny orangebuds and falling on an amazing train carried by four little counts in white satin and white plumes.

"In the old cathedral, hung with priceless tapestries, she and Leopold knelt before the altar, ablaze with 1,000 candles, while two kings and queens, of Belgium and Denmark, thirty-four princes and princesses of blood, and lesser nobility, ablaze with decorations, looked on.

"Arm in arm, while tens of thousands of persons massed in the narrow streets since dawn cheered and waved handkerchiefs and bands played the Swedish and Belgian anthems and troops presented arms, Leopold and Astrid descended the cathedral's monumental steps under an arch of swords. Their progress through the streets and appearance on the high balcony of the royal palace were triumphs, with Astrid all dignity and grace, waving her bride's bouquet of orchids and white lilies of the valley to the crowds."

Spent Honeymoon in France.

All memories now! She was then 21 years old and her husband was four years older. There was a three months' honeymoon in France. The return to Brussels was the occasion of a popular fête and during the intervening years the young queen found a deep place in the heart of the Belgian people.

By the time Astrid became queen on Feb. 23, 1934, she had a son, Crown Prince Baudouin, then 3 years old, and a daughter, Princess Josephine Charlotte, 6 years old. The entire assembly shouted "Long Live the Queen" when Astrid, during the impressive coronation ceremony, broke the strict etiquet of the occasion by taking her small son from the grand red and gold chair where he was fidgeting and placing him firmly in her lap.

As queen her home life and solicitude for the nation's poor endeared her further to the people. Recently she spent many hours working to speed relief supplies to sufferers in the mining districts. On many occasions she was seen pushing a perambulator in the public park, airing the royal baby. Her characteristic gesture of greeting the people, a wave of the hand with the knuckles outward, has come into popular use throughout the country.

Three Children Born.

Three times the people were called to rejoice at the birth of a baby to the royal couple. The last time was on June 7, 1934, when a boy was born at the palace. The baby boy was given the title of prince of Liege, and at a private baptismal service was given seven names—Albert Umberto Felix Theodore Christian Eugene Marie.

King Leopold succeeded to the a throne a week after his father was killed while taking a solitary climb in the hills near Namur, Belgium, Feb. 17, 1934. Leopold was 32 years old at the time.

ROOSEVELT VOICES HIS SYMPATHY IN MESSAGE TO KING OF BELGIANS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sent a message to Leopold, king of the Belgians, declaring the American people "will share the grief of the Belgian people in the loss of a queen who so graciously personified the ideals of Belgium." Secretary of State Hull already had conveyed condolences to Prince Eugene de Ligne, chargé d'affaires, on a visit to the embassy. The President's message said:

"Mrs. Roosevelt and I have been deeply moved at the tragic news of the death of her majesty, the queen.

"We hasten to extend to your majesty our heartfelt sympathy.

"The people of the United States will share the grief of the Belgian people in the loss of a queen who so graciously personified the ideals of Belgium.

"I earnestly hope that your majesty will rapidly recover from the injuries which I understand you have personally suffered.

BELGIANS IN CITY PLAN MEMORIAL RITES FOR QUEEN

Local memorial services for Queen Astrid of the Belgians will be held at 10:30 a. m. next Wednesday in St. John Berchman's church, 2517 Logan boulevard. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. A. Purcell will officiate.

This was announced yesterday by E. Rosier, Belgian consul in Chicago, as he and the 10,000 members of the local Belgian colony mourned the death of the young queen.

"We are all deeply grieved," M. Rosier said. "The queen was loved by all the people. The news is very hard to believe."

ROGERS' POLICIES ONLY $530,000, SAYS JONES, RFC

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Jesse H. Jones said today he had been authorized by Mrs. Will Rogers to announce that her husband carried only $530,000 insurance.

The RFC chairman, an old friend, has talked with her daily by telephone since Rogers was killed in an Alaskan plane crash.

Jones quoted Mrs. Rogers as saying first reports that Lloyd's, Ltd., of London, had paid a 2½ million dollar insurance policy were erroneous.

He said Rogers carried $250,000 in accident insurance, and $280,000 in regular life insurance.

NEW MORRISON WITNESSES TO BE QUIZZED TODAY

The inquest into the slaying of Kenneth A. Morrison, assistant controler of the Chicago parks district, who was found shot to death in his automobile in front of 628 Alaska street, early in the morning of Aug. 13, will be resumed at the county morgue this afternoon. A number of witnesses who have not testified at previous hearings have been ordered to attend the inquest.

Capt. Andrew Barry and Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle, who have been investigating the puzzling murder, will question Miss Mary Peppin, former secretary to Morrison, before the inquest is opened. Miss Peppin, who has been vacationing in Dubuque, Ia., is expected back in the city this morning.

BELGIUM WEEPS AND PRAYS FOR HER YOUNG QUEEN

Brussels Shocked; Hush Falls Over City.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 29. — (AP) — Belgium, stunned by the sudden and tragic death of her young and gracious queen, expressed her grief tonight in an official communique which said:

"Still under the shock of the tragic death of King Albert, Belgium weeps for the queen whose youth, grace, and kindness has conquered her people."

King Leopold was expected to arrive at 8:50 a. m. tomorrow [about 2:50 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time] by special train with the body, and the funeral probably will be held Monday. Prayers were held in all churches and will continue daily through the period of mourning. Messages expressing sympathy and grief over the tragedy were received at the royal palace from capitals all over the world.

Children Unaware of Death.

The three children of the dead queen went to bed without having been told of her death. They arrived here this morning by train. They had left their parents in Lucerne last night.

A strange hush fell over the city, which is reputedly one of the noisiest and most cheerful in Europe, as it entered a period of mourning which may last six months.

The mothers of Belgium were particularly affected by the accident which took the life of the happy young mother. Astrid had glorified household arts and had been the constant and devoted companion of her royal husband.

Country Is Stunned.

In the words of the official statement, which came in the form of a cabinet proclamation:

"The whole country is in consternation. It shares the immense sorrow of the king. It is gathered faithfully and close around him.

"It bows with deep felt tenderness over the royal princes and princess who have a mother no longer."

From the lowlands near Antwerp to the wooded Aix-la-Chappelle hills, the red, yellow, and black of the national colors flapped limply at half staf in a fitful breeze atop public buildings and private homes.

Premier Flies to Lucerne.

Premier Paul Van Zeeland, after a special cabinet meeting at which the queen's death was announced, flew to Lucerne to join King Leopold.

A special train left tonight for the Luxembourg frontier to await the Swiss train. The Belgian train will bear the body to the capital.

The stock exchange and all public entertainments were canceled for a period of mourning. Crowds gathered in small groups and quietly discussed the tragedy that befell the beloved queen.

The usually noisy and colorful sidewalk cafés were almost deserted. Many of their habitues joined thousands who journeyed to the palace to stand outside the massive gates in silent mourning.

Pray for Dead Queen.

Peasants trudging homeward from their day's work in the fields heard church bells mournfully calling the populace to prayers for the dead queen. Tears streamed down the faces of both simple country women and smartly dressed ones in the city.

Here and there women, and men occasionally, were seen to drop on their knees and remain for a few minutes in silent prayer. Other silent groups gathered about the proclamation of mourning signed by the cabinet ministers and posted throughout the country.

QUEEN MOTHER LEAVES NAPLES FOR BRUSSELS WITH HER DAUGHTER

ROME, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth of Belgium was informed today at Naples by a staf officer of Crown Prince Umberto of Italy of the tragic death of her daughter-in-law, Queen Astrid of the Belgians.

Because she still is ill with grief over the death eighteen months ago of her late husband, King Albert, the news of the tragedy was withheld from her until late afternoon.

Then, with her daughter, Princess Marie Jose of Belgium, the wife of Prince Umberto, she was informed of the accident. The two women, in tears, retired to their private apartments in the crown prince's palace in Naples while palace physicians administered to them. Later Queen Mother Elizabeth and Marie Jose, garbed in deep mourning, left Naples by royal coach for Belgium.

THREE LAKE COTTAGES BURN.

Logansport, Ind., Aug. 29. — [Special.] — Three cottages, valued at $6,000, were destroyed by fire at Lake Bruce near here at noon today.

ASTRID'S PARENTS CHARTER A PLANE TO JOIN LEOPOLD

Sweden Stunned by Death of Queen.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Ageing Prince Carl and Princess Ingeborg mournfully chartered an airplane today to fly to join the grief stricken husband of their daughter, Queen Astrid of the Belgians.

They were almost prostrated by the word of the automobile accident in which their daughter was killed. They regained their composure quickly, however, and it was Princess Ingeborg herself who asked that the plane be chartered.

The news had been broken to them at their country home at Fridhem, the scene of many happy family reunions of former years. Princess Astrid used to romp there with her sisters. Since her marriage to Leopold she has brought her children there for an annual visit with their grandparents.

Weep in Streets.

The grief of the queen's parents was shared by the citizens of Stockholm, who wept openly in the streets. The Belgian queen had the undisputed reputation in this, her native land, as the most beloved of Swedish princesses. No single event in years has so stunned Sweden.

Business in Stockholm was momentarily halted as word of the accident spread about. Workmen dropped their tools to read the newspaper accounts.

The tremendous popularity of Astrid here had its last expression during the marriage of Princess Ingrid to Crown Prince Frederic of Denmark, when crowds cheered wildly the sight of the Belgian queen who twice ventured into a drizzling rain that she might wave greetings to her admirers.

Had Democratic Training.

No princess had a more democratic training than Astrid. Her education, a classical one, included a course in housekeeping and cooking. Many visitors to Prince Carl's home in days gone by had tea served by the young princess.

News of her death also shocked Norway and Denmark, where flags were immediately ordered at half staf, while extra editions of newspapers were sold out as soon as they had been run off the presses.

AUSTRIA STOPS HIGH TREASON TRIAL OF WAR HERO-DETECTIVE

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The court martial trying Otto Steinhaeusl, world war hero and ace detective, for high treason as the alleged head of the July, 1934, putsch, was indefinitly adjourned today.

The prosecutor, in requesting the adjournment, explained that a new witness who had just been found thinks he saw Steinhaeusl somewhere near the Ballhausplatz on the day of the putsch which resulted in the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

"Inasmuch as we are not convinced of the reliability of this witness, we would like some time to investigate him and his story," the prosecutor said.

MOSCOW TELLS PLANS TO START WORLD REVOLTS

Reds in U. S. Ordered to Join Workers, Farmers.

MOSCOW, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Resolutions adopted by the recent Communist Internationale congress, whose activities brought a protest from the United States to the soviet government, instructed comrades in individual countries to "bring the working masses closer to a revolutionary assumption of power," it was disclosed today.

The American protest of Sunday, based on a claim of soviet interference in United States' internal affairs, was rejected two days later by the soviet. Moscow disclaimed control of the Comintern, or Communist Internationale.

Urges Disbandment of Police.

One of three resolutions made public today said in instances where the present ruling classes "are unable efficiently to cope with mass movements" communists should campaign "for control over production and banks and disbandment of police, to be replaced by an armed workers' militia."

Their actions should be directed toward "shattering the economic and political power of the bourgeoisie and increasing the power of the workers' class," the resolution said. It was presented by Gregory Dimitroff, communist acquitted in the reichstag fire trial, and was adopted unanimously at the closing session of the congress Aug. 20.

Instructions were intended for communist parties in all capitalist countries, the resolution said, and in the United States communists should work for a coalition in the form of a proposed workers-farmers party.

Sees War on U. S. Nearing.

An English attempt to create an international balance of power against the United States, the Italian delegate, M. Hercole, said in a second resolution adopted by the congress, is "accelerating the outbreak of a world imperialistic war."

He charged the United States and England with stirring up Latin-American countries to fight out their differences for them and said Anglo-American rivalry was the underlying motive for the Chaco war and differences between Colombia and Peru.

"England is aiming to create a world-wide counter balance against the United States and simultaneously to increase anti-soviet tendencies in Germany, Poland, and Japan," Hercole asserted. He accused Germany, Poland, Hungary, and Italy in particular of attempting to "redivide the world," but listed the United States among the countries endeavoring to keep the status quo.

The resolutions were drawn up prior to the American protest. Their publication in the official party organ Pravda today was accompanied by no comment on Washington's action.

3 MEN KILLED, 2 HURT IN LABORATORY BLAST AT WILMINGTON PLANT

Three men were killed and two others were injured yesterday in an explosion in the laboratory of the Orenda corporation's plant at Wilmington, 60 miles southwest of Chicago in southern Will county. The blast was followed by a fire that destroyed the laboratory, a one story building at the rear of the main plant.

The dead were Carl Rose, 35 years old, of Wilmington, assistant chemist, whose body was removed from the laboratory after the flames had subsided; Charles Mitchell Jr., 21, of Morris, Ill., a laboratory assistant, and Robert Johnson, 61, of Wilmington another laboratory employé. Mitchell, a student of the Missouri School of Mines at Rolla, Mo., and Johnson died several hours after the accident in St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet.

Seriously injured in the blast and fire are Armand Bollaret, 28 years old, of Wilmington, chief chemist, and Frank Eichorn, 35, of 8547 Laflin street, Chicago, plant superintendent of the Lehon company, 44th street and Oakley avenue, a subsidiary of the Orenda corporation. Both companies manufacture felt and roofing materials.

OLD SETTLERS' PICNIC POLICED BY DEPUTY, 100

Some 1,500 pioneer residents of Aurora and adjoining territory attended the annual old settlers' picnic yesterday and were marshaled under the watchful eye of a special deputy sherif, Bert Wilder, 100 years old, who flashed a gold badge and warned he would tolerate no "cutting up and wouldn't stand for any rough stuff." Wilder, deputized the previous day by Sherif Albert Kampmeyer of Kane county, made no arrests. His "kid brother," Lewis, who celebrated his 92d birthday Wednesday, was unofficial assistant to Deputy Wilder.

The old settlers swapped yarns and a few of them danced to old time music. The principal speech was made by Mayor C. M. Bjorseth of Aurora.

Attending the picnic, sponsored by the Aurora Historical society, were Preston McDole, 96 years old, whose father worked as a surveyor with Abraham Lincoln, and J. M. Kennedy, 94 years old, one of Aurora's last three survivors of the civil war. The women of the Wesley Methodist church served lunch.

WOMAN DIES OF BURNS.

Eleanor Hine, 29 years old, 4157 North Mozart street, died in the Swedish Covenant hospital yesterday from burns incurred Aug. 1 when a fluid with which she was cleaning clothes exploded in the kitchen of her home.

3 TRUCKS FIGURE IN 3 ACCIDENTS; 3 YOUTHS KILLED

One Dies as a Rear Wheel Entangles Bicycle.

Three boys were killed yesterday in three separate trafic accidents in Cook county, each accident involving a truck.

William Broad, 13 years old, 436 10th street, Wilmette, was killed when the bicycle he was riding became entangled with the rear wheel of a truck and he was thrown to the pavement in the 700 block on Main street, Wilmette.

The truck was driven by Jacob Hahn, 36 years old, 3252 Cullom avenue, an employé of the Inland Supply company. He was not held.

Auto Hits Truck; One Dies.

Stanley Owczarski, 17 years old, 1232 West Huron street, was killed when the truck in which he was riding was struck by an automobile at Racine avenue and Jackson boulevard. Max Cutencheon, 41 years old, a farmer and driver of the truck, was injured, as was Roy Selver, 29 years old, 1456 West Monroe street, driver of the automobile.

Selver was held for the inquest after witnesses told police he had driven past a red trafic signal.

Frank Smith Jr., 10 years old, colored, of 412 East 43d street, was killed when he fell from a truck on which he was hitching a ride. The rear wheel of the machine passed over his head. Maurice Lambo, 27 years old, 1412 East 47th street, driver of the truck, was held for the inquest.

Death Toll Mounts to 609.

These deaths and one other increased the 1935 trafic toll for Cook county to 609. Until 4 p. m. yesterday 479 persons had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 10,909 injured. The other victim:

Mrs. Catherine O'Leary, 37 years old, 5248 South Ashland avenue. Died in the Englewood hospital last night of injuries incurred Wednesday when she was run down by an auto as she was crossing 63d street at Racine avenue. The driver, Len Henry, 34 years old, 6210 Justine street, was ordered to appear today at the inquest.

Freed of Charge He 'Jailed' WomenReliefAids in Home

Judge Frank M. Padden in the Chicago avenue police court yesterday dismissed charges of false imprisonment against Edward Swirski, 35 years old, 5520 South Rockwell street. Swirski, an unemployed accountant, was accused of locking two women relief workers in a room of his house for two hours after a dispute which began when the women tried to show him and his wife how to get along on their $49 monthly relief allotment.

DECLINE SHOWN IN AUTO DEATH TOLL OF NATION

Predict 35,100 Fatalities During 1935.

BY HAL FOUST.

The National Safety council predicted yesterday that 35,100 persons will be killed by automobiles in the United States in 1935 as compared with 36,000 in the record year of 1934. The prediction is based upon a proportionate decline during the last seven months.

Twenty-one states have reported fewer deaths in 1935 than in 1934. The drop in Illinois was 14 per cent. The reductions in some of the other states are: Rhode Island, 34 per cent; Delaware, 22; Minnesota, 18; Oregon, 18; Massachusetts, 16; Iowa, 8; Pennsylvania, 7; Michigan, 4, and California, 3.

Auto Makers Stress Safety.

At the same time additional evidence was produced to indicate that automobile manufacturers are taking a more active interest in accident prevention and that the influence and power of this industry will be exercised to reduce the nation's trafic toll.

At a luncheon in the Palmer house yesterday representatives of Dodge Brothers, a branch of the Chrysler corporation, disclosed that the company's 1936 sales campaign will carry the accident prevention theme. It was learned that other companies are planning similar campaigns.

The first active interest of the manufacturers was displayed early this year when their association endowed the Harvard university bureau of trafic research. Dr. Miller McClintock, director of this bureau, conducted a three year survey in Chicago, concluding with a recommendation for elevated highway construction as the only means of bringing about a major reduction in the loss of lives and limbs.

Study Fatigue of Drivers.

Dodge Brothers has conducted an exhaustive study of driving fatigue as it relates to accidents. Guests at the luncheon were shown charts of how a driver's functions are impaired by many hours and miles at the wheel.

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Two robbers, posing as agents from a theatrical producers office, tonight gained admittance to the apartment of Janice Dawson, actress, during a cocktail party and, after binding her and three guests, escaped with $4,000 worth of jewelery and about $60 in cash.

WILD RIDE COSTS DRIVER $305 AND 150 DAYS IN JAIL

James Koger, 34 years old, 6410 Ingleside avenue, was fined $305 and sentenced to 150 days in the Bridewell by Judge Francis Borrelli yesterday on four charges growing out of a "wild west" ride in his automobile the night of June 22. He was fined and sentenced on charges of reckless driving, leaving the scene of an accident, driving while intoxicated, and passing a stop light.

Testimony showed that Koger, a welder employed by the Chicago Steel Tank company, started his two mile ride through the south side by smashing into the rear of the automobile of Ludwig Trotter, 9705 Avenue L at Exchange and South Chicago avenues. He stopped only long enough to back away and drove on as Walter Hughes, 9921 Avenue H, Trotter's passenger, jumped on the running board. Then at Commercial avenue, Hughes testified, the car struck and injured Policeman George Kane. Koger drove on, Hughes testified.

Max Grieff, owner of a tailor shop at 2013 North Halsted street, was sentenced to the Bridewell for ten days and fined $100 by Judge Borrelli on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

John Tolekin, 20 years old, 2116 South 48th avenue, Cicero, was sentenced to five days in the Bridewell and fined $10 for speeding and reckless driving by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in the Trafic court last night. Thirty-eight others were fined for speeding.

Homewood Resident Killed by Illinois Central Train

Frank Grant, 52 years old, 17953 Park street, Homewood, was killed yesterday by a southbound Illinois Centrail railroad freight train near Homewood. George Fortin, engineer of the train, told police Grant was walking in the track and did not heed the warning blasts of the whistle.

U. S. DISMANTLES COUNTERFEITER'S $25,000 FACTORY

Federal secret service agents under Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan raided yesterday a counterfeiting plant at 3120 Wall street where, according to the agents, Harry Kritzke, 60 years old, an eccentric and an expert machinist, had been stamping out a series of silver dipped steel half dollars and quarters whose appearance was indistinguishable from genuine coins.

With Kritzke standing by and cheerfully giving suggestions for dismantling it, the agents laboriously carried out the heavy parts of a counterfeit stamping machine which Kritzke asserted he built himself. The machine and other expensive machinery in his basement machine shop were appraised at $25,000.

About 100 fake half dollar and quarter coins were found secreted about the shop and in the first floor flat occupied by Kritzke, who owns the two flat building. The raiders seized a number of steel dies for coins.

Arrest a Matter of Chance.

"If there had not been two detectives in the tavern" [at 2014 Canalport avenue], said Kritzke, "no one would have found out. I don't brag, but I will say my coins looked perfect. The hardest part is making the dies. You have to be an artist."

Kritzke was arrested Wednesday night by Maxwell street policemen who happened to be in the Canalport avenue tavern when Kritzke proffered a half dollar for a glass of beer. A boy tending bar dropped the coin, and when it failed to ring the policemen arrested Kritzke, finding several similar coins in his possession.

The secret service agents said Kritzke dipped his coins by hand and then pressed them under 50 ton pressure in the machine he built "piece by piece with my own hands."

Follows Lone Wolf Principle.

Apparently he worked alone. The federal men surmised that he passed his bogus coins to provide funds for his needs and his two luxuries, books and machinery, and that he may have accumulated a considerable amount of genuine money received in change.

For several years, according to agents under Capt. Callaghan, chief of the Chicago district of the secret service, federal operatives here have chanced repeatedly upon bogus half dollars and quarters which they now attribute to Kritzke.

In the flat where he has lived 28 years they observed his library and two busts which he had made. One is a likeness of his mother. Among his books are "Spofford's Library of Choice Literature," numerous volumes on electrical engineering, several Latin grammars, an encyclopedia in several volumes, a dictionary, a "rhyming dictionary," "Plato and Paul: or Philosophy and Christianity," a book entitled "Moral Philosophy," "Manual of Mental Science," "The History of Prostitution," several volumes of "Reference Handbok of the Medical Sciences," and a few on palmistry, astrology, and basic sciences.

Stars Give Bad Light.

"I knew I shouldn't have gone out Wednesday, as my knowledge of astrology told me I'd have bad luck," said Kritzke. "I won't have any good luck until December. But I never worry—my studies in psychology give me that advantage. Nothing bothers."

Kritzke probably will be arraigned today before Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of counterfeiting.

Son of King George to Wed

BRITISH RULERS ANNOUNCE THIRD SON'S BETROTHAL

Gloucester to Marry Into Old Family.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The engagement of the duke of Gloucester, third son of King George V. and Queen Mary of Great Britain, was unexpectedly announced by the British rulers today. His bride-to-be is Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas-Scott. No date for the wedding has been set.

The 35 year old duke and Lady Alice, who will be 34 next Christmas day, often have been seen together at dances and frequently went hunting on the moors at Drumlanrig castle, Scotland.

Announcement a Surprise.

However, today's announcement, which followed news of the accidental death of Queen Astrid of the Belgians, came as a surprise. Couched in the customary language of such announcements it read:

"It is with great pleasure that the king and queen announce the betrothal of their dearly beloved son, the duke of Gloucester, to Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas-Scott, the daughter of the duke and duchess of Buccleuch and Queensberry, to which union the king has gladly given his consent."

Lover of Sports.

Lady Alice is a lover of horses, sports and dancing. Her family is one of England's oldest and can trace its ancestry back to the natural son of Charles II. She has three brothers and four sisters. Her eldest brother, the earl of Dalkeith, is a Conservative member of parliament. Like her prospective royal husband, she is interested in Africa, having lived in Kenya colony.

With his brother's marriage the 41 year old prince of Wales will be the last bachelor among the king's sons.

The announcement today follows by a year and a day the announcement that the duke of Kent, Gloucester's younger brother, would marry Princess Marina of Greece.

THREE BARBERS FINED $25 EACH FOR CUTTING PRICE FIXED BY COURT

Superior Judge Peter H. Schwaba signed an order yesterday fining three barbers $25 each for violating the price fixing injunction obtained April 24 by the Master Barbers' association from Superior Judge John P. McGoorty. This injunction order fixed the price of hair cuts at 50 cents and shaves at 25 cents.

Attorney Harvey Young, representing the defendants, Tony Borino, 3 South Jefferson street; Tony Cerami, 525 West Madison street, and Angelo Nasello, 935 West Madison street, said he would appeal and a supercedas bond of $200 each was ordered for each of the barbers. The fines resulted from a contempt finding for their violation of the injunction after admitting they charged but 25 cents for hair cuts and 15 cents for shaves.

DELAY INQUEST IN FATAL BEATING.

The inquest into the death of Theodore Para, 17 years old, 4418 South Honore street, who died on Aug. 18 after having been beaten, was continued indefinitly yesterday to give police opportunity to find and question Walter Klosak, 19 years old, 1634 West 34th street.

ELECTION FRAUD WITNESS BEATEN AND THREATENED

Democratic Precinct Boss Named by Victim.

Ira J. Shipley, a witness against five election officials from the 53d precinct of the 27th ward, in a contempt case pending in the County court, charged yesterday that he had been assaulted and threatened with more serious punishment if he testified before Judge Edmund K. Jarecki on Sept. 11.

Shipley appeared before Judge Eugene J. Holland in the Des Plaines street court to press charges of assault and battery against John Burns, Democratic precinct captain. The hearing was continued to Sept. 10 over the objections of Thomas Johnson Jr., special prosecuting attorney for the election commissioners in fraud cases arising from the Nov. 6, 1934, general election. Burns, who refused to discuss the charges, is at liberty on a $50 cash bond.

"Just a Sample!"

Shipley was assaulted in front of the Star and Garter theater, Madison and Halsted streets, on Tuesday. He was struck several times on the face, his mouth and jaw being badly cut. He was then knocked down and kicked. His assailant, Shipley declared, was Burns, whom he quoted as saying:

Shipley, Prosecutor Johnson said, is to be a witness before Judge Jarecki in a contempt action against Reginald Franklin, 847 West Madison street; Charles Bodine, 847 West Monroe street; George B. Grant, 839 West Monroe street; Louis Eipers, 847 West Monroe street, and George Wood, 845 West Madison street. Shipley was a watcher in the 53d precinct polling place, certified by Judge Jarecki as a representative of the Women's Civic council. On the basis of his observations, contempt action was started against the five officials.

Finds Names Illegal.

"I was appointed a judge in my polling place for the election," Shipley said, "so I went to work on the canvass preliminary to the election. I discovered that 65 named on the lists were not legal residents of the precinct and ward. I told the election commissioners and they told me to mind my business or I would be removed. I threatened to tell the papers, so they said I could stay on the board."

On the eve of the election, however, Shipley said, he was notified of his removal from the election board. He obtained credentials as a watcher and was in the polling place throughout election day. His efforts to convince Grant, one of the officials accused of fraud, that he should testify for the state precipitated his beating, Shipley said.

'SUNSHINE' BROWNING BROKE; ASKS COURT TO GRANT HER $10,000

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The former Dorothy "Sunshine" Browning, who stands to inherit millions as the adopted daughter of the late Edward [Daddy] Browning, declared today that she was penniless.

The 19 year old girl, now the wife of Clarence B. Hood, of Dunn, N. C., petitioned the Surrogates' court to direct the executors of Browning's $7,000,000 estate, as yet unsettled, to pay her a $10,000 advance on her legacy.

In her petition, Mrs. Hood said her husband was out of work and unable to support her.

Her counsel and special guardian, Daniel A. Shirk, told the court that under the millionaire real estate dealer's will she was to receive $10,000 a year until she reached the age of 21, and $25,000 a year thereafter for the rest of her life.

Graham Urges Law to End Communist Gatherings

State Senator Richey V. Graham announced yesterday he had dispatched a letter to Gov. Horner in which he suggested that the governor include in his call for a special session of the legislature a provision for proposed legislation "to prevent gatherings of communists or others who are advocating the overthrow of this government." He said he expected Gov. Horner to appoint a committee soon which would meet with the governor on the subject of a special session, and that the matter would be taken up further then.

BUDGET BALANCE URGED ON CHIEF BY MORGENTHAU

Faces Battle by Ickes, Tugwell, et al.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.] — A policy of curtailing New Deal expenditures and of working toward a balanced budget within the early future is being urged on President Roosevelt by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., inquiry disclosed today.

Since July 18 when he first induced President Roosevelt to call a White House conference of potent New Dealers on the budget for the fiscal year opening July 1, 1936, Secretary Morgenthau has been steadily counseling the President that the budget must be balanced or a specific program for bringing it gradually into balance announced.

Disillusioned over the reëmployment obtained through vast public works and relief expenditures, Secretary Morgenthau is reported to have obtained the President's consent to a plan for lopping millions of dollars off the relief bill during the next fiscal year. How far Mr. Roosevelt agrees with his secretary of the treasury, however, still is uncertain.

Faces Intramural War.

Secretary Morgenthau is facing a free-for-all fight with Relief Administrator Hopkins, Public Works Administrator Ickes, Brain Truster Tugwell, and other advocates of "spending the nation back to recovery." Each of them carries as much weight as he does at the White House.

Whether Morgenthau can successfully assume the rôle of budget balancer which brought disaster to former Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas remains to be seen. The fight between Morgenthau and the spenders will intensify as the date for submitting a budget to the next session of congress, only four months away, approaches.

Secretary Morgenthau has been careful to guard his new position from public notice. The first indications of it came to light today when he declined to deny an article published in a current magazine disclosing that the treasury has submitted a plan to the President for bringing the budget into balance by the 1938-'39 fiscal year.

President Roosevelt himself hinted at the possible change in budgetary policy when on Aug. 20 he told a convention of directors for his new National Youth administration that "we may not have as much money" to spend in the new fiscal year opening July 1, 1936.

Power in Council Untried.

The President's position, however, is not definitly known. Although Morgenthau is his closest friend in the cabinet and the only official accorded a weekly luncheon meeting with the President, the power of the secretary of the treasury in the inner circles is still untested. A trusted administrator, he has held his position because of his loyalty to his chief; he now for the first time is coming into conflict with such powerful court favorites as Hopkins and Tugwell.

As a substitute for the staggering relief expenditures which he believes must be lifted from the government's budget, Secretary Morgenthau is toying with privately financed housing. He recently hired Peter Grimm, New York realtor, and put him to work coordinating and stimulating the New Deal activities in the housing field.

Secretary Morgenthau is attempting to keep Acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell, who has been his right hand man in the fight thus far, at the helm of the budget bureau. Bell, a career man with a high civil service position in the treasury's accounts division, has asked to be relieved of the budget duties. If the President and Morgenthau let him go they must appoint a successor within the next month because routine hearings on the budget start Oct. 1.

Wins Annulment

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Circuit Judge Walter J. LaBuy yesterday granted to Anna L. Burlingame, 21 years old, a graduate student at the University of Chicago, an annulment of her marriage to Curtis Shepard, 23 years old, a student at Beloit college, Beloit, Wis. The couple was married under assumed names by a justice of the peace in Rockford on Oct. 20, 1931. Miss Burlingame, who lives at 4452 Woodlawn avenue, said the marriage was performed on a "sudden impulse" and that the couple never had lived together.

National Guard Corporal Kills Self with Gun

Louis Pemberton, 23 years old, shot and fatally wounded himself yesterday in his room at the Lansing apartments, 1036 North Dearborn street, according to Chicago avenue police. His sister, Mrs. Bertha Born, 1345 Estes avenue, told police that Pemberton had been worrying about his health and recently had quit a job as an elevator operator to return to his family home at Centralia, Mo. A month ago Pemberton was returned to Chicago from a National Guard encampment at Camp McCoy, Mich., because of a nervous condition. He was a corporal in the 123d field artillery, Illinois National Guard.

NEB. POWER PLAN OF NORRIS STIRS MULLEN'S WRATH

Democratic Leader Has Two Pet Projects.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Arthur F. Mullen, Democratic leader from Nebraska, went to the White House today to lodge with President Roosevelt a wrathful protest against a $20,000,000 power project in Nebraska sponsored by George W. Norris, the radical senior senator of the state.

Mullen is attorney for two $7,000,000 power plants already approved by the Public Works administration. Senator Norris is backing the proposed new project, which will cost three times as much as either of the original projects, and which, according to reliable sources, will receive PWA approval in the near future.

Lack Sufficient Water.

What confuses the people of the state, according to an investigation, is that the backers of the first two projects were at war because there wasn't enough water power to keep both of them going.

Moreover, the state, with its 1,300,000 population, would be more than amply supplied with electrical energy from the two smaller plants. With approval of the new big project, engineers are wondering not only where to get the water, but what to do with the surplus power if and when the power plant goes into operation.

President Roosevelt is reported to have told his old friend, Mullen, that he would look into the matter. He also is reported to have told his equally warm friend, Senator Norris, that he was in favor of the latter's program. Boiled down, the situation seems to have resolved itself into a battle between Mullen and Norris to spend PWA funds first and to get enough water to run their respective plants afterward.

The first project approved by PWA was at Columbus, Neb., eighty miles west of Omaha, and situated on the Loupe river. The second was on the Platte river, 150 miles farther west, at Sutherland, Neb. Both were approved in the fall of 1933. In addition to the original grants and loans approximating $15,000,000, there was added an allocation of $2,500,000 later.

Much rivalry developed between these two projects. The fact that Mullen, national Democratic committeeman from the state until his resignation was forced in March, 1934, was attorney for both projects caused much criticism. There were also complaints that there was not enough water power for both.

With this dispute still unsettled, three counties about fifty miles south of the other two projects applied for a 44 million loan [later reduced to 20 millions] to finance a hydro-electric plant on the Platte river which was to be both an irrigation and power project.

Great bellows of protest went up from the backers of the first two projects when it was learned that the new project [called the Tri-County project] proposed the building of an irrigation canal drawing off water from the Platte which eventually would find its way to another watershed. But the tri-county area was in the heart of the drouth district last year and its inhabitants were deaf to all appeals. They wanted water for their lands and would listen to no arguments.

Mainly as a result of pressure by Senator Norris the Tri-County project recently was given favorable consideration by PWA officials and is slated for formal approval, it was learned. The chief argument advanced by a PWA representative was that the project would take 12 months to build and would employ 25,000 men.

Mullen is reported to have protested that construction of the third project would make all three projects unsound. There would be no field for an enormous amount of electrical energy, he declared, even if there should be enough water to make all three possible of operation.

Most of the water drawn off the Platte river by the Tri-County canal eventually would find its way to the Republican river watershed, it was pointed out. It was not made known whether Mullen in his argument to the President today pointed out that a river with such a name should not be benefited by a New Deal program.

Scenario Writer Found Shot Dead; Believed Suicide

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Carl Erickson, 27, scenarist who wrote the screen play, "Silver Dollar," starring Edward G. Robinson, was found shot to death today, under circumstances which police reports said indicated suicide. Two boy hikers found the body on a hill above a motion picture studio. Erickson was a graduate of the University of Michigan.

CREWS OF TRAINS GET ORDER FOR WABASH STRIKE

Tomorrow at 6:30 A. M. Set for Walkout.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Unless some settlement is made before 6:30 a. m. Saturday, approximately 4,500 employés of the Wabash Railway company will walk out at that hour. That was announced today by officials of "the big four brotherhoods."

The strike order also applies to employés of the Ann Arbor railway, a subsidiary. It involves the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Order of Railway Conductors, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Complaints Start with 1933.

Union heads charged that the railroad first cut pay without negotiating with employés as required by mutual agreement and also as required under the provisions of the railway labor act. That was in 1933.

Subsequently the employés carried the matter to the National Railroad Adjustment board that returned decisions favorable to the men. In spite of that, the union heads charge, the railroad has refused to put those decisions into effect.

A strike vote was taken on Aug. 10. Heads of the unions declared that "an overwhelming majority" of the men had voted to walk out Saturday unless, before that time, the railroad signifies its willingness to accept the decisions of the adjustment board.

S. E. Cotter, chief operating official of the Wabash, refused to make any comments as to the railroad's course of action except to say:

"We are not going to shut down the railroad."

Other officials of the road indicated their belief that the walkout would not take place, but that the United States mediation board would be called in. A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, also declared that the mediation board had been notified of the impending strike.

Resumes Big Navy Job.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—About 3,600 were back at their jobs today at the New York Shipbuilding company yards ending a three months' strike that tied up $50,000,000 of United States navy work.

The resumption of work followed an agreement with the company to have an arbitration board of three, set up by President Roosevelt.

Refuses to Ask Troops.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Officials of the Iowa Manufacturing company today urged Sherif James Smith for the National Guard to preserve order and protect property after 1,000 persons gathered about the concern's strike-bound plant last night. Stones were hurled through windows. Sherif Smith refused.

Opposes General Strike.

Coshocton, O., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today advised Robert McCormick, a federal organizer, against calling a general strike in Coshockton, Green's home town. Green urged settlement negotiations if possible.

Infantile Paralysis Strikes David Jack Holt, Actor

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—David Jack Holt, 8, juvenile film actor, was quarantined at the Los Angeles general hospital today for infantile paralysis. He was admitted last night and later received a blood transfusion.

Glorifying BAKED BEANS

Mr. Pixley says, "We must glorify our Boston-baked beans, Aunt Clara." If that hi-falutin' word means that we must make our beans famous, well, we're doin' it. Lan' sakes! folks from all over tell us how wonderful our beans are, and why wouldn't they be, us usin' only the best Michigan navy beans and bakin' 'em for 20 hours with jes' the right seasonin'; then servin' 'em with rich, brown bread means jes' one thing—a dish fit fer a king. And my doctor nephew says their food value is lots higher'n meat.

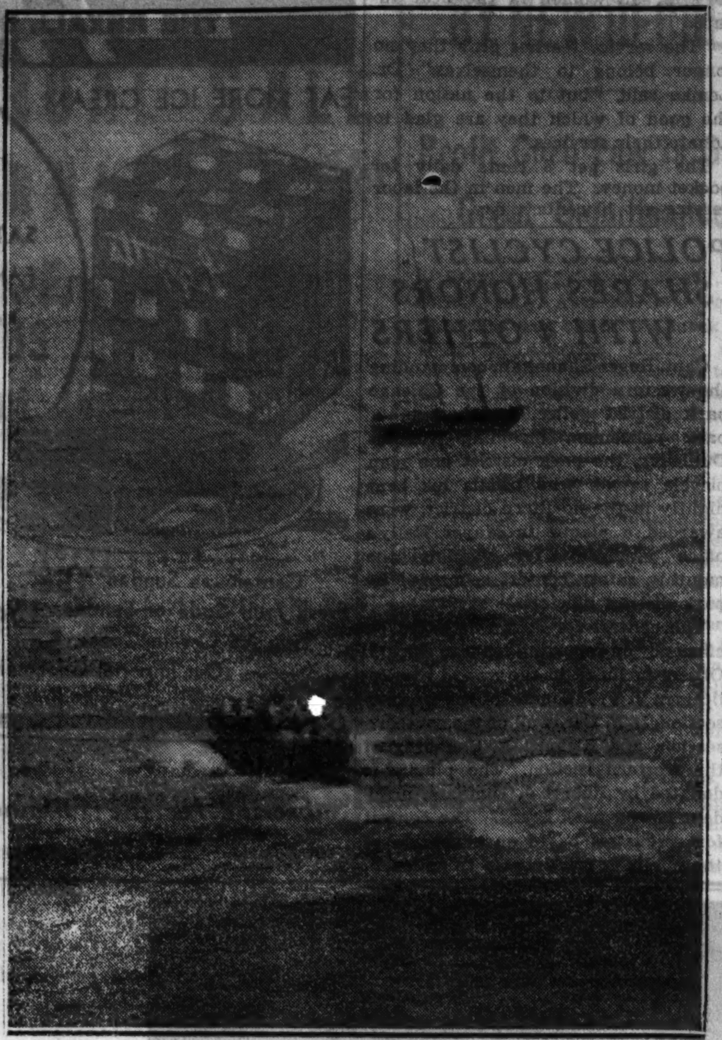
LINER REX SAVES FIVE AT SEA



Lifeboat from the Italian liner Rex (in foreground) as it approached the disabled yacht La Dahama in mid-Atlantic. The yacht owner, Albert H. G. Welsh, and four members of crew were saved.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

5 SAVED AFTER TROPICAL GALE SMASHES YACHT

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The owner and four members of the crew of the yacht La Dahama came to port safely today aboard the Italian liner Rex. They told of days of peril far at sea. For three days they stood waist deep in water, with little food and less sleep, pumping to keep the damaged yacht afloat.

Those rescued were Albert H. G. Walsh of Philadelphia, owner-captain; Lars M. Larsen, and three seamen, Lais Martin, Sverre Larsen, and Harold Peterson.

When 700 miles out of Bermuda, bound for France, a week ago a tropical hurricane hit the yacht, which was close reefed when the wind struck at a hundred miles an hour. The main mast snapped. The yacht ran before the hurricane for three days. The auxiliary motor was flooded; keel bolts were loosened.

La Dahama was equipped with receiving radio, but could not send. The crew could hear ships talking to one another, some of them nearby, but could make no call for rescue. They had no food for the last three days. The yacht was unmanageable and low in the water when the Rex sighted it Tuesday morning. Navigating instruments and the personal effects of the men aboard the yacht were saved.

Bubonic Plague Sweeps Manchukuo; 78 Lives Lost

LADIES' GARMENT WORKERS ADOPT PAY AGREEMENT

Members of five local union organizations of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union met at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium last night to approve an agreement drafted by the union officers and officials of the Chicago Dress Manufacturers' association. It was estimated that more than 4,000 members of a total union membership of 7,000 voted at the meeting.

The new agreement continues in effect the same wage scale that has existed for the last two years. The scale for the various classes of employés ranges from $14 a week for apprentices to $39 for skilled cutters.

Morris Bialis, vice president of the international union, said that under the terms of the new contract employers may not discharge employés without first obtaining approval of an arbitration board to be set up permanently. The new contract is for a period of six months.

"DRUDGE" Was Written All Over Her Face
. . . Until She Found Out About "Double Suds"

DOROTHY'S MOTHER IS SO MUCH OLDER THAN I THOUGHT SHE'D BE-AT LEAST HER HANDS AND FACE LOOK OLD--
WHY-THEY'RE TALKING ABOUT ME!
SHE'S THE SAME AGE AS MY MOTHER-BUT SHE ALWAYS DOES THINGS THE HARD WAY, MOTHER SAYS-USES CHEAP SOAP CHIPS -SCRUBS HER CLOTHES 'TIL SHE'S WORN OUT—ALWAYS STUCK AT HER MENDING TOO!
MARY-WHAT ARE YOU DOING TO YOURSELF? NEW BEAUTY TREATMENTS? I SWEAR YOU LOOK AS YOUNG AND PEPPY AS DOROTHY HERE--
I'VE HAD THINGS PRETTY EASY SINCE I STARTED USING THOSE AMERICAN FAMILY FLAKES—THE DOUBLE SUDS DO ALL THE HARD WORK FOR ME—I'M THROUGH HOURS SOONER AND CLOTHES NEVER WEAR OUT NOW!
SOMEONE ASKED TODAY IF WE WERE SISTERS--

THESE PICTURES SHOW the difference in washday labor when you use cheap soap chips, and when you use American Family Flakes. American Family makes double suds, cleans without hard rubbing, gets you through far quicker, gets clothes brighter, cleaner!

WHY YOU CAN'T AFFORD CHEAP SOAP CHIPS

AMERICAN FAMILY FLAKES
CHEAP SOAP CHIPS
Temperature—105°F.
in both cases

RIGHT: Only a few of the cheap chips have melted. Thin suds make washing twice as hard!

"Cheap Soap Chips Made Mother So Tired"
1643 Foster Ave., Chicago, Ill.

"Everyone in the family was so glad when mother changed to American Family Flakes. She hardly has to rub at all to get things clean now—and gets through the wash so much faster. My dresses all look much prettier, too—not faded the way they used to get in cheap soap chips."

Procter & Gamble

American Family Flakes Banish Rubbing Drudgery "Double Suds" Save Time, Save Clothes, Save Hands

One of life's most pitiful tragedies—women grown old-looking before their time, like the one shown above. Caused, often times, by needless washday drudgery. You find them rubbing and scrubbing till their backs ache. Chained to a washtub one day a week—then stuck to a mending basket the rest of the time.

Yet—9 times out of 10—all this can be avoided. You simply want to remember one thing—the kind of soap you use makes all the difference in the world! Cheap chips save you a few pennies when you buy them. But they take their toll, nearly every time, in a careworn face, coarsened hands. And—clothes that grow old, too, long before they should.

Cheap soap, first of all, is usually made of inferior ingredients. Hence it takes far more soap to make half decent suds. Even then, these cheap, thin suds soon die down. You have to keep adding soap to get the wash done. They don't clean well either. You have to rub and scrub to get clothes white. Yes—you actually rub the life out of things right in the wash. Worse still, cheap chips may contain harsh alkalis, fade pretty colors and weaken fabrics.

Not a pretty picture, is it? But one that some women still put up with because they haven't learned how to escape this drudgery. They haven't learned that American Family Flakes banish it forever. And—bring a far easier, quicker, safer way in washing.

You, Too, Need Easy-Washing Double Suds

You see, American Family Flakes do the hard work for you. It is the one brand specially created for the water in this region. Actually created to take the work out of washday. For they contain more pure, suds-making material. So they quickly burst into thick, double suds, that act double-quick, in tub or machine. Rich, hard-working suds that stand up till the wash is done. And simply float dirt out.

You don't scrub, you don't rub hard, you don't drudge this easy American Family way. Hence colors stay fresh. Clothes wear months longer, too. Hands keep a lovely, soft white. So you save yourself. And—your clothes!

Try American Family Flakes next washday. See for yourself how they save time, work, clothes. Chicago women have long known this. So they buy more American Family than any other brand on the market!

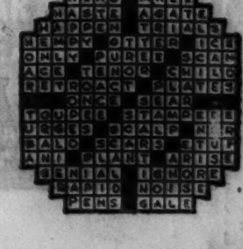
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED.



JOHN HAMILTON'S DEATH IN CHICAGO TOLD AT INQUEST

Minnesota Sherif Gets Credit for Slaying.

John Hamilton, the slain John Dillinger's notorious pal, died in Chicago after being mortally wounded by a deputy sherif near Hastings, Minn., while fleeing from the now famous gun battle at the Little Bohemia resort near Mercer, Wis., in company with Dillinger and Homer Van Meter. This was learned last night after a coroner's jury at Oswego took the word of federal agents that a badly decomposed body dug Wednesday from a hummock near the village was that of Dillinger's No. 1 killer.

The agents were keeping secret the address of the Chicago flat where Hamilton died from a rifle bullet that entered his back and shattered the spine. Neither were they divulging the "confidential information" which led them to the rude grave from which the corpse was exhumed.

Rushed to Doctors Here.

Dillinger would have had good reason to rush the wounded Hamilton to Chicago. He had access to unethical physicians here, two of whom later attempted to change his features by plastic surgery.

Here, it was presumed, Dillinger intended to have Hamilton treated. This may have been done, although Dr. F. M. Groner, Kendall county coroner, testified yesterday that he did not believe the wound had had medical attention.

However, the body was in such a state that none of the known marks which would have aided identification could be found. These included two fingers missing from the right hand, "J. H." tatooed on the right forearm, and a small scar in the center of his forehead.

Evidences of lye were found in the shallow grave and the features and any possible scars had been destroyed. The same chemical apparently had been heaped on the right hand. The bones were missing almost to the wrist. The flesh also was gone from the arm where the tatoo might have been.

Chemical Destroys Marks.

Agents R. D. Brown and D. P. Sullivan of the federal bureau of identification, department of justice, testified at the inquest. They would not divulge the information which led them to the grave, save to say that they were told that the body would be found at the corner of a gravel pit nearest the Cedar Run Riding academy, a short distance from the abandoned pit.

The agents dug for two days at the designated corner before finding the body.

The only possible means of identification would be from the teeth and they were removed from the skull and sent to Washington. They bore three fillings which will be compared with dental charts of Hamilton's mouth.

With the teeth went the clothing and the pieces of a leaden bullet, which split into three parts in the body. It was fired through the back of a car, according to the agents' information, and had flattened itself before entering the outlaw's body. Dr. Groner declared he believed Hamilton was wearing a steel vest at the time, since numerous tiny particles of steel were found near the large wound.

Fix Death Date as May 3, 1934.

The agents believe that Hamilton died on about May 3, 1934, ten days after the battle with Sherif Joseph Heinen, then a deputy of Dakota county, Minn. To reports that the wounded Hamilton had been carted about the country by the Dillinger gang, eventually reaching Jefferson City, Mo., the federal agents declared they had no evidence of this tour.

Hamilton's relatives had taken no steps to claim his body last night. A brother, Elmer J. Hamilton, a Kenosha salesman, said in Kenosha that "I am not in any way interested." Another brother, Joseph, of East Gary, Ind., declared he had no funds. A third brother, William J. Hamilton of South Bend, could not be located. Undertaker J. B. Thorsen of Oswego phoned a sister, Mrs. Anna Steve, at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., who said she would try to obtain funds.

PARTNER OF KARPIS TRICKS THE POLICE OF NORTHAMPTON, MASS.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Theodore N. Stapleton, in charge of the Buffalo office of the department of justice, denied today the rumor that Alvin Karpis, public enemy No. 1, had slipped away from Saratoga Springs just ahead of federal agents at the height of the racing season.

It was disclosed, however, that one of Karpis' supposed aids, William Elmer Mead, had slipped through the hands of the Northampton, Mass., police on July 12.

Mead gave an assumed name when arrested on trafic law violation charges. After posting a $200 bond, he left that city without his automobile. Finger prints on that car disclosed as its occupant Mead, who had been the Karpis lieutenant wanted in connection with the Bremer kidnaping in St. Paul and a mail holdup in Jacksonville, Fla.

Hunt Karpis in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Acting on a telephone tip from an unknown person, city detectives, armed with machine guns and wearing bullet proof vests, raided an apartment here today in search of Alvin Karpis. The tipster had said "Karpis is heavily armed. I got out of the apartment with the excuse I was going to buy some cigarets." Two men, neither of them Karpis, were seized and booked for questioning.

Seek Bids on First Unit of Outer Drive Bridge Job

The Chicago park district will advertise today for bids on a wharf, or dock, along the south bank of the Chicago river as the first construction unit in building the southern approach of the projected outer drive bridge. Robert Black, park engineer announced yesterday that the board would receive bids on Sept. 10 and make its award in time for work to start next month. The Illinois Central Railroad company is to contribute $300,000 toward the wharf. The cost of the wharf, retaining wall, and the southern approach foundations, according to Black, will total $1,861,000.

NAZIS TO REVEAL NEW WAR TOOLS IN BIG ARMY SHOW

Announce Maneuvers for Next Week.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—"The time for faked, wooden, and cardboard tanks and guns as well as toy balloons and planes is definitly past," Col. Mummenthey, Nazi army leader, declared today in announcing vast military maneuvers to be held at Lueneburg Moor in northwest Germany from Sept. 2 to 7.

"The army will display modern equipment in heavy artillery, tanks, and military planes," he said. "The whole sixth army corps will take part."

Military conscripts have been warned to hold on to their civilian jobs until they are called. It was pointed out that there are so many volunteers it will be impossible to call all conscripts of the first classes to service this year.

Hitler Visits Elbe Festival.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler, returning from watching naval gunnery practice in the Baltic, today participated in a festival on the large area near the mouth of the Elbe river which has been reclaimed from the sea and which was named for him.

The area consists of 3,300 acres on which 100 families already have settled. Another 100,000 acres will be reclaimed in the next ten years.

"We must remember that Germany herself is the only area reclaimed from the world seas," declared Hitler. "Thus it can only continue to exist if its dikes are strong and are kept strong."

Plan New Marriage Law.

A forthcoming decree compelling all persons wishing to marry to obtain certificates of fitness was announced by Dr. Guett, representing the home ministry, at a meeting of the world population congress here.

The certificates will have three aims, Guett said. They are:

FIRST—To prevent the marriage of the physically and mentally unfit so as to insure healthy future generations.

SECOND—To prevent marriages between Aryans and non-Aryans and also between healthy persons and those suffering from hereditary diseases—though the marriages of sterilized persons will be permitted.

THIRD—To awaken a sense of responsibility for the next generation, thus making those proposing to marry think of health and racial effects.

Woman Leader Thanks Hitler.

"We need no rights—we want only duties and we thank the fuehrer for giving them to us," Dr. Hilde Lemke, speaking for 10,000 women in 400 labor service camps in Germany, said today.

Dr. Lemke, chief of the women's labor camps of Brandenburg, inspected the camp at Gronefelde today. The camp sends out girls between the ages of 17 and 25 to help in the households of farmers in that region. The service still is voluntary, but Lemke said it would be made compulsory for all women in the near future.

"The service teaches girls they no longer belong to themselves," Dr. Lemke said, "but to the nation for the good of which they are glad to donate their services."

POLICE CYCLIST SHARES HONORS WITH 4 OTHERS

Capt. Roger Shanahan, commanding the western division of the Chicago park district police, and four other park policemen, including Thomas Dunleavy, the park district one man bicycle squad, who pedals his beat nightly in the northern district, were awarded a plaque in Mayor Kelly's office yesterday for winning the monthly safety contest sponsored by park district officials.

The contest for July was based on efficiency on reporting trafic accidents. Others included in the award are Policemen T. F. Mahoney of the western section, L. P. Cardwell of the southern section, and Richard E. Sandberg of the western section. The plaque is donated by Robert J. Dunham, president of the park board. The contest for August is based on education of the public in relationship to police.

Welding

. . . the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them together.

. . . and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco . . .

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish. When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

ITALY SEEKS TO FILL WAR CHEST BY NEW DECREES

Profit Curb Law Is Given Great Significance.

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY, BOLZANO, Italy, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini was off to the mock wars along the Austrian frontier today, leaving Italians and foreigners to ponder the denunciation of Ethopia and the warning to the league of nations against the use of anti-Italian sanctions [penalties] he voiced after last night's cabinet session.

One prominent Italian banker asserted the four economic steps the cabinet took last night to further preparations for an Ethiopian campaign are about the most important ever taken in Italy. He said the provision for limiting the profits of corporations and requiring companies to invest any excess profits in government bonds which they cannot sell for three years, might be considered a temporary sequestration of profits by the government.

Seek Gold to Pay Nations.

The forced conversion of foreign securities into Italian government bonds, he said, was rendered necessary by the outflow of gold to pay for foreign purchases.

The provision requiring the substitution of charcoal gas for gasoline in automobiles, he called another effort to make Italy self-sufficient.

He added that the ten per cent tax on dividends and interest, as well as the absorption of surplus profits and conversion of foreign securities, would help Italy considerably in paying for the Italo-Ethiopian campaign.

New Gesture to Britain.

Mussolini's Popolo D'Italia extended the olive branch to England again today.

"Italian loyalty to Great Britain," it said, "has been demonstrated by a constant line of policy which, especially in recent years—from Locarno to Stresa—has produced efficacious collaboration with results important to Europe. Great Britain and her empire have nothing to fear. In reality the colonial question is a limited and distant one."

From Rome came editorial expressions of joy over the Mussolini pronouncement which Il Lavora Fascista said was couched in "such terms of realism and simplicity that they can be understood by all those who are of good faith." It headlined a review of the entire situation, including Britain and league of nation angles, with "Italy will place the Ethiopian problem before the league of nations in all its crude reality."

See No Need of Foreign Loans.

One high official said tonight Italy would pay for the East African expedition without recourse to foreign loans. Foreign capitalists, he asserted, would be eager to invest money with Italy after she had "enforced order" in Ethiopia and begun to develop the resources of that country.

In addition to drastic economic steps already announced, he said, Italy will stop importing almost entirely "unnecessary products" in an effort to bear unaided the financial burden of the campaign against Ethiopia.

Il Duce spent all day reviewing troops. He paid a visit to the Austrian frontier and shook hands with the Austrian brigadier in charge at Brenner pass.

Gen. Italo Balbo, Italy's "forgotten hero," arrived here unexpectedly today for the remainder of the army maneuvers. Balbo achieved fame in 1933 when he led an Italian air armada across the Atlantic to the World's Fair at Chicago. He is now governor of Libya.

Baldwin Halts Vacation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 29.—After first denying it, British officials today confirmed the report that Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin is cutting short his vacation at Aix-les-Bains, France, and will return to London next Wednesday.

It was stated that this move is being taken entirely on his own initiative and is not due to any summons from London. Baldwin feels that with both Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare and Capt. Anthony Eden, minister for league of nations affairs, absent in Geneva for the league council meeting Sept. 4, the captain should be on the bridge at Downing street.

Ramsay MacDonald, lord president of the council, also has arranged to return to London next week from Lossiemouth, Scotland.

It was learned today that Great Britain is seeking further elucidation of the meaning of Premier Mussolini's statement in connection with the Italian cabinet meeting last night that the British empire has nothing to fear from Italy's colonial plans. That is just what, in British minds, needs elucidation, for Italy, if it were in control of all Ethiopia, including Lake Tsana and the upper Nile, could threaten seriously both Egypt and the Sudan.

Inquiries now are being made through diplomatic channels and on their result much of the work of the league council next week may depend. It was rumored today in Italian circles here that Italy is postponing its move into Ethiopia until October. If this is so, it will give more time for negotiation, conciliation and arranging a peaceful exploitation of Ethiopia by Italy and the other powers.

Britain's Delegates to League.

It was announced today that in addition to Foreign Secretary Hoare and Eden, the British delegation at Geneva will consist of Dr. Edward Leslie Burgin, parliamentary secretary of the board of trade; Viscount Cranborne, who was assistant parliamentary secretary to Lord Derby in the war office in 1916 and 1917; Earl de la Warr; Sir William Malkin, legal adviser of the foreign office, and Miss F. Horsbrugh, a member of parliament.

Eden and most of the party will leave Monday with Hoare following later. Hoare today resumed his vacation at his Norfolk home, but is keeping in close touch with London.

Selassie Rebukes Officers.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The fighting lions of Ethiopia, grumbling over Emperor Haile Selassie's "delay," cringed under severe reproof today.

The emperor heard that a group of younger officers had urged their comrades to take matters into their own hands, saying: "Why does our king delay? His months of procrastination have given Mussolini time to land tens of thousands of soldiers, airplanes, tanks, and artillery on our borders. We must resist this."

He declared such talk a subversive activity against the government, which would be punished rigorously.

Prepare for Air Raid.

Authorities made preparations tonight for a mimic air raid on the capital tomorrow.

Officials asked advice from foreigners, including Americans, as to what rules and regulations are usually issued to the population of their respective countries in the event of an air attack.

Advice was also sought as to the technique to be followed in constructing air shelters and dugouts for protection against artillery fire.

Further preparation for the eventual evacuation of Addis Ababa if deemed necessary was seen today in government instructions to magistrates to expel all men and women from the city who failed to prove they had business or a regular domicile in the capital.

TWO NUDISTS TREED; TRIAL OF FARMER ENDS IN NOTHING

Netcong, N. J., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—A pair of nudists were caught like treed 'possums back of the town fire engines by a ribald crowd late this afternoon when a trial of the charges against Farmer Will Searles broke up.

No witnesses were heard. Mayor Tom Koclas, town confectioner, insisted that it be open to the public. Justice of the Peace Louis H. [Luke] Huyler agreed with counsel for the nudists that it be closed.

The treed nudists, Leslie Bain, proprietor of the New Jersey Health institute on Schooleys mountain, and a large woman fled. They raced to a refuge behind a fire engine. Justice Huyler, frankly bowled over by the complexity of the situation, adjourned the hearing without date.

VATICAN NEWSPAPER PROTESTS TREATMENT OF POPE'S PEACE PLEA

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, tersely protested today that Italian newspapers yesterday reprinted only the most "favorable" portions of Pope Pius' address in which he expressed the hope the Italo-Ethiopian problem could be solved without war.

The newspaper printed the protest in its second edition today which is not widely circulated in Rome, but is sent to the provinces and abroad.

In his speech, delivered to the International Congress of Catholic Nurses at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, Pope Pius said "A war which is only one of conquest would evidently be an unjust war."

HELD ON GIRL'S CHARGES.

Harry Hart, 56 years old, 1943 North Kildare avenue, was arraigned before Judge Justin F. McCarthy in Felony court yesterday and held to the grand jury in $20,000 bond on a statutory charge involving a 6 year old girl who lives in the same building.

NATIONAL RACES, YEAR'S BIG AIR EVENT, ON TODAY

New Crop of Records in Speed Expected.

BULLETIN.

Burbank, Cal., Aug. 30 [Friday].—(AP)—Amelia Earhart, noted aviatrix, took off from here early today to lead the parade of air speedsters competing in the $12,500 Bendix cross country trophy race. With a threatening fog rolling in, the schedule of take-offs to Cleveland, O., of the 10 competing pilots was rearranged at midnight council of the fliers. Miss Earhart, announcing she was flying "just for the ride" and would not claim honors in the event weather forced other pilots to postpone the derby until tomorrow, left at 3:54 a. m., Chicago daylight time. The other flyers were to start at 5 minute intervals, beginning at 5 a. m.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—American aviation's annual speed meeting, the national air races, opens here tomorrow for a four day show. With more than $50,000 in prize money at stake in a series of the largest purses presented since 1930 and a new crop of high speed airplanes entered, it is anticipated that a new series of flying records will be made before the meet is ended.

The most important event tomorrow will be the transcontinental Bendix trophy race from Los Angeles to the Cleveland airport. The speediest field ever entered in this race awaits the take-off gun set for dawn tomorrow at Burbank airport, and it well may be that the winner will not only set a new mark for the 2,079 miles to this city, but also may break Roscoe Turner's transcontinental mark of 10 hours, 2 minutes, and 41 seconds, set during last year's race.

Pilot Entries and Mounts.

Advices here tonight were that the following pilots would take off in half hour intervals beginning at 6 a. m. Chicago time: Earl Ortman, flying a Keith-Ryder monoplane Wasp powered; Royal Leonard, in a long range Gee Bee monoplane, Hornet powered; Roscoe Turner in the Turner-Wedell-Williams racer he used last year, but equipped with a more powerful Hornet engine; Miss Jacqueline Cochrane, flying her special Northrup-Gamma with a twin Wasp Jr.; Cecil Allen in a Gee Bee racer, Wasp powered; Russell Thaw in a special monoplane, Wasp engine; Benny Howard in his own Howard cabin monoplane, Wasp engine, and Roy Hunt, in what is said to be a clipped wing Waco racer, Wright engine, and Amelia Earhart in her Lockhood Vega.

It is noteworthy that Miss Cochrane is the first woman pilot to enter the Bendix race, considered the most difficult and dangerous speed event held anywhere in the world. She was able to do so only over the protest of the committee sanctioning the 1935 races after she obtained a special waiver from the National Aeronautical association, which governs the regulations of the meet. Miss Earhart's last minute entry was a complete surprise, as her ship has a top speed of only 195 miles an hour.

These two entries apparently have broken down the barriers erected at the 1934 races. Due to the insistence of the women this year a closed course handicap race exclusively for their sex has been added to Sunday's program. Prize money of $1,250 is offered along with a trophy presented by Amelia Earhart.

The meeting will be given over to closed course races for airplanes with small engines until the climax on Monday afternoon when the Thompson trophy dash is scheduled to be held. Most of the ships and pilots entered in the Bendix race have signified their intention of entering this competition, for which $15,000 in prize money, $5,000 more than last year, has been put up.

For the first time since 1932, when Maj. Jimmy Doolittle, flying a tricky but speedy Gee Bee super-sportster set the all-time speed record of 252 miles an hour for a 100 mile triangular course, there is a chance that this average will be broken.

All Good For 300.

Virtually all the airplanes entered in the 1935 Thompson race are capable of 300 or more miles an hour. This is faster than Doolittle's ship which was clocked at 296 miles an hour at its best speed.

Furthermore the difficult quadrilateral eight and one-third mile course of last year has been abandoned. Instead, a triangular 15 miles course has been laid out and the length of the race increased by 50 miles to 150 miles in all. The fewer turns, the longer straightaways, and the greater distance of the race this year should make for higher speeds.

Stunt flying will be performed by Michel De Troyat, crack French aerobatic ace, and Gerd Achgelis, the German daredevil, who put on such a thrilling display of low stunting at night last year. The army, navy and marine corps are represented by squadrons which will give the crowds a sight of military maneuvers on every day of the races except Sunday when the service squadrons do not fly.

AGREE ON TERMS TO END TRANSPORTATION STRIKE IN SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Union acceptance of a seven point agreement tonight virtually assured the end tomorrow of a 12 day strike of street car and bus bus drivers that has paralyzed transportation in the South Bend area.

Formal signing of the settlement was arranged for 10 a. m. in the office of R. R. Smith, receiver for the Northern Indiana Railways, Inc., with resumption of service expected an hour or so later.

The agreement sets up an arbitration board of three members to consider questions of hours, wages, and working conditions, grants the union recognition as a bargaining agent, and provides that a city council committee of three will review the suspension of a union employé by the company.

"KIDNAPING CASE" ENDS IN PARENTS SPANKING 2 GIRLS

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Word leaked out from the rather quiet North home here today that the "kidnaping case" that gave frantic parents and police a hectic time last night had ended in an old fashioned spanking.

From about 7 o'clock last night until dawn today police scoured the city and suburbs for three Negroes, said by 8 year old Adeline North to have thrown her sisters, Catherine, 13, and Mildred, 10, into a big auto and sped away.

Special squads hunted the abductors and Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. North joined in the search, as did little "Addie."

It was an unusually cool night for August, around 60 late at night. Catherine and Mildred got chilly sleeping on a park bench and went home about daybreak. Under police questioning they broke down and admitted they had spent 50 cents of $1 their mother had given them to buy a broom and had persuaded "Addie" to go home and tell a tale of kidnaping.

Lindberghs Fly to Visit Relatives in Minnesota

FOUR MEN TAKE $250 IN ELEVEN SWIFT HOLDUPS

Four robbers, moving swiftly in a new automobile, committed eleven holdups on the west side last night and early today, escaping with loot of about $250.

Their first victim, from whom they took the automobile and $5, is Julius Burkovic, 3051 West 62d street. He was robbed in front of 635 South Wood street.

New Jersey Slayer Suspect Guarded from 500 at Jail

Bridgeton, N. J., Aug. 30 [Friday].—(AP)—A heavy guard was maintained about the Cumberland county jail early today although a crowd of 500 persons which had gathered there largely dispersed and police said they expected no trouble. Officials had called reinforcements when they feared the crowd would seek to take Romain Johnson, 32, colored, accused of slaying Mrs. Minnie Horuvitz.

Performs an Operation Upon His Own Intestines

George Pajala, 49 years old, 210 West Minor street, Arlington Heights, was taken to the County hospital yesterday after he had performed a crude surgical operation upon his own intestines. To reach the seat of the trouble he had made a four inch incision in his abdomen. Dr. Chester Guy, who closed the incision, said Pajala had a good chance for recovery.

Stock up for LABOR DAY with Clicquot Club Pale Dry!

3 day week-end ahead!... You'll want to entertain.... Clicquot's EXTRA ounces will save money before the holiday's over!

THINK how many glasses are due to be filled and emptied before the holiday ends. And think what a saving it will be, if you fill them with Clicquot Club!

Every two bottles of Clicquot Club give you 8 extra ounces of ginger ale — enough to make an added drink!* That's because Clicquot Club comes in full quarts and full pints . . . 32 ounces and 16 ounces; not 28 ounces and 12 ounces!

If you like your ginger ale really dry, you'll like Clicquot Club! The water comes cold and clean from the earth's deep rocks. It's natural, pure — not purified! Aged taste-heighteners are blended with the gently tingling flavor of Jamaica's primest and mildest ginger. And then, through carbonation under refrigerated pressure, Clicquot is given its brilliant sparkle that lasts long after the cap is loosened!

Here is a glorious drink.... Just to watch it bubble in a glass, so coldly bright, is a cooling, refreshing experience! Order a case for Labor Day from your nearest Clicquot dealer.... Clicquot Club Company, Millis, Mass.

* STANDARD MEASUREMENTS USED
Instead of taking the smallest of the so-called "large" bottles (26 ounces), we took the biggest (28 ounces) — and compared it with Clicquot Club's 32 ounces (a full quart). A standard measuring-cup and glass were used. Every two bottles of Clicquot Club made an extra drink!

2 Full-Pint Bottles, 25c
(plus bottle-deposit)

A FULL QUART IS 32 OUNCES
All ginger ale makers must print net bottle-contents on the label. Look before you buy, and get your money's worth!

CLICQUOT CLUB SPARKLING WATER "SODA" (pure, not purified) comes in full quarts and special club sizes. A full quart is only 20c (plus bottle-deposit)

Year's greatest Snapshot week-end coming up—

THE records prove it—more people take more snapshots over the Labor Day week-end than any other time. Three grand days chock-full of snapshot opportunities.

Take your camera along. Things really liven up when the snapshooting starts. And you have a record of the people—the happenings—for all time. Don't miss it.

Kodaks as low as $5; Brownies from $1 up . . . at your dealer's.

"SAY, I WISH I'D BROUGHT THE CAMERA." You're sure to say this some time during the week-end—unless you have the foresight of this young couple. Why not have the fun they're having? You'll bring back so much more to remember.

YOU DON'T NEED to shoot a lion to have an interesting picture. The right girl and an ice-cream cone will do, as you can see for yourself. Try your girl in this picture.

(Left) ONE MAN THINKS they're the greatest pair in the world—and has the snapshot to prove it. Have you any recent shots of your folks? Summer's short now—get them while it lasts.

ANY camera is a better camera when it's loaded with Kodak Verichrome Film. Good snapshots come twice as easy—you get them in the shade and on cloudy days, as well as in the sun. Don't take chances with the snapshots which may be so precious later on. Always use Verichrome... Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y.

BRITAIN BUILDS 'DOUBLE' PLANE FOR OCEAN TRIPS

"Composite Craft" to Be Used in 1936.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The British government has decided to use a so-called "composite seaplane" to inaugurate a regular trans-Atlantic air service, an authoritative source disclosed today, and the first flights may be made late in 1936.

Plans have gone past the speculative stage, and the government has decided to stake everything on this new type of plane. Actually two planes take off, but only one makes the crossing.

A four engined flying boat is one component of the composite aircraft. It will take off with a four engined seaplane on its back. The seaplane will be capable of carrying 1,000 pounds of mail and fuel for a 2,000 mile crossing in the teeth of a 60 mile gale. The parent ship will launch the seaplane at probably 5,000 feet or thereabouts.

The Decision's Importance.

The importance of this decision is apparent in view of the fact Britain controls the key stations on both northern and southern routes—the Bermudas and Newfoundland. Then there is Ireland.

The composite plane service will be used for mail carrying purposes only.

"It is all in the government's hands now, and the government is footing the bill," said an aviation authority in close touch with officially sponsored Atlantic flight plans. "It will be a mail plane at first. If it is decided later to try out a passenger service the theory in mind is to build both a larger launching flying boat and a larger seaplane.

"It will be at least a year before all the tests and other necessary preparatory work are completed."

Plane Under Construction.

This source confirmed the belief that Sir Eric Geddes, addressing the Imperial Airways stockholders last September, was referring to this plane when he said publicly that the company was about to give the order for "a plane which is a better solution than any other for the trans-Atlantic problem."

The composite plane is considered the only practical solution of the problem of carrying a "pay load." The seaplane can be loaded heavily, since it does not have to take off from the water under its own power. The flying boat does this job. Once the smaller plane is in the air the flying boat returns to its base.

The two planes weigh together about 42,000 pounds fully loaded, and will enable a "pay load" of 1,000 pounds to be flown across the Atlantic. When the time comes to develop this scheme for passenger flight it is possible that flying boats of 100,000 pounds or more will be used to launch a "pay load" of 10,000 pounds. The speed desired will be a deciding factor.

ARMY BOMBER ON ROUND TRIP BY AUTO PILOT

Dayton, O., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Army air corps engineers at Wright field announced today that a huge bombing plane flew successfully this morning from Dayton to Cincinnati, 60 miles away, and returned, without a hand at its controls except during the takeoff and landing here.

The pilot took the ship aloft at Dayton and the plane, a Wright field announcement said, was set on a course following the broadcast waves of station WLW at Cincinnati. Automatically, then, the radio compass and other equipment aboard operated with a Sperry automatic pilot to hold it on a course direct to Cincinnati. There the course was changed automatically by tuning the radio compass to stations WHIO and WSMK at Dayton. Slowly the big ship swung in the air and headed back to its home port.

Sir Malcolm Campbell, British racing driver, and his son Donald.

Sir Malcolm Campbell, titled British racing driver who holds the world's automobile speed record of 276 miles an hour, said yesterday that he is more interested in the safety of automobiles than speed. Campbell passed through Chicago en route to Salt Lake City, Utah, where he hopes to drive his celebrated Bluebird over the salt beds at a speed of 300 miles an hour.

Campbell expressed belief that only the inadequacy of highways and the inability of car designers to develop—at lower prices—metals of sufficient durability for engines and bodies is retarding the manufacture of high speed automobiles for common usage.

"We have installed recording devices in Bluebird that will check on the durability of virtually every part of the engine and body," Campbell said. "Through these scientific tests at high speeds we hope to be able to determine the wear and tear upon various new metals, some of them very expensive, which may make possible the ideal automobile—a car that combines high speed with the maximum of safety."

MRS. PRESCOTT APPEARS WINNER OF "AIR DERBY"

GRACE PRESCOTT.

Akron, O., Aug. 29.—(AP)—First prize money in the Ruth Chatterton Los Angeles to Cleveland Air Derby appeared tonight certain to go to a San Diego, Cal., pilot, Mrs. Grace Prescott.

The six participants and Miss Chatterton as pacemaker landed at the Akron airport late today and officials began tabulating points, confident the big advantage piled up by Mrs. Prescott before her arrival here would not be overcome. Prizes total $1,000.

Mrs. Prescott was the fourth of the flyers to arrive, but they are racing on a basis of their ability to maintain a schedule set up according to the type of their planes.

The contestants and their arrival times were W. S. Woodson of Coronado, Cal., 4:05 p. m. Chicago time; Leland Hayward of Hollywood, 4:09.55; Miss Cecile Hamilton of Los Angeles, 4:10.36; Mrs. Prescott, 4:13.09; Earl D. Ricks of Hot Springs, Ark., 4:18.36, and Mrs. Ethel Sheehy of Montana, Cal., 4:21.44.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO CONVENTION.

Garden City branch No. 11 of the National Association of Letter Carriers has chartered a special train to carry delegates to the carriers' convention in Cleveland. The train will leave at noon Sunday and will return Sept. 7.

AIR LINERS CLIP ONE HOUR FROM TIME TO COAST

For the third time in four months United Airlines yesterday announced reductions in flying time between Chicago and the west coast. Effective Sept. 1, United Airlines planes will bring Chicago within 11¾ hours elapsed time of half a dozen west coast cities. The transcontinental journey will be reduced from seventeen to sixteen hours.

This speedier service is accomplished by introducing to the routes west of Chicago the improved Boeing planes, type 247D, which have been in use between Chicago and New York for sixty days. These ships, with new geared 550 horse power Wasp engines and certain structural changes, have a cruising speed of 189 miles an hour and a top speed of 202 miles. They are quieter airplanes, having new sound proofing and the noise reduction brought about by the gearing of the propellers.

In order to equip the fleet of fifty airliners United spent $1,000,000 for materials and labor. The new airplanes have virtually the same speed as Transcontinental and Western Air's Douglas DC-2 airliners which fly from Los Angeles to New York on a fifteen hour schedule.

The Columbia II., a standard Bellanca cabin plane entered in the Cleveland air races that start today, arrived in Chicago yesterday from Bristol, Va. The plane, powered with a Wasp C, 410 horse power engine, was stored in the Texaco hangar at the Municipal airport. Besides the pilot, Capt. L. Boyd, the plane carried four passengers, C. C. Lincoln Sr. and C. C. Lincoln Jr. from Marion, Va., and J. B. Lincoln and Maj. M. K. Lee. The Lincolns own the ship.

INJURIES IN FALL FATAL.

THE NEW DEAL IN THE STOCKYARDS.

Thousands of men and women are on the dole in Chicago and other thousands are working short hours because of what Roosevelt, Wallace & Co. have done to the live stock business. The figures for July have just been published by the Federal Reserve bank. They show that employment, hours worked, and wage payments in the stockyards are 25 per cent lower than they were a year ago. The deterioration has been steady and rapid. The July figures were 1½ per cent below those for June. August will show a further drop, in all probability, because the live stock receipts, thanks to Washington, are smaller than they have been in fifty years.

The packing industry is the largest employer in Chicago. Ordinarily it gives work to 25,000 men and women directly and unnumbered thousands indirectly. It is an immense purchaser of supplies. It is one of the largest consumers of salt, of waterproof paper, of crating and railroad services, to mention only a few leading items. Reduced output in the packing industry means a loss of business in scores of collateral industries.

The depression in the packing business was made in Washington. It is largely artificial. The packing companies have gone through hard times since 1929, but though some jobs were lost employment and wages were better maintained at the stockyards than in almost any other industry in the country. Prices of meat fell. The packers lost millions of dollars, but every animal that came to market was bought for cash and the slaughtering of these animals and the preparation of the meat kept employment up.

Today, thanks partly to drouth, but also to the destruction of little pigs and the enforced reduction in feed supplies, the stockyards are operating on part time schedule. Despite the efforts made to distribute the work as far as it can stretch, unemployment is growing and pay envelopes are thinning. Today there is less employment at the yards than there was two years ago.

As a further consequence of artificial scarcity the price of meat is rising so rapidly that millions of Americans for the first time in their lives have come to regard it as a luxury. The Federal Reserve report says that wholesale meat prices are today 40 per cent higher than a year ago. The housewives did not have to be told that. They knew it already.

There are 25,000 stockyards employés in Chicago and 800,000 Chicago families to feed. All of these people have been hurt as a consequence of the government's policy of scarcity, but there has been singularly little protest from Chicago's congressional delegation. The explanation, of course, lies in the fact that the delegation consists of nine Democrats and only one Republican. The Democrats cannot protest against their party's policies without making campaign material for the opposition. Rather than do that, we find Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Sabath, Mr. Beam, and the rest singing the praises of an administration which deprives their constituents of honest work and meat for dinner.

SCHNACKENBERG FOR CONGRESS.

State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg should be elected next year to a higher position than he now holds. He deserves a reward for his leadership of a courageous minority in the state legislature. The public will be benefited by affording him a wider field in which to exercise his demonstrated ability.

The logical field for his advancement is as representative in congress from the Second Illinois district, in which he lives. That is normally a strong Republican district. It went Republican in 1932, the present Democratic congressman being in his first term. This is important, since it assures Mr. Schnackenberg an excellent chance of winning if he becomes a candidate and it assures the public that his services in the legislature will not be lost without a greater gain elsewhere.

In the normal course of events the state legislature may be expected to furnish the best candidates for congress, for the halls at Springfield afford the best training for problems to be met at Washington. To a certain extent this natural progression takes place, but many of the abler legislators find the attractions of state or local executive office greater than those of congress. The result naturally has been that the quality of congressional timber has suffered.

This situation, which certainly is not confined to Chicago or Illinois, was reflected in the wastrel conduct of the present congress. The defeat of Roosevelt will not be sufficient in itself to clean up the mess in Washington. The majority of the present congressmen have had such a taste of graft and extravagance that it will prove difficult or impossible for a national administration, however high its purposes, to keep them on the reservation. New blood is badly needed, and it is no derogation of Mr. Schnackenberg's possible ambition to more prominent political positions to say that he can best serve his city, state, and nation in congress.

EASY MONEY AND THE MASSACRE.

The $32,544,000 which has been allotted by the Works Progress administration for street repairs in Chicago is not easy money. In the future, probably the very near future, Chicagoans will start paying oppressive taxes to repay it. That they will pay as federal rather than local tax payers means merely that, in addition to being soaked for the full amount of Chicago's grants, they will yield more millions for the pauper states.

It would be suicidal for either private business or intelligently run local government to spend the money in the fashion it is to be spent. The expenditure is the use of capital for expenses of maintenance and operation. The debt incurred will survive by many years the improvements, so-called.

Meanwhile, the excuse made for failure to construct separated highways, which would make most automobile accidents physically impossible, is that funds are not available. The PWA program is a conspicuous example of why they are not available. It is not unique. Other funds, which might be used for elevated highways, have been used instead to build for landowners with political pull streets which they should pay for through special assessments.

At the present rate the end of 1935 will see 725 persons killed and 16,500 more hurt or crippled by automobiles in the streets of Chicago. We cannot stand by without protest and see this massacre continued because of a conspiracy of private greed with political misconduct.

Nor do we believe the public will tolerate it much longer. Few Chicagoans alive today either have not been injured by an automobile or have not had a relative or friend killed or maimed in such a preventable accident. As the realization becomes more and more general that the slaughter is unnecessary the conspiracy becomes increasingly dangerous to its participants.

PROHIBITED POSTING.

Mayor Kelly has instructed Police Commissioner Allman to enforce ordinances against the posting of signs and placards on trees, poles, fences, and vacant buildings. The mayor was asked by representatives of various civic organizations to take action which would prevent the abuse of property rights and public property. Spokesman for the organizations said that depreciation of values occurred in areas much afflicted by such posting. The mayor agreed with the objectors and issued orders. If Commissioner Allman follows his instructions a nuisance will be cleaned up.

The offenders are of odd sorts, including political candidates, and, we regret to add, newspapers. A campaign often leaves the city looking as if it had been infected and was breaking out. Campaign posters are only periodic. Other defacements are continual. A city which tries to protect property and better its own appearance cannot permit them.

NO PHILIPPINE PROTECTORATE.

Pedro Guevara, Philippine resident commissioner at Washington, has proposed that the United States retain a protectorate over the islands. Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, says he has no sympathy for that idea nor can any sensible American have. Whatever may prove to be the disadvantages of American withdrawal from the far east, the compensating advantage is in the contraction of the military frontier. For years the Philippines have been recognized as an American hostage in the hands of Japan. The United States has never held the islands in force and probably has lost the opportunity of doing so.

We doubt that there would have been a withdrawal if the Filipinos had said that they feared to be exposed and wished to continue under American protection. They didn't say that. They said they wanted to go on their own. The greatest folly the United States could commit would be to surrender control and retain responsibility.

PERMITTING BUCK PRIVATES TO THINK.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

We are looking forward to the results of Gen. Nolan's experiment of taking the buck privates into his confidence during the Pine Camp [N. Y.] war games. They are informed at all times what action is being taken and why, what is expected of each unit and how its task is to be carried out, when the artillery proposes to fire and at what, when the infantry plans to hop off and for what point. Each man will know as much about tactics and strategy as the general himself. That is the plan.

In other words, the general has the idea, which must be regarded as unusually quaint by many of his officer colleagues, that battles might be fought more intelligently if the fighters themselves knew what they were doing. The orthodox idea is that private soldiers must have all their thinking done by their brass-hat superiors, and that the best soldiers are those whose behavior is as automatic and predictable as that of Mr. Sarg's marionettes.

During the world war most things that happened were enveloped in impenetrable mystery so far as the private soldier was concerned. Even the simplest facts about expected movements from one camp to another were hushed up until time came to pack. The heavy air of secrecy preserved by order of the high command gave rise to the most ludicrous rumors, and these in turn developed into a standard form of barracks wit.

To the old West Point school of thought we suppose Gen. Nolan's plan is anathema. But we are bound to believe that for soldiers to be permitted to function as understanding and reasoning human beings, instead of as mere robots, would be to make a most valuable contribution to the art and science of war. As it is, some of the most brilliant exploits in the world war were by private soldiers who insisted upon using their heads despite the prevailing theory that brains were not part of their authorized equipment.

ON SECOND THOUGHT.

A farmer visited his son's college. Watching students in a chemistry class he was told they were looking for a universal solvent.

"What's that?" asked the farmer.

"A liquid that will dissolve anything."

"That's a great idea," agreed the farmer. "When you find it what are you going to keep it in?"—Toronto Globe.

STRANGE.

Strange that I never feel lonely
On the bowldered mountain side,
Where the tall pines tower heavenward
And the cloud ships gently ride;
Where at night there are friendly noises
And so near the stars seem to be
I feel I could reach out and pluck them
And gather them close unto me.

Strange that I should be lonely
In a city a million strong,
Hearing forever voices,
Voices the whole day long.

I love the comforting kindness
That only the open can give,
Where one can see earth and sky touching—
There forever would I like to live;
Alone, but I'd never feel lonely;
Away, where man seldom has trod,
I'd feast my eyes on the mountains
Where everything speaks of God.

HTW: At the outbreak of the world war, before he joined the Y. M. C. A. service, R. H. L. was assigned to cover for his newspaper the first officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan. One day after following the embryo officers in a trench maneuver during a driving rain he appeared at the post tailor's in a very sorry wet suit of clothes, the only one he had with him at the post.

Because of Dick's height and structure the post tailor could not outfit him with dry clothes, but suggested he might borrow them somewhere around the camp. R. H. L. rose to the occasion, as he always does. He hurried over to the guardhouse, where an old buddy whom he had known while war correspondent in the Philippines was officer of the day. This officer gave Dick the only available suit of his size, which had been worn by a former prisoner. Stenciled on the back was a large "P." Nothing daunted, R. H. L. wore this suit around camp for several days until he received back his own suit properly dried and cleaned. I was there and vouch for this. Sandy.

"Well, you better make sure before you marry Lucy," said pa-in-law, "because as soon as you are married ma and me and the kids expect to move right in."

HOG CHOLERA CONTAMINATION OF FOOD.

THERE was a time—not so long ago—when we recognized the several types of bacteria by their appearance under the microscope. They were rendered visible because they were stained with aniline dyes, and some were found to stain differently from others. Nowadays we are much more interested in what bacteria do than in what they look like. If they behave in a certain special manner, that fact serves to classify or pigeonhole them.

In this way we group bacteria and find those that closely resemble each other yet possess certain distinctive properties. For example, although the bacteria that normally occur in the colon [colon bacilli] and typhoid bacilli have some qualities in common, they are quite different in their effects upon the human body. Between these two groups there is an intermediate or half-way group, known as Salmonella, one of the members of which, Salmonella suipestifer, is responsible for hog cholera. This latter organism is of interest to us because it has been shown to be the causative factor in many outbreaks of food poisoning in man.

Unfortunately the Salmonella organism can be present in food and not alter its appearance, taste, or smell. The commonly accepted idea that poisonous foods must possess a bad odor or exhibit some obvious signs of decay is incorrect. Water may be sparkling and have a pleasant taste, yet it may harbor typhoid bacilli. So meat, milk, cheese, and other foods may be contaminated with vicious bacteria without the slightest change in taste or appearance. No one wishes to harbor in his digestive tract hog cholera bacilli, but this is exactly what may occur if contaminated food is eaten.

Many persons will suffer one or more attacks of food infection each summer. Every attack cannot be traced to the hog cholera organism, but most epidemics will be found to be due to one of three members of the Salmonella group. The staphylococcus aureus has also been traced to its lair as an infecting factor in milk, canned food, cake, etc.

Symptoms usually manifest themselves in from 6 to 12 hours after eating infected food, although they are sometimes delayed for 2 or 3 days. Much depends upon the rapidity of growth of the bacteria. There is usually an acute inflammation of the gastrointestinal tract, accompanied by nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, and diarrhea. The abdomen is tender and the frequency of stools may increase to one or more each hour. At times the pain and nausea may simulate an attack of appendicitis. The temperature is never very high, but the patient is restless and weak. As a rule, unless other irritating foods are piled into the digestive tract, the acute symptoms will last but a day or two, and the Salmonella organisms will disappear from the intestine in from a week to ten days.

One of the all-important problems in treatment is the prevention of water loss. Because of vomiting and the fluid character of the bowel discharges, the patient's tissues and blood are often drained, and water must be given quickly in order to avoid collapse. If boiled water by mouth cannot be retained it may be necessary to administer salt solution under the skin. At any rate a safe water balance must be maintained.

If vomiting occurs without diarrhea a laxative may be required, otherwise there is no advantage in further irritating an already inflamed intestinal tract. Clearing the stomach of its contents through vomiting is helpful, and the abdominal pain may be relieved by hot packs or the use of an electric pad. No food whatever should be given by mouth for 24 hours except cracked ice and a small amount of whey or barley or oatmeal water. After the acute symptoms have subsided, boiled milk in the form of milk toast may be used.

Sometimes the infection takes the form of what is erroneously called summer or intestinal influenza, and this type is fairly common in children. The symptoms are similar to those seen in ordinary influenza—generalized weakness, pains, chills, and low grade fever. Rather serious complications occasionally follow, and now and then one of these infected patients will develop pneumonia.

Prevention is far more important than cure. Food that has been recently and adequately cooked will not cause difficulty. This means that foods should be consumed when ready. Even with what may be considered adequate refrigeration, foods that have been prepared from 12 to 24 hours should not be served without recooking.

SPLEEN.

M. W. C. writes: In what diseases will the spleen be enlarged?

REPLY.

Enlargement of the spleen is associated with many infectious fevers, such as typhoid fever, relapsing fever, undulant fever, and malaria. Moderate enlargement of the spleen may be associated with almost any acute infection. There is a disease known as splenic leucemia in which the spleen becomes enormously enlarged; in fact, it may occupy half or more of the abdominal area. In this condition the white cells of the blood may number anywhere from 50,000 to 1,500,000 per cubic millimeter. There is also the condition known as splenic anemia, in which the spleen is not usually greatly enlarged, although occasionally it may be. One type of splenic anemia afflicting young persons is called Goucher's disease, but fortunately this is rare. There are a number of other conditions involving enlarged spleen, such as Still's disease and splenomegalic cirrhosis, which are accompanied by jaundice, anemia, and the collection of fluid in the abdomen. Changes in the liver are often associated with enlargement of the spleen.

HEART RHEUMATISM.

P. Z. writes: Is rheumatism of the heart the same as tuberculosis?

REPLY.

No, the conditions are entirely different. Tuberculosis may attack various parts of the body. When it affects the lungs it is known as pulmonary tuberculosis. There is really no such disease as rheumatism of the heart. Rheumatism is an infection, usually due to the organism known as the streptococcus. This same microbe may also affect the heart, causing what is called endocarditis or inflammation of the lining of the heart. Such a condition may follow an acute sore throat [severe tonsilitis.]

DIGESTING MILK.

V. G. H. writes: Is there anything that can be added to milk to make it easier to digest?

REPLY.

Peptonizing milk, which is a method of partial digestion, is a useful process.

Lime water was at one time thought to aid the digestion of milk, but this theory has been practically exploded.

PROVISION OF WILL.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. My husband died about nine years ago leaving a will stating that if I remarried the property would go to our son, who will be 16 years of age. 2. I remarried again last August and the property left was an inheritance through my husband's uncle, but there were fifty-two acres left to four different persons, my husband being one of them. This is all undivided property. 3. We have a tenant on the place and one of the girls seems to have taken charge of the whole thing without any questions. Some time ago I received a bill saying I owe her $68 for repairs. They went ahead spending my money without asking. 4. Do I have to pay these bills as long as I didn't know what was going on? 5. Now that I have remarried where does the share of rent money go? Who takes care of it? Can I? J. M.

1. You could have elected whether to revoke the will and take instead your statutory share.
2. Do you question that your interest has terminated?
3. We do not understand why you seem to be claiming an interest after the marriage.
4. Clearly, if your interest has terminated the corresponding obligation to contribute to repairs, etc., would also terminate.
5. See preceding answers.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a deed is called a warranty deed must the word "warranty" show on the deed? 2. When a title is given by the trust company is that proof that it is a good title? L. W.

1. Yes.
2. Ordinarily the title company does not issue its guarantee policies except on titles that it believes to be good, if that is what you mean to ask.

BANK RECEIVERSHIP.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—[Friend of the People.]—I think about 1918 or 1919 the Fidelity Bank of Avondale, Chicago, closed. In the course of years 30 per cent in dividends were paid. I heard that final dividends were paid recently. I would very much appreciate if you would inform me as to whether this is true, and, if so, where the receiver can be located? I had about $1,800 in this bank. L. K.

Our records indicate that the bank he refers to was probably the Fidelity State bank of Morgan Park, located in the vicinity of Milwaukee and Central Park avenues, Chicago, which bank was placed in receivership on March 12, 1918. We have no record of a "Fidelity Bank of Avondale."

Mr. Daniel V. Harkin, room 2001, 105 West Madison street, Chicago, phone Randolph 3389, is now the receiver for this bank, and we suggest that the writer contact him for the information desired.

THE THEORY OF EVOLUTION HAS NEVER BEEN PROVED BILL VENN
8-30

The theory of organic evolution has been widely accepted in spite of the fact that it has never been proved, says Capt. Bernard Acworth, British scientist, in his recent book "The Tragedy of Evolution." He states that his lifetime studies of birds have led him to disbelieve completely in the idea that a bird's wing has "evolved" from a fish's fin or reptile's foreleg. He also states that the story of life on earth, as told by the rocks, is very uncertain, for the evidence is confused. He says that there is no positive proof that man ever had any ancestors other than human beings.

A JANITOR'S HOBBY.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Between Cottage Grove and Stony Island avenues there is only one vacant lot, the southeast corner of 63d street and Blackstone avenue. For ages it was a pile of wreckage. But look at it now!

The lawn of green velvet appears as though it had been newly swept each time you go by. In its center lies a mammoth bed. Hollyhocks lift their stately beauty. High blue flowers [are they phlox?] wave their dainty heads against the brilliant glow of their neighbors. Close to the ground, circling the bed, is a double row of ladies' slippers.

A girdle of four o'clocks three feet in width follows the fence from north to south and east to west.

The beauty of this yard is the work of the janitor of the flat building near by. Rather, it is his pastime, watering and digging and watching the flowers. They say of him that he sits up until midnight to guard his flower bed. People have been known to climb the fence, but he gets them before they reach the flowers.

That corner lot is a beauty spot for neighbors for many blocks. They like to come at four o'clock to watch the tiny buds unfold their petals.

ELIZABETH NEVITT.

ANTIQUATED AND OUTMODED.

Winnetka, Ill., Aug. 26.—In yesterday's TRIBUNE Mr. James S. Brown asks, "What good is an antiquated and outmoded code of ethics and regulations written for the benefit of mule skinners, trappers, and candle merchants," etc., in referring to the constitution.

What has the age of the document to do with the question? Did not the President know something about it when he ran for the office? Did he not stand up before the world and swear to preserve, protect, and defend it? Did he say anything in his campaign about changing the constitution in any way? No, of course not, because he knew that he could not put it over. As to its age, again, even if Columbus had brought it over the President should be the first to adhere to it.

Stick with him, Mr. Brown. He has had congress with him for two years and there are still ten million unemployed and a national debt at tremendous figures. You will have to help us all pay off the debt, and, of course, you will like it. WALTER O. WILSON.

MANDATORY TIPPING.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—I had dinner at one of our restaurants the other evening, the regular dinner, $1.50 per plate. On each table was a holder containing the waitress' name and on the bottom it stated, "No tipping, please." When I received my bill for three it was $4.50, which I knew it would be, but on the bottom it had 45 cents for waitress' services. I feel that it is up to the restaurant owners to pay their own help, and if the customer feels so inclined he can leave whatever tip he sees fit. There was an additional 59 cents on my bill for which I secured nothing; of course, I do not kick about the tax, as that is compulsory. N. J. O.

A WOMAN IN DISTRESS.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—I am an expectant mother and I was in a crash at Bryn Mawr avenue and Sheridan road Thursday afternoon. I was sitting in front with the driver when the accident occurred. My forehead struck the windshield, breaking it and cutting my forehead in several places. My knee was badly injured, as was my chest.

The trafic officer on that corner assisted me to the drug store and phoned for a squad car to take me to the hospital, telling them that I was a maternity case.

When the squad arrived they informed me that I was to go to the Lake View hospital, which I refused to do, as my doctor is senior obstetrician at St. Luke's. The officer told me he couldn't take me to St. Luke's, so walked away and left me in the drug store with blood pouring from my head.

A strange woman in the store went to the doorman of the Edgewater Beach apartments and had him call me a cab.

I was in very much pain on the way down here and the cab driver stopped at Chicago avenue and asked one of the two policemen to accompany us through the loop and they told him to "Keep going, buddy."

Is that the way our Chicago police are instructed to treat victims of careless automobile drivers?

MRS. J. K. MOORHEAD,
Room 720 St. Luke's Hospital.

NO RELIEF FOR HIM.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—In nearly every issue of the daily papers there is at least one article about the great works relief program, and nearly all of them stress the anxiety of our President to have all of our citizens now on relief put to work with the least possible delay.

My father, a resident of this city for forty years, has been unemployed for the last five years, but because he has managed thus far to stay off the relief rolls apparently [so far as the government is concerned] he can stay unemployed from now on.

There must be hundreds, perhaps thousands, like him in this city of ours, and it seems to me that these citizens, who because of foresight in good times or through the help of relatives and friends have managed to stay off relief rolls and avoid being a burden to the municipal, state, and national governments, are entitled to at least as much consideration as the indigent class, on which the government seems to concentrate its attention. G. M. R.

FOREIGN TRADE LOST.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Mr. Charles Nitcher of West Lafayette, Ind., wants to know just how the AAA destroyed our foreign markets for farm products. Well, here is one case. Cuba is one of our best customers for lard and meat, and has been for many years. A short time ago they were in the market for some lard and sent to the United States, as usual, but the New Deal brain trusters had killed so many hogs that we could not fill their order. So our old and steady customer sent down to South America an order for 90,000 pounds, and South America filled the order. J. C. STANLEY.

PREPARE TO ASK $7,200,000 BIDS FOR PAVING JOBS

WPA Will Buy 1,200,000 Tons of Material.

Illinois officials of the federal Works Progress administration began yesterday to prepare specifications for 1,200,000 tons of asphaltic mixture to be used in the resurfacing and improvement of nearly 1,000 miles of streets in Chicago. It was announced Tuesday that President Roosevelt had approved the program calling for a direct federal grant of $32,544,000.

Ralph H. Burke, deputy administrator of WPA, said that the definite money allocations would be cleared through governmental machinery at Washington "in a few days" after which notices and specifications would be sent to prospective bidders.

Tentative estimates on the asphaltic material call for a price of $6 a ton or a total cost of $7,200,000. In addition the street program will require a million barrels of cement and 800,000 yards of crushed stone for which no cost estimate is available.

Jobs for 38,000 Men.

Purchases will be made by local officials of the United States treasury in connection with WPA, Burke said. For purposes of better supervision and accounting the program has been divided into 170 projects upon which 38,000 men, drawn from the relief rolls, will be working when the program is humming at its peak.

The city was zoned for 70 asphalt resurfacing projects, 30 brick-cement repaving projects and 30 projects calling for grading and laying of a 16 foot strip of crushed stone in unimproved streets. Contracts will be warded on the delivered price at each zone.

Where brick pavements have worn out, he explained, the bricks will be ripped out and pulverized. The crushed bricks will be used as an ingredient in the concrete composition that will be used to resurface these streets.

School Projects Approved.

Word was received from Washington officials during the day of presidential approval of Chicago school projects requiring an outlay of $167,414 in WPA funds. The projects included: Beautifying various school grounds and play areas; landscaping the campus and athletic field of Steinmetz High school, and beautifying grounds at the Parental and Armstrong schools.

Eleven Illinois projects, including one from Chicago for aid of the blind, were approved by Burke and sent to Washington officials for confirmation.

The Chicago project would employ five persons for twelve months "transcribing elementary and advanced instruction and reference books from the present Braille system to the new standard English Braille system." The books would be used for piano tuning instruction to adult blind persons. The work would be conducted by the Visitation of the Adult Blind society at 1900 Marshall boulevard. Federal funds of $5,100 were asked.

ASK COAL BIDS TODAY

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission will decide today upon a method of purchasing 250,000 tons of coal for the coming winter. John C. Martin, chairman of the commission, said yesterday that competitive bidding on the price delivered to the relief client would be the basis of purchases in each county of the state.

Competitive bids replaced the price fixing methods under the former NRA codes. Since last March the commission has been buying coal 20 per cent cheaper than under the code price.

During the last burning season the commission spent $5,000,000 for 600,000 tons of coal. The reduction to 250,000 tons for the next season contemplates the shifting of relief clients to the made work under the federal Works Progress administration.

After the commission approves the specifications today bids will be advertised for the purchases. Illinois coal, having a dry content of not less than 12,250 B. T. U.s, will be purchased at various periods from Sept. 15, 1935, to May 31, 1936.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid regular habits. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is often more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

PLAYMATE WOUNDS BOY, 15, WITH PISTOL SWAPPED FOR RIFLE

FRED FRASCH.

Fred Frasch, 15 years old, 5424 Kenmore avenue, was shot in the neck and wounded seriously yesterday by a 14 year old playmate, Louis Barbazette, 5531 Lakewood avenue. The shooting occurred in the home of another neighborhood playmate, Charles Balch, 17 years old, who lives at 1052 Balmoral avenue. Summerdale police said they were convinced that the shooting was accidental.

Frasch was taken to the Edgewater hospital, where physicians found that the bullet had penetrated his neck, lodging near his spine. They said the youth had an even chance to recover, but that his right leg is paralyzed and he probably will be crippled for life.

The three boys had gathered in young Balch's home and Barbazette, who recently had traded a .22 rifle for a .32 revolver was showing the gun to his companions when it was fired.

Barbazette told the police he had obtained the revolver in a trade made with Walter Spong, 25 years old, 3729 Ward street. Spong was arrested and charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The boy was turned over to juvenile authorities to be held pending the outcome of Frasch's wound.

8,000 COLLEGIANS IN STATE TO GET FEDERAL FUNDS

Eight thousand college students in Illinois will receive $1,200,000 and high school pupils will get $688,000 toward defraying the costs of their education in the coming school year through the National Youth administration. Plans were announced yesterday by William J. Campbell, administrator for Chicago and Illinois.

The student aid is limited to 15 per cent of the enrollment in the colleges of the state. College students will receive $15 a month, or $150 for a ten months school year. Eligible high school students are estimated at 11,480, or 7 per cent of the young men and women between the ages of 16 and 25 years on the relief rolls or members of relief families. High school students receiving aid in Chicago will number 4,655. They will receive $6 a month. Students must apply at the school they are attending.

Last year the student aid program was carried out through relief funds. This year it was switched to the Works Progress administration under the four billion dollar appropriation made by congress.

PARK OFFICIAL RETORTS 'LIE' TO HUGH JOHNSON

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—As grumbling continued among unpaid WPA workers on various park projects, with a second "down tools" strike involving 120 men, Hugh S. Johnson, WPA administrator, endeavored today to shift blame to the department of parks' "pay roll division."

Robert Moses, park commissioner, promptly called the Johnson assertion a lie, adding his department had no pay roll division for WPA employés. Johnson did not know who was working for him, Moses argued.

The oral violence of the major disputants was matched in the resentful talk of 120 men on a sewer project. A supervisor said, "Some of them are starving."

"Put a rope around his stomach and see how he likes it," said another.

Some, saying they had not been paid for five weeks, told stories of misery, of walking miles to and from work, of being refused credit.

794 Men Work to Make Schools Spick and Span

John Howatt, chief engineer of the Chicago public schools, announced yesterday that 750 janitors and 44 window washers are at work cleaning the school buildings preparatory to the opening of school on Sept. 16. The employés will scrub 35 million square feet of flooring and clean 168,000 windows, at a cost of $60,000, he said. Glaziers have been working through the summer replacing broken panes.

TWO HAUPTMANN ATTORNEYS HINT LINDY BABY ALIVE

Tell of Mystery Child on Long Island.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—In this capital of films and the bizarre the statement was made today by two attorneys for Bruno Richard Hauptmann that their investigators have located a child on Long Island under "circumstances indicating there was more than a possibility it might be the missing Lindbergh child."

The statement was issued jointly by Attorneys C. Lloyd Fisher and Vincent A. Marco. The former, who came here to confer with Mrs. Emma Gloeckner, Hauptmann's sister, announced the launching of a new fight to save Hauptmann from the electric chair for the kidnap-slaying of the son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Cite "Physical Resemblences."

"Through our investigators," the statement read, "we succeeded in locating a child now on Long Island who, because of physical resemblances, coupled with a set of circumstances surrounding the history of the child, indicated to us that there was more than a possibility it might be the missing Lindbergh child."

The statement claimed that finger prints of the mysterious child were then forwarded to Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, with the request that the colonel furnish the lawyers with a set of the Lindbergh baby's finger prints. This request, the statement charges, met with the reply that no complete set of the baby's finger prints existed. The lawyers called this information "surprising."

Police Offer Finger Prints.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Capt. John J. Lamb of the New Jersey state police, said today a few finger prints, presumably those of the Lindbergh baby, were available for comparison with any attorneys for Bruno Richard Hauptmann might produce.

Lamb said Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent, had so notified Attorney C. Lloyd Fisher within the past week.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who prosecuted Hauptmann, commented:

Condemned Man Prefers Poison Death to Hanging

TALLINN, Estonia, Aug. 29.—(AP)—For the second time a condemned man has died by self-administered poison in Tallinn prison. A 23 year old murderer named Ots, who was sentenced to death, drank poison last night in preference to being hanged. The choice of the two methods of death is offered the condemned.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Pheasants Celebrate.

Aug. 29, 1935.

THE young ringneck pheasants and Chukar partridges on the Wheaton Experimental farm are holding a sort of "garden party" every afternoon now. Since they have been moved from their rearing pen near Carl's house to the garden they have been having a grand time. They are fed enough grain in the morning and evening to keep them contented in their new location, but during the day they scratch around in a nearby thicket and in the garden itself. As a result of this activity the grasshoppers and other insects are being reduced by large numbers.

The Bob Whites hatched under bantam hens so far have turned down everybody's invitation to go to the garden and join the rest of the game bird chicks. They are getting wilder every day, having learned what freedom means, and the fun of doing what they please all day long in the orchard. Right now there are plans under way to trick these cute little chicks and lure them into their coop so they can be moved to the garden.

* * *

Although grasshoppers are quite abundant on the farm this season, the turkeys that roam the fields in search of food are acting as an effective check on the grasshopper population. The way they feed on this insect is quite noticeable.

Seeing the turkeys snap up every grasshopper they can reminded me the other day of the way ranchers in the west send their flocks of turkeys out into the fields every day to feed on this insect pest. In the South Dakota Black Hills I saw a girl on horseback, assisted by a German shepherd dog, slowly driving a big flock of turkeys into a stubble field to feed on grasshoppers. The birds were cramming themselves full of this insect food every day.

But the turkeys on the Wheaton farm were mighty glad to leave the fields and the grasshoppers the other day when a hawk made a sudden raid. The birds were in the alfalfa at the time. Suddenly the hawk dove at the flock and killed a poult. That was all the turkeys needed to send them to the poultry yard. They roosted there that night instead of staying out in the woods, as they usually do.

* * *

One has only to look at Rawlings' scoreboard on the 'possums captured here on the farm to appreciate how many small mammals continue to thrive in the fields and woods within thirty-five or forty miles of the loop. This week the small traps which are placed to pick up animals which will prey on poultry and other bird life on the farm recorded their ninety-third 'possum since Jan. 1.

Apparently these animals just keep moving in from adjoining acreage. They strike a fence, follow it to see if they can get through to nesting birds or young poultry, and then are caught alive in traps. A number of guinea hen nests have been raided by 'possoms.

Several raccoons also have been trapped here on the farm since Jan. 1. The same traps occasionally catch crows, which are attracted by the bait placed inside of the wire enclosure.

CHINESE ARREST TWO AMERICANS IN SPY INQUIRY

HANKOW, China, Aug. 30 (Friday). (AP)—Investigation by Chinese authorities into the operation of an alleged international espionage ring in China resulted today in the detention of four foreigners, including two claimed to be Americans.

The arrests followed the trial and conviction of Joseph Walden, who was sentenced to 15 years in prison by the Hupeh high court. Walden, who throughout his trial was silent regarding his activities, claims to be a Frenchman.

The following statement was authorized by the United States consulate:

"The Chinese authorities informed the United States consulate yesterday that two men whom they had taken into custody earlier claimed to be American citizens.

"A consular official interviewed the men and examined their papers. As they appeared to be United States citizens, the Chinese released them into the consulate's charge."

In Custody of U. S. Consulate.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30 (Friday).—(AP)—Two men claiming to be Americans arrested by Chinese authorities at Hankow today were described as Julius Lemcke of Michigan and Eugene Brinson of Georgia by Felthan Watson, United States attorney here, who was advised of the men's alleged identification by the United States consular authorities in Hankow.

Lemcke is reported to be a long-time resident of Shanghai, while Brinson is believed to be a recent arrival.

Watson said the Chinese said the men attempted to assist Walden to escape from the Chinese prison during the latter's trial.

Brinson, 30 years old, gave his address as Savannah, Ga., employed here by a chemical concern. Lemcke, 50, a garage employé here, is said formerly to have lived at Jackson, Mich.

HOW'S BUSINESS?

Mr. J. D. Fairweather will tell you that business has gone to hell in a handbasket and will be a long time coming back. Mr. Fairweather dropped three million dollars in the market in October 1929, and another three million since in gilt-edged bonds and mortgages. His return on investments last year was only 1.87%. Any mention of the new inheritance and income taxes makes him sick. He is trying desperately to keep his personal expenses down . . . But Mr. Fairweather's attractive fifty-dollar-a-week secretary asked for an extra week off this summer and took a Caribbean cruise.

Ask the directors of the Versus Corporation about business and their response will be pretty uncertain and puzzled. The Corporation has had a volume this year comparable to that in 1929—but the profits nowhere near coincide. The Corporation will make only immediate commitments . . . Ask the employees of the Versus Corporation how business is, and they will tell you Okay. They have had twenty-three solid months of work. The parking lot around the factory is bright with new cars. Retail trade in the district has improved consistently for two years, and the savings banks show all-time-high deposits.

Ask Joe Tripoli about business conditions, and Joe will tell you things are swell. Joe runs a freight elevator, and gets $24 a week for forty-eight hours. His sister Rosie earns $12 a week in a rayon mill. In 1932, Joe worked sixty hours a week for $20, and Rosie made $5 a week some weeks.

Pete Hummel will tell you that business was never better. Pete sells life insurance on the dime-a-week basis. By the middle of 1932 more than half of Pete's clients had let their policies lapse. By the spring of this year eighty percent of the lapsed policies were in force again; and at present Pete is writing more insurance than he did in 1929.

THERE are two requisites for a customer—means and mood. Through all the depression there were far more means than there was buying. But the other prime essential—the mood—was lacking.

The mood is no longer lacking. The family of the man who didn't have a job in 1932 and has a job now—thinks 1935 is a pretty prosperous year. The man who has had his salary cuts restored feels that the world is normal again. When people feel prosperous, they go ahead and spend. And the American public has been spending since the spring of 1933. The improvement in business has been due to the rise in the sale of consumption goods—which the public buys. Capital goods and heavy equipment, which business buys, have lagged—because business men aren't settled in their outlook.

But too many business men have failed to realize the public's mood. Distressed by the decline in their personal fortunes and incomes, distracted by politics, uncertain because of rapidly changing conditions—they mistake their own mood for their markets'. They assume people don't want to spend money because they themselves don't want to spend. They assume people aren't buying because they aren't. So they lose sales and customers they might have and could well use!

THIS is a good time to advertise. This is a particularly good time to Tell It to Sweeney—the 1,500,000 families in New York City with incomes ranging from $6,000 down.

Aside from having more friends, relatives and transients come to New York to get on his relief rolls, Sweeney felt the depression less than most Americans. The vast diversity of New York's industries and business made his job less dispensable, more secure. Retail trade here never dropped to the levels prevailing elsewhere, and come up faster. Some huge building projects, a new bridge and subway provided payrolls for the building trades in the worst depression years. Sweeney's average income has been and is above the American average. And the vast size of the New York City and suburban market occasions more opportunities and less competition.

Advertising is cheaper here, and more resultful—because most of the market can be reached through a single newspaper. The News alone is read by two out of three New York City families, and by more suburban families than any other medium. The small page of The News gives all advertising a more effective presentation. And the success of The News as a medium—first in display linage, first in retail and first in department store advertising (first seven months, 1935) and first in advertisers' expenditure in New York—takes any gamble out of your major dependence on this major medium.

And The News has by far the lowest advertising cost. Your advertising dollar spent in New York in The News will buy more advertising in the best market in the country than it will buy in any other local market not as good!

Mrs. Clara C. Thompson to Be Fall Bride

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE news that Dr. and Mrs. Frank Cary have forwarded from their summer home in Greenbush, Wis., of the engagement of their daughter, Mrs. Clara Cary Thompson to George V. O'Connell of Plymouth and Sheboygan, Wis., is of especial interest to Chicagoans. Although Mrs. Thompson has not lived in Chicago for the last five years she was born and raised here and has a great many friends both young and old. She is the sister of Dr. Eugene Cary and the aunt of young Eugene Cary Jr.

After her divorce from Robert Haviland Thompson several years ago Mrs. Thompson and the two children went abroad to live. They spent three years skiing in Switzerland and swimming on the Riviera before Mrs. Thompson returned with Barbara, who is now nearly 15, and Peter, a young man of 5 years, to live in Wisconsin where Mrs. Thompson took a home near that of her parents. She has enjoyed the quiet and charm of a small Wisconsin town so much that she is pleased to continue living in one, and after a fall wedding Mr. O'Connell and his bride will make their home in Sheboygan, where he is in business.

Many Plan Parties for Roslyn Paine.

Paul L. Fentress is flying into Chicago today to spend a quiet week-end with his fiancée, Miss Roslyn Paine, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Garritt Smith, in their Green Lake, Wis., home, but when they return to Evanston next week the days will be filled with parties until their marriage on Sept. 12.

The evening parties will begin next Friday with a dinner Mr. Fentress' two brothers and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress Jr. and Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Fentress, will give at the Shore Acres club. The following Sunday evening, Sept. 8, Mr. Fentress' aunt, Mrs. John W. Gary, will give a dinner in her Glencoe home. The next evening Miss Jean O'Brien will give the spinster dinner in the Winnetka home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard V. O'Brien. Miss O'Brien, who will be one of Miss Paine's bridesmaids, is in Omaha at the moment visiting her fiancé, Fred P. Hamilton Jr., and his family, and the O'Briens are in Harbor Point until after Labor day.

The Tuesday evening preceding the wedding Fred A. Fairman Jr., who will be an usher, will entertain at dinner in his parents' Winnetka home and later in the evening Miss Virginia Ashcraft, the maid of honor, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft Jr., will entertain at a dance at the Saddle and Cycle club for Miss Paine, Mr. Fentress, the wedding attendants and a few of their closest friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will give the bridal dinner the evening preceding the wedding, which is to take place at the Fourth Presbyterian church in Chicago at 4:30 o'clock.

ZELL-AM-SEE, Austria.—A writer once said, many years ago, that it is only by chance that an Austrian ever thinks at all, and that certainly he never thinks about politics. That state of affairs does not exist today. The bitterness in Austrian hearts finds utterance in vehement speech, despite the danger attached to such utterance. Austrians, of the Tyrol at least, are rancorous against their government; are still bewailing the lost Tyrol that went to Italy after the peace treaty; are resentful of the hand of Mussolini in their land, and of the conditions that exist between Austria and Germany.

* *

WE sit in the cool shade of tall horse-chestnut trees and chat with a young Austrian woman. The Austrian flag, tied with its black streamer, floats overhead.

"If that flag had not been put out soldiers would have been there within a half an hour and the proprietor of this place would have been arrested," she said. "Somebody is always being arrested for something in Austria. The jails are overflowing. My father has been in jail; nearly all my friends have been in jail; I would be in jail very quickly if I were overheard talking in this fashion.

"When any one is to be jailed a police car comes for him. He must pay a fare equivalent to taxi fare for his transportation to the jail. If the jail in the town is filled he is sent to another city—Vienna, perhaps—and, although he goes second class, he must pay first class fare. Then in jail he must pay for his board—6 shillings a day. If he is too poor to pay a friend must pay for him. If the friend doesn't pay he is arrested for not paying and thrown in jail, too.

"All this is partly for the purpose of raising money; partly because of the lack of responsibility on the part of the young men of the Heimwehr, under the command of Prince Starhemberg, who are ruthless and obsessed with their authority."

* *

THE young woman continued her narrative of conditions in Austria. Austria was without the means of self-support. There were six million people in Austria, but two million of that number lived in Vienna. It was impossible for so small a country to support so great a capital. Now that trade with Germany was cut off things were very bad. Germany was their natural ally and friend. Germans and Austrians spoke the same tongue; but now they must hate Germany. The government took its orders from Mussolini, who wanted no German Nazi support in Austria. As a matter of fact, all that part of the Tyrol was largely of Nazi sympathy; naturally the people would rather be allied with Germany than under Italy's thumb. Austria could not live without German trade, she continued, with mounting emotion.

As she talked a police car dashed down the street filled with soldiers.

"Some poor devil about to be arrested," she said. "Well, that's one way of getting money into the coffers of the government, I suppose. It is not good to have money in Austria, for it means that you either pay fines to keep yourself or your friends out of jail. If you have no money and your friends have none you are not arrested."

* *

AN Austrian has to pay an enormous sum if he goes into Germany. Now, too, a German must pay a thousand marks before he can enter Austria. Thus have the governments tried to stifle communication between these countries. Our friend, who was educated in Germany and in England, has many friends in Munich and Bamberg. Three times has she been refused permission to go into Germany.

"But my father finally got permission to go," she added. "He has properties in Nuremberg, and because by letting him go he might make a little money that could be extorted from him he was allowed to go. A friend of mine—German—is married to an Austrian. She was not permitted to cross the border to see her mother when she was dying."

"It is all very sad for Austria," she concluded. "We have no leader to look to. Italy is merely using us in her own political schemes. We cannot stand alone. Germany is our natural ally."

Add Snow Leopards from Himalayas to Museum Exhibits

A group of snow leopards, a rare species of large cats inhabiting the snow line area of the high Himallayas in central Asia at altitudes from 10,000 to 18,000 feet, has been placed on exhibition at Field Museum of Natural History, Stephen C. Simms, director, announced yesterday. An adult female and two partly grown kittens are shown amid a reproduction of a scene in their natural environment.

The animals are considered the most beautiful members of the cat family. While about the same size as the common leopard, the snow leopard differs radically in appearance due to its distinctive gray coloration and strikingly large black spots.

'Lucia' Is Next Opera of Navy Pier Program

Mildred Gerber to Appear in Name Part.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"Lucia di Lammermoor" will be presented by the Chicago Municipal Opera company in the Navy pier auditorium tomorrow and Sunday nights. Mildred Gerber, who made a brilliant debut in the name part of the work with the Chicago Grand Opera two years ago, will sing the rôle in both performances.

William Green, director of the new organization, will sing the principal tenor part, and others in the cast will be Angelo Pilotto, Giuseppe Cavadore, Hazel Sanborn, and Howard Preston. Admission prices will remain at fifty cents and one dollar.

The Chicago City Opera company sends word of the engagement of some notable singers, among them Tito Schipa, Giovanni Martinelli, Rosa Raisa, and the Chicago coloratura soprano, Rosalinda Morini.

Miss Morini, who scored a sensational success when she sang with Victor Grabel's band in Grant park this summer, will appear with Mr. Schipa in "Mignon" and with Mme. Raisa and Mr. Martinelli in "La Juive," also in "Lakme," "Lucia di Lammermoor," and "Rigoletto."

Bohumir Kryl, an expert veteran among bandmasters, is the final one of the music makers to conduct concerts in the delectable series in Grant park. As he appeared last night, he was under the handicap of a football game being played a few hundred feet to the south. Consequently his audience was not one of the greatest of the summer.

Mr. Kryl directs without a stick. He transmits his effects through facial expression, bodily gesture, and arm beat, but he seldom fails in getting his effects. He is adept in classics like Goldmark's "Country Wedding" and Rimsky-Korsakow's "Capriccio Espagnol." He has a magical touch for a Viennese waltz, and he is a first class accompanist for a soloist.

The soloist last night was the soprano, Berenice Taylor, who has made frequent appearances on the air from station W-G-N. Engaged too late to have her name on the program, she sang "Depuis le jour" from "Louise" so charmingly, with such lovely tone and dramatic expression, that she was recalled for two encores, one more than the majority of Grant park soloists have been able to acquire this summer.

Mr. Kryl and his band will play again tonight. This time he will be both conductor and cornet soloist. The program:

1. Overture to "I Martiri" ....Donizetti
2. "Invitation to the Waltz" .... Weber-Weingartner
3. "Dance of the Wood Nymphs" ....Suk
   "Juba Dance" ....Dett
   "Country Gardens" ....Grainger
4. The Story of the Kalendar, from Suite "Scheherazade". Rimsky-Korsakow
5. Fantasia on Russian Airs.............Levy
   Mr. Kryl.
6. Overture, "Di Ballo" ....Sullivan
7. Ballet music from "Rosamunde". Schubert
8. "Symphony Pathetique" ...Tschaikowsky
9. "Marche Slave" ....Tschaikowsky
   "The Star Spangled Banner."

Small Children Give Playlets to Swell Ice Fund

"The Bad Little Fairy in Fairyland" was the title of the latest benefit entertainment for THE TRIBUNE Free Ice fund. The playlet was given in a basement by five small children of Rogers Park. They charged 1 cent admission and collected 20 cents.

The child actors are Norman Levine, 1625 North Shore avenue; Annette Ruth Greenberg, 1622 Waller avenue; Eleanor Stengle, 1620½ Wallen avenue, and Joan Underwood and Janet Underwood, both of 1629 North Shore avenue.

River Forest circus	$	4.52
Rogers Park play		.20
A friend		3.00
Total	$	7.72
Previously acknowledged		1,640.42
Grand total		$1,648.14

Contributions to the ice fund or to the Camp Algonquin fund, through which mothers and children are sent on two-week outings to Camp Algonquin, should be addressed to the cashier at Tribune Tower. All donations will be acknowledged in the columns of this paper.

Sally's Guests Have a Grand Time at Hotel

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The Stevens hotel entertained one hundred boys and girls yesterday afternoon at the last party of the summer, and they certainly did it up brown! The whole hotel was turned over to us and did the youngsters love it!

The huge playroom—aptly called "Fairyland"—rang with shrieks of laughter and excitement as the youngsters dived for teeter-totters, slides, books, the sand pile, doll houses. Miss Lilly Ruth Hanson, the instructor in charge, organized boys and girls into groups for billiards, ping-pong, and numerous games, including "The Farmer in the Dell." Many of the kids were busy as beavers with hammer and nails at a "carpenter game." Charles Peterson, the billiard champion, instructed all the boys on the game, did trick shots for them, and conducted a contest. Not only that, but he awarded two shining silver cups to the winners!

After an hour of play, silver and blue chairs were brought in and Seymour Simons, the orchestra leader, came up to greet the youngsters. He was grand to them, and they all responded to him immediately. With him came pretty Mary Jane Walsh, who sang several numbers for the kids; and two beautiful girls, Lorraine Santschi and Josephine Buckley—dressed in lovely white fluffy dresses and carrying tiny white parasols, who did a "Rainy Day" dance for us. We loved every minute of it, and had lots of fun playing little musical instruments Miss Hanson had for us.

After all this entertainment in came waiters bearing pink ice cream and cookies. As a final treat each child was presented with a box of Mrs. Snyder's candy kisses.

Smart Street Ensemble for Fall

Copy Smart Silk Ideas of Summer Time.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Good, wearable costume accessories have staying powers, or at least a couple of fashion lives! For instance, the belt and three cornered neckerchief idea that took the young crowd by storm last spring and stayed for summer. You bought them in plain and printed silks, remember, the neckerchief fringed and the belt covered smoothly with silk to match.

Being so good and so helpful for the gentle morning dressing trick of completely rejuvenating an old dress or suit, they've earned the newer guise of velvet. You'll find them in all shades and colors, priced just as modestly as the silk duets of last summer.

Glittering bits of splendor to tie around the necklines of otherwise dull and dark dresses are now ready, the first parade of effective fall neckwear. The neckwear is not overdone this fall either. The material is mostly all dull silk or crêpe with just enough of the tinsel ingredients to make these contrasts different from the rest of the white accents. Short jabots, round collars like petals and a few effective long square cut collars are mighty good for that dated black or blue thin wool outfit.

For that very gay young crowd of shoppers that has more fun counting coppers and finding real bargains than the oldsters out on a buying binge with a couple of bank accounts to kill, we've found some new footwear that will make the eyes pop at the price tags.

Low heeled sandals for street wear in suede and lether combines, snubnosed street shoes for your first tweeds and sports clothes, high and low heeled pumps in colored suedes and novelty fabrics trimmed in bands of lether and a slick variety of silver, and gold lether party sandals with both the very low heel and the high heel are ready for the rush.

Fashion photograph . . . dark gray tucked velveteen in the snappy swagger coat is combined with a slim skirt of plain gray velveteen and accented with a wine and white knitted blouse and ascot scarf. This is one of the smartest of new fall street ensembles. Red or dark accessories of gray or black complete the outfit. Obtainable in a Chicago shop.

Hits "Mental" Religion at Nazarene Assembly

Danville, Ill., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Dr. R. T. Williams, Kansas City, addressed the Church of the Nazarene annual assembly today, decried modernist trends and intellectual conceptions of religion. "Unless the doctrins of the church are accepted both in heart and mind," he told delegates to the yearly meeting of the Chicago central district, "we will not be able to do the tasks set before us. The heart needs the head to direct, and in turn the head needs the heart for protection."

U. of C. to Award Diplomas to 502 at Ceremonies Today

Five hundred and two University of Chicago students will be awarded degrees and certificates at 3 p. m. today at the university's 181st convocation exercises to be held in the university chapel. The ceremony will close the summer quarter, and will raise the number of diplomas awarded since September to 1,905.

Dr. Gordon Jennings Laing, retiring dean of the humanities division at the university, will deliver the convocation address on "The General and the Special in Education." President Robert M. Hutchins is to preside and confer the diplomas.

Two married couples will be among those receiving the degree of doctor of philosophy today. They are Ludvig G. Browman and his wife, Audra Arnold Browman, 5478 Greenwood avenue, and Robert A. Cohen and his wife, Mabel Blake Cohen, 5421 Ingleside avenue. Among others receiving degrees will be Amos Alonzo Stagg Jr., who will be awarded the master of arts degree in education.

Freshmen week at the university will open on Sept. 25 and classes will resume on Oct. 2.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Arkin, 3825 Jackson boulevard, announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Judith, to Samuel B. Adler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Adler of 1501 South Komensky avenue. The marriage will take place on Jan. 5.

Polo Games to Be Benefit

Mrs. Lyell H. Ritchie is chairman for publicity—and also crack ticket salesman—for the Junior Infant Welfare society of Hinsdale which is sponsoring a series of three polo games at the Oak Brook club on Sunday, a week from Sunday, and Sunday, Sept. 15.

The games are important ones nationally, for they are the intracircuit national championship, and the twelve goal national championship, two of the American Polo association's four annual events. The Oak Brook club team, the Black Horse Troop team, the Fort Sheridan team, and the Twin Cities Polo club team representing Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Fort Snelling, Minn., will meet in test matches at the Oak Brook club this afternoon to determine which two teams will play in the first match Sunday.

Capt. Paul Butler of the Oak Brook team has arranged a dinner-dance at the Oak Brook club tonight for the visiting polo players. Proceeds from the boxes and seats sold for the tournament will go to the Infant Welfare and the Boy Scouts.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The newest addition to the dusting powder department in our cabinets is a charming one—a fat box of airy-fairy powder in the ever attractive fragrance of a particularly true lavender.

Lavender is, we discover, one of THE scents of the moment. While you couldn't say that it ever did a fadeout in popularity, since a certain large group of women who like gentle, sweet scents always craved it we find that women are turning to it now who had previously passed it up for more exotic fragrances. The explanation seems to be the turn in thought, in dress and in manner to the romantic and the feminine. Sweetness and light and plenty of lace seem to dominate the feminine realm these days. Women are finding it fun to be feminine again and, of course, the men thoroughly approve.

Lavender is thoroughly ladylike, which is tremendously fashionable this season. Besides it has real charm. It's a delicate, cool scent with a sweetness that's never annoyingly cloying and we have never failed to find it attractive, especially when it was used consistently. A bit of lavender used as a perfume, lavender sachets for the clothing, lavender dusting powder for the flesh and you're carrying out your perfume motif in the ideal way. You'll always have a sweet suggestion of the scent about you but you'll never be guilty of the sin of being overscented.

The lavender bath powder is of beautiful texture, fine as face powder almost, and perfectly perfumed. The fresh fragrance has been caught and held. Dusted over the flesh after a bath it gives the skin that well known and admirable satiny feeling and perfumes it to just the right degree. 'T'isn't expensive, either.

FLOOD SWEEPS BUS OFF ROAD; 4 KILLED, 3 HURT

Chicagoan Among Dead Near Willcox, Ariz.

Willcox, Ariz., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Four persons were drowned and three others injured, it was learned today, when a six foot wall of water from a cloudburst in the Dragoon mountains swept down upon a transcontinental bus near here last night.

The water lifted the vehicle from the roadway, carried it 20 yards and dashed it against a telephone pole. The bus was turned over twice and half buried in the water and débris.

Chicagoan Among Dead.

The victims were Joseph N. Sablin, 3949 Jackson boulevard, Chicago; Mary Dosh, 28, and Reyon Dosh, 11, sisters, of Tucson, Ariz., and John J. Real of Tulsa, Okla. Their bodies were taken to a morgue in Dragoon. Sablin was a retired business man en route to Tucson for his health.

The injured were Mrs. Louise Kissell of Dallas, Tex.; Nathan Gold, address unknown, and Mrs. Pearl Seeback of Oklahoma City.

There were 27 passengers aboard the bus in addition to the porter and the driver, Lee Gilmore, of El Paso, Tex. It was said the bus had stopped on comparatively high ground to wait for swirling waters to lower in a railway underpass.

Watch Oncoming Flood.

Suddenly the occupants of the bus saw the flood, a mile and a quarter in width, surging down on them. Terror stricken, they began to rush to safety, but the water was upon them too quickly. It was reported the two men drowned were washed away in the swiftly moving current.

KOSSUTH MARKS' $150,000 ESTATE IS WILLED TO 32 KIN

The will of Kossuth Marks, retired insurance official, disposing of an estate estimated at $150,000 among thirty-two relatives, was admitted to probate yesterday. Mr. Marks died July 1 at the age of 82. He resided at 51 Kenilworth avenue, Kenilworth. The will also gives $10,000 to the Y. M. C. A. college and $5,000 each to the Chicago Lighthouse, an institution for the blind, and the Union League Foundation for Boys.

Also admitted to probate was the will of James D. Corcoran, plastering contractor, leaving an estate estimated at $72,500 to two sisters and a brother. Mr. Corcoran, who resided at 443 Wrightwood avenue, died July 11. He was 60 years old.

The following other wills were admitted to probate:

JOHN LYONS McCARTHY, died June 9. Estate, $10,000, to two sisters, six nieces, and two nephews. Minnie Brood, sister, executrix.

FRANK MACHLEURCZ, died June 14. Estate, $5,500, to two daughters. Gertrude Szpila, daughter, executrix.

Listing an estate of $150,000, the will of the late Charles E. Wilcox, former director of Sprague, Warner & Co., was admitted to probate during the day by Judge Martin Decker in the Lake county Probate court at Waukegan. Mr. Wilcox died Aug. 17, at his home, 280 Linden Park place, Highland Park. Bequests provided are: $20,000 to a daughter, Mrs. Nellie M. Washburn of Highland Park, and $1,000 to her daughter, Sally; $20,000 to a grandson, Charles Wilcox Cregier; $1,000 to a sister, Mrs. Emma Morgan, and to a daughter, Mrs. Sara W. Cregier, the houhehold effects and the income from the residue of the estate, which is to be held in trust.

BAREFOOTED MAN TELLS COURT HE ONCE WAS JUDGE

Barefooted and clad in ragged garments, a prisoner facing a technical charge of disorderly conduct appeared before Judge Frank M. Padden yesterday in the Municipal court.

"My name is Steven Abby, I'm 53 years old," he said, "and once I was a judge. I served in 1914 and 1915 in the Superior court of Arizona."

The prisoner then told a long story of being educated in the east, being graduated from the New York Law school, then going to Arizona, where he served on the bench until recalled. He came to Chicago in 1927, he said, failed to pass the bar examinations, and gradually became a "bum."

He was brought to court by Rogers Park police after being allowed to sleep at the station for two nights. Judge Padden continued the case until Saturday to investigate the man's story and decide what could be done for him.

Walter J. Van Derslice, Real Estate Dealer, Dies

Funeral services for Walter J. Van Derslice, real estate dealer and former owner of the Postoffice News company, will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home of his sister, Mrs. Lula Root, 174 Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park. Burial will be in Forest Home cemetery. Mr. Van Derslice, who died at Passavant hospital on Wednesday, was born in Grandville, Ill., in 1865, and came to Chicago in 1872. Surviving him are his widow, Nora, his sister, and a brother, Earl, of Clinton, Ill. He lived at 1414 East 70th street.

JOHN T. McGRATH.

John T. McGrath, assistant postmaster, who has been the Chicago postoffice's official representative of Santa Claus for fourteen years, died yesterday at the Henrotin hospital from a throat infection. He was 69 years old. He had spent 54 years in the postal service.

Mr. McGrath was appointed Santa Claus' representative by Arthur C. Lueder, who became postmaster in 1921. Each succeeding December Mr. McGrath opened the letters that came into the postoffice addressed to Santa Claus, paying the postage for those on which there were no stamps, and interesting individuals and charitable organizations in fulfilling the wishes of the children—usually needy.

Starting in the postoffice in April, 1881, McGrath advanced steadily. His appointment as an assistant postmaster came on Dec. 1, 1920.

Mr. McGrath lived in Crystal Lake. He was taken to the hospital last Monday. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Amanda McGrath, a son, Arnold, employed in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE circulation department, and a daughter, Mrs. Florence Hall.

Mr. McGrath's body was taken last night to 127 North Parkside avenue. It will be moved at noon today to St. Ignatius auditorium, 1300 Loyola avenue, where it will lie until time for the funeral at 10 a. m. tomorrow in St. Ignatius church. Burial will be at Calvary cemetery.

MINNIE KRUEGER, 87, DIES; RITES THIS AFTERNOON

Funeral services for Mrs. Minnie Weltzien Krueger, who for seventy years was a resident of the Chicago area, will be held this afternoon in St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church in Evanston. Burial will be in Ridgewood cemetery, Des Plaines.

Mrs. Krueger, who was 87 years old, died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William F. Dumyahn, 1318 Ashland avenue, Evanston, as a result of injuries incurred in a fall a week ago. Her husband, Frederick C. Krueger, died five years ago.

Mrs. Krueger was born in Weckenburg, Germany, and in 1865 came to Glenview, Ill., where she was married in 1874, and where she lived continuously until 1921, when she went to make her home with Mrs. Dumyahn.

Surviving are six sons, two daughters, thirty-nine grandchildren and twenty-three great grandchildren, all residents of Cook county.

250 TON FAMILY MEMBERS MEET AT 40TH REUNION

Two hundred and fifty members of the Ton family attended the 40th annual family reunion yesterday at Wicker Park in Lake county, Ind. At the same time members of the Pacific coast branch of the family met at Los Angeles, Cal. The family consists of 1,140 descendants of John Ton, whose children left their home in Holland and settled in the Calumet region in 1849.

In the last year there have been 17 marriages, nine births, and three deaths in the family. Prizes for the youngest member at the reunion went to Marshall Lou DeLacy, 6 weeks' old, 231 Columbia street, Michigan City, Ind., and for the oldest present member to Mrs. Henry R. DeYoung, 83, of 10948 Wabash avenue.

F. C. Butine Dies; Michigan Celery Industry Leader

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Frank C. Butine, celery grower, shipper, and owner of the Butine Celery Box and Crate company, died suddenly while sitting at his desk today.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Although Wayne King will close his long engagement with W-G-N and at the Aragon ballroom on Sept. 29 he will continue to make Chicago his headquarters. For some time to come he will broadcast his four commercial shows—Sunday and Monday evenings on CBS, and Tuesday and Wednesday on NBC—from local studios. During the remaining nights of each week he will play one night dance engagements for which he will receive a fancy figure.

Wayne has turned down several attractive offers to play at theaters, fearing that his radio shows would suffer if he were occupied with 30 or more stage appearances each week. If he should play three or possibly four one night dance engagements a week he could probably do as well financially as in theaters—and have several nights for himself—something he hasn't had in many years.

His commercial broadcasts will be made from Chicago because there would be heavy additional telephone line charges that he would have to absorb if they were aired from points other than Chicago or New York. Also under union rules there would be a pretty stiff charge for a standby orchestra if he broadcasts anywhere outside his own territory.

The crash of the second Sky Ride tower on Northerly Island will be broadcast over WMAQ from 3 to 3:15 this afternoon. Since no one will be permitted on the island to view the toppling of the steel skeleton this may be the closest you can come to participating in these final World's Fair obsequies. A microphone was placed atop the tower yesterday to record the noise as the tower falls. Charlie Lyon will be on hand to describe the proceedings.

Dwight Weist is getting a lot of consolation these days from his associates on the March of Time broadcast. For months Dwight has been tuning in short wave broadcasts from Germany and watching news reels to get Hitler's voice down pat. And the day before he was to go on the air as Der Fuehrer's double he picked up a paper only to learn that Hitler had undergone an operation to take the hoarseness out of his throat. Now Dwight is waiting to hear the new Hitler voice. Maybe he will have to learn a new simulation.

WMCA at New York has a new program at 9:30 Friday evenings called "The Voice of Corn Liquor." Oddly enough, there is no whisky tenor in the cast. The headliner is one Jim Douglas, described as a hill billy "Voice of Experience," and a "Lonesome Pine Singer."

Don Pedro and his orchestra will turn out hot rhumbas, tangos, and Spanish love ditties on week mornings over WBBM, beginning next Tuesday, in the interest of a State street store.

SEIZE WOMAN, 71, AFTER ABORTION KILLS MATRON

Mrs. Sophie Mann, 71 years old, 3155 South Halsted street, was booked on a charge of murder last night by Deering street police after a coroner's jury earlier had returned a verdict of murder by abortion in the death of Mrs. Frances Pink, 28 years old, 921 West 32d street. The coroner's jury was unable to determine who performed the abortion, but Acting Captain John Farrell ordered the elderly woman booked after, he said, he had obtained additional evidence which he did not reveal.

Mrs. Pink, before she died Wednesday, was reported to have named Mrs. Mann as the person who performed the operation. Mrs. Mann said she formerly was a midwife, but had not practiced for more than eight years. Police said the dead woman's husband, John Pink, had made a statement in which he said he knew nothing of the alleged abortion until his wife was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

Rites Here Tomorrow for J. C. Kennett, Slain in West

The ashes of James C. Kennett Sr., retired Chicago contractor, who was slain in a mining camp near Auburn, Cal., about two months ago, are being returned to Chicago, it was learned yesterday. Services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the Mount Olive chapel, Irving Park boulevard and Narragansett street. Kennett is survived by his wife, Emma of 6341 Sheridan road, from whom he had been divorced; by two sons, James Jr., 21 years old, and Maynard, 19 years old, and a daughter, Joyce, 15 years old.

Hunt for Kin of Man Found in Coma on Sheridan Road

A man about 28 years old, identified through the engraving on his wrist watch as H. O. Ballen, who was found in a coma early yesterday morning at Balmoral avenue and Sheridan road, still was unconscious at the County hospital last night. Physicians at the hospital believe he is the victim of poisoning. Summerdale police are endeavoring to locate relatives.

Bernard Janis, Conductor with I. C. 20 Years, Dies

Bernard G. Janis, 42 years old, 6048 Woodlawn avenue, a conductor employed by the Illinois Central railroad for the last twenty years, died of a heart attack yesterday in front of the Illinois Central station at 1409 East 63d street.

DR. W. T. BROWN IS DEAD; FOUNDER OF SANATORIUM

Dr. William Townsend Brown, founder of the Valmora Sanatorium, Valmora, N. M., for tubercular employés of a score of large Chicago business concerns, died there yesterday. He was 65 years old.

Dr. Brown was born in Ireland and came to the United States when he was 15 years old. He first settled in Wisconsin and moved to New Mexico in 1904. In 1910 he interested a number of Chicago firms in his project of caring for tubercular patients at minimum cost.

The sanatorium has been operated since then as a non-profit organization under the direction of Dr. Brown.

John K. Cushing, Member of Trucking Concern, Dies

John K. Cushing, associated with his brother, Thomas, in the trucking business which was founded by their father, John J. Cushing, before the Chicago fire of 1871, died yesterday at his home, 4401 West End avenue. Mr. Cushing was 59 years old. He was a member and former officer of the Cartage Exchange of Chicago. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in St. Mel's church, and burial will be in Calvary cemetery. Mr. Cushing, who was unmarried, is survived by his brother and four sisters, Mrs. Daniel Ryan, Mrs. James A. Ward and the Misses Jule and Mary Cushing.

Movie Studio Builder Dies; Illness Subject of Row

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 29.—(AP)—John Frederick Jasper, 50, who amassed a fortune in movie studio building ventures in Fort Lee, N. J., and Hollywood, died today after a paralytic stroke. Stricken several weeks ago, Jasper was the subject of acrimonious debate between his wife and Dr. Cecil Reynolds, who charged his patient was suffering from narcotic poisoning. A practical nurse employed for him was exonerated of any blame. Mrs. Jasper then won a fight in Superior court to be appointed her husband's guardian and had Jasper removed to their home from a hospital.

H. N. Goff Dies; Merchant in Aurora for 30 Years

H. N. Goff, 65 years old, a merchant in Aurora for 30 years, died yesterday at his home in Aurora. He had been ill for several weeks. Mr. Goff is survived by his widow, Elizabeth, one son, Douglas of Aurora, and two daughters, Mrs. Russell Long of Chicago, and Mrs. Robert Myers of Elmhurst. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning in St. Mary's church. Interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

DEAN BOUCHER NAMED HEAD OF W. VIRGINIA U.

DR. C. S. BOUCHER.

Dispatches from Morgantown, W. Va., last night stated that Dr. Chauncey Samuel Boucher of the University of Chicago had been elected president of West Virginia university and would take office on Oct. 1. He succeeds Dr. Robert A. Armstrong. Dr. Boucher, who is 49 years old, was graduated in 1909 from the University of Michigan, which later granted him a master's degree and a doctorate. He taught at the University of Wisconsin, Ohio State university, the University of Texas, and in Washington university at St. Louis before coming to the University of Chicago in 1923 as professor of American history.

Since 1925 Dr. Boucher has been dean of the college of arts, literature, and science. He was one of those most active in the establishment of the university's new plan of education, under which attendance at lectures is not required, the student's progress being measured in accomplishments rather than in the time passed at the institution. He is the author of several works on southern history. At present Dr. Boucher is on a vacation in Michigan.

BY MARY MEADE.

If the distinctive flavor of the quince is among your family's favorites, now's the time to turn your thoughts toward quince canning. This fruit comes into our markets as a general rule beginning about the last week in August.

When you're quince buying, whether you pick the fruit by the unit or the pound, remember that the large and smooth ones generally are considered the choicest. They require extremely careful handling, as bruises soon become dark and unusable. However, it's possible to keep the fruit fresh and fine for a considerable length of time with proper storage. In a cool, dry place, with an occasional polishing with a dry cloth, they may be purchased now and saved for canning on some likely later date.

Quinces require long cooking to become tender. They may be cooked in an ordinary kettle directly over the heat, in a fireless cooker if you have one, or under steam pressure. The two latter methods give to the fruit a dark, rich red color.

Since the flavor of the quince itself is fairly strong, it frequently is combined with tart apple—either half and half or with twice as much apple for jelly making. Equal parts of cranberry, quince, and apple juice also give a jelly of a fine color and flavor.

In general, to make quince jelly, cut the fruit in small pieces, add sufficient water to float them, and cook until tender. The juice is then drained off and used with two-thirds as much sugar as juice in your ordinary jelly making procedure.

Quince honey is an old time favorite. Sometimes it is made with part apple, but we really prefer the recipe which asks nothing but quinces, sugar, and water. It's put together like this:

Quince Honey.
5 large quinces
5 pounds sugar
1 pint boiling water

Pare and grate the quinces. Dissolve the sugar in the hot water over a low heat, add the grated quince, and cook for 15 or 20 minutes. Turn quickly into hot sterile glasses and seal. When cold the mixture should be about the color and consistency of honey.

Still if you prefer the combination type of quince honey here's a recipe you're sure to like:

Quince and Apple Honey.
6 large quinces
4 large sweet apples
Juice of 2 lemons
Sugar
3 pints boiling water

Pare the quinces and apples and measure the pulp. Pour the boiling water over the sugar, using two-thirds as much sugar as the combined measure of the fruit pulp, and stir until the sugar is almost dissolved. Add the fruit pulp and lemon juice and boil the mixture until clear. Seal immediately in hot sterile jars.

Even simpler is the making of quince and apple jam. Begin this by washing the quinces and removing the blossom end. Cut in small pieces, add sufficient water to cover the fruit, and cook until soft. Combine the pulp with an equal measure of tart diced apples and two-thirds as much sugar as combined fruit. Boil until thick and clear and seal immediately.

BANANA-GRAPE ICE CREAM.
1¼ cups grape juice.
1 banana, rubbed through sieve.
4 tablespoons lemon juice.
1 cup whipping cream.

Melt the marshmallows with the grape juice in the top of a double boiler. Cool, and add the banana and lemon juice, mixing thoroughly. Turn into the tray of a mechanical refrigerator and chill until mixture begins to freeze. Beat the cream until stiff and fold into the fruit mixture. Return to tray and freeze without stirring.

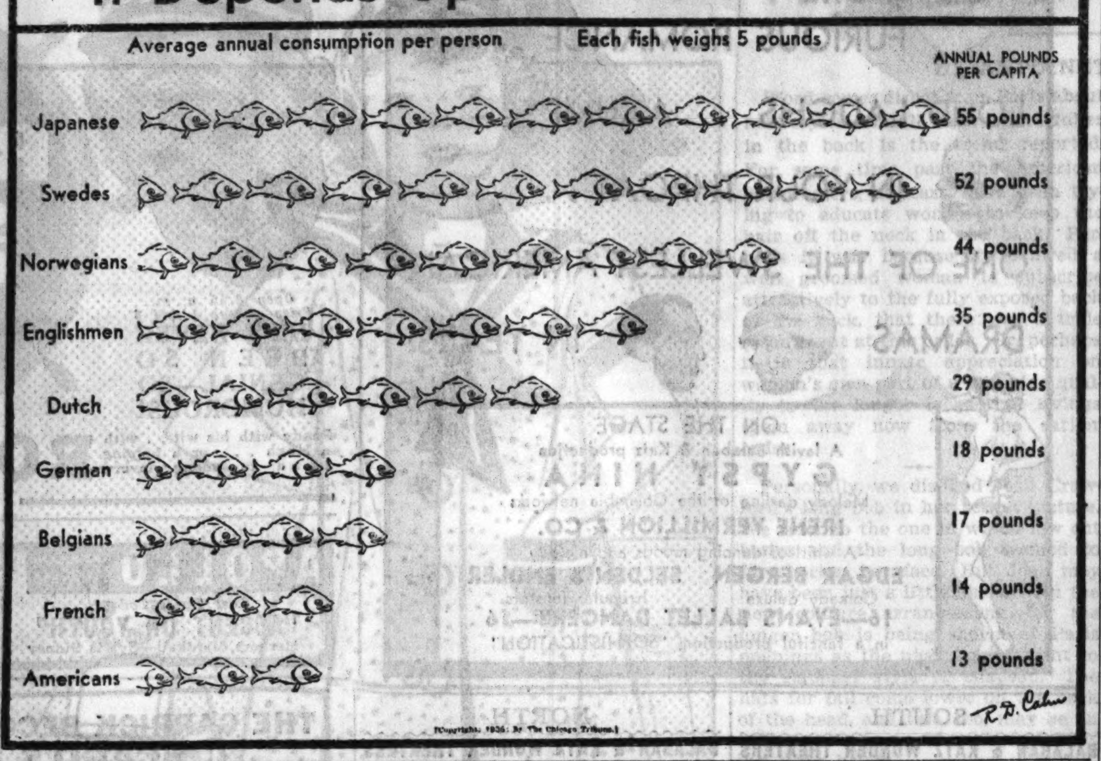
How Much Fish Do You Eat? It Depends Upon Where You Live



SOME POINTERS ON QUALITIES OF FRUITS FOR JELLY

Varieties of the same fruits differ in jelly making power. The season, and where the fruits grow, influence acid and pectin content. A mixture of underripe and ripe fruit will make the best jelly. The former has more acid and pectin. The latter furnishes desirable flavor. Overripe fruit should not be used.

Tart quinces and apples such as winesap or crabapples, cranberries, currants, wild grapes, gooseberries, and plums of the wild goose type, have sufficient acid. A tablespoon of strained lemon juice to each cup of blackberry, red and black raspberry, ripe Concord grape, plum, or quince juice not only helps jellying but improves the flavor.

Experienced jelly makers often blend the juices of two fruits to give jellies a delicious flavor or attractive color, or to get the necessary acid and pectin. Some good combinations are currant and raspberry, raspberry and gooseberry, apple and quince.

BABY FEEDING EXPERT REVEALS TRAINING PLAN

Add One Food a Week, She Advises.

Training the child's appetite for healthy food habits begins the day he is born, if the mother is wise, says Miss Gertrude E. Conont, extension nutritionist of the University of Arkansas. She will save herself considerable grief, for the formation of good habits is much easier than breaking bad ones.

Up to six months of age, the baby's food should consist largely of milk, fruit juice, and strained vegetable liquor. The milk furnishes protein for tissue building, calcium and phosphorus for body building, and the vegetable and fruits furnish an extra amount of minerals and vitamins which are necessary for growth and health.

Additions Made Carefully.

Additions to the diet should be made carefully and slowly in order not to upset the child's digestion.

In introducing a new food to the baby, choose a time when the child is hungry, Miss Conont suggests, adding that only one food a week should be added to the diet. After six months of age, the child will be eating cooked and strained cereal and cooked and strained vegetables such as spinach, carrots, green beans and peas, and tomatoes. From one to two tablespoons per day should be given, increasing the amount as the child's growth and appetite requires.

Preparation Is Important.

The food value of these vegetables lies largely in the method of preparation, says Miss Conont. They should be cooked until tender, but no longer, for overcooking brings out strong flavors which are disagreeable to child and adult alike. Very little salt and no pepper is the rule, for the child needs mild flavored foods.

Candy or other sweets between meals are taboo in a carefully planned diet, says Miss Conont. Sweets satisfy the appetite quickly and are apt to be substituted for those foods necessary to build a healthy body.

Tomatoes Easily Gather Up Odors, Research Shows

Tomatoes take up odors more easily than fruits or vegetables, recent studies show. The wax on the skin absorbs the odor, which later goes into the flesh of the tomato.

Having Fish Today? ASK FOR LEA & PERRINS SAUCE THE ORIGINAL WORCESTERSHIRE

FOOD OFFERINGS SHOW BUT LITTLE CHANGE IN PRICES

Quotations on Meats Slightly Erratic.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Food prices in Chicago and suburban stores have made but few changes since last week. Most of the bargain counters will feature the same items today and tomorrow as a week ago and some stores have marked down their price tags on picnic lunch materials.

Butcher shops have turned to beef roasts, pork loin roasts, and several kinds of fresh fish in their efforts to meet the demands of housewives for lower priced meat cuts. While wholesale beef prices have been shaved 50 cents to $1 a hundred pounds since last week, round and sirloin steaks have advanced from two to three cents a pound in most shops.

Pork Loins Show Drop.

Live hog prices at the stockyards advanced 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds during the week, but pork loins dropped about 50 cents a hundred on the wholesale markets, according to federal live stock market reporters. Most retail shops are offering these cuts at two to four cents a pound less than last week.

The same unstable situation holds true in the lamb market. With live lamb prices down from 60 to 75 cents a hundred pounds from last week and dressed lamb selling about 50 cents a hundred lower at wholesale, price tags on leg of lamb remain unchanged to one cent a pound higher than a week ago in most retail butcher shops.

Liberal shipments of fresh tomatoes from many nearby points have forced prices of this product to the lowest levels of the season in most retail stores. Prices vary considerably with differences in quality. Receipts on the wholesale markets are beginning to slow up and market reporters expect prices to advance within the next few days.

Potatoes are four to six cents a peck lower than last week, but the drop in price is expected to be only temporary as wholesale prices are slightly higher than a week ago. Fresh peaches of good quality are now plentiful in the retail stores at prices considered reasonable. Wholesale peach prices are beginning to go up as the peak of the harvest in Illinois orchards has passed.

Michigan Fruit Plentiful.

Fresh pears, plums, and peaches from Michigan are now reaching Chicago in volume. They are mostly of good quality and are selling at reasonable prices. Cooking apples today and tomorrow will be slightly lower than last week in most stores.

Cabbage, roasting ears, cucumbers, and green onions are lower in most stores than a week ago. Heavy local supplies of these and other vegetables continue to hold prices at a low level.

Head lettuce is higher than a week ago, but heavy shipments during the last few days have caused a decrease in wholesale prices. Green beans are higher than last week on both the retail and wholesale market. Eggs continued their upward price trend begun four weeks ago.

Coloring May Be Added to Juice of Green Apples

The pale color of the juice of green apples makes it possible to add green or red vegetable coloring and mint or rose geranium leaves or cinnamon for variety in flavor.

TRIBUNE RECIPES

TOMATO CATSUP.
12 apples.
5 green peppers.
10 onions.
3 cups sugar.
5 tablespoons salt.
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cayenne pepper.
1 quart vinegar.

Cook the tomatoes, apples, peppers, and onions together until soft, and strain through a sieve. Add the remaining ingredients and simmer for one hour until thick. Bottle while hot, and seal.

CANTALOUPE PICKLES.
3 underripe cantaloupes.
2 cups vinegar.
1⅓ cups sugar.
6 whole cloves.
4 pieces cinnamon bark.

Pare the cantaloupe, remove seeds, and cut into thin strips 2 inches long. Boil the sugar and vinegar together several minutes, adding the spices tied in a bag. Then add the fruit and boil in the sirup until clear. Seal in sterile jars, filling with the hot sirup.

LEMON PICKLES.

Choose small lemons. Wash and wipe them dry. Then remove the thin outer yellow rind by grating or by peeling it off. [The grated rind is a good flavoring for pudding, lemonade, etc.] Place the lemons closely in layers in stoneware jar. Cover each layer with salt and let stand for about ten days or until the lemons become soft. Wipe the lemons off [not all the salt should be wiped off] and pack in glass jars. Cover with a boiling hot spiced vinegar made as follows: Add one ounce of mixed pickling spices for each quart of vinegar. Tie spices in a piece of muslin, put into an enamelware preserving kettle and add vinegar. Heat for 10 minutes and pour on pickles until jar overflows. Put some of the spices from the bag in the jars with the lemon. Seal. In about three months these pickles reach their prime. They are delicious with veal.

PICKLED PEARS.
4 quarts pears.
2 pounds granulated sugar.
2 cups vinegar.
⅛ ounce stick cinnamon.
¼ ounce whole cloves.

Peel the pears. Boil sugar, vinegar, and spices for 20 minutes. Place a few of the pears at a time in the sirup and cook until tender. Pack them in clean jars, placing a few cloves in each jar. Adjust the rubbers and fill each jar to overflowing with the hot sirup. Adjust the lids and seal jars immediately.

POTATO CHIP APPETIZERS.
1 package soft spreadable cheese.

POT ROASTS HAILED AS 'BUY' FOR WEEK-ENDS

For the guidance of housewives purchasing meat in Chicago retail meat stores the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago yesterday issued the following report:

"Pot roast of beef is recommended to Chicago housewives as an attractive meat buy. Prices of pork loins also have declined somewhat."

"Two-Drop" Jelly Test Found Dependable One

A dependable test for jellies made with fruit juice and sugar is the "two-drop" or sheeting-off test. When the rapidly boiling sirup reaches a point where it no longer runs out of a large spoon in a steady stream, but separates into two lines of drops which sheet together—it is time to stop cooking. The fruit juice and sugar should be cooked rapidly together in a broad flat bottomed pan.

Warm Soggy Crackers to Restore Crispness

No matter what the weather, there's no excuse for soggy crackers. As soon as the original containers are opened and the crackers are exposed to the air they will absorb moisture. To remedy this warm the crackers before serving time. Just the number to be used should be heated, as repeated heating will cause rancidity.

The Husband Snatcher

By Elizabeth York Miller.

SYNOPSIS.

After two years of marriage, Nancy and Dick Heritage are still greatly in love. Though Nancy is hated by her mother-in-law, Edith Heritage, she has come to live with them in their little house in Primrose Dene, near London. There is a gap of four years in Nancy's life which she had not satisfactorily accounted for. Nancy is informed by Mr. Sam Digger, attorney, that she has been bequeathed £5,000 by Miss Agnes Satchell, late governor of a girls' reformatory, where Nancy had been committed for four years. Nancy had been employed by a Mrs. Lane and was accused of theft. Sylvia, Mrs. Lane's daughter, was the real culprit. Sylvia threatened to kill herself if Nancy exposed her. Nancy foolishly took the blame, though she possessed a signed confession from Sylvia. Miss Satchell believed in Nancy's innocence. Nancy learns that her sole remaining relative, an aunt, has been killed in China. Dick and his mother are displeased when they learn that Nancy is expecting a baby. Edith Heritage invites a friend, Mrs. Lane, and her daughter, Sylvia, for tea. Nancy pleads a dentist's appointment. The Lanes arrive just as Dick comes home. They are startled when they see Nancy's photograph, but Sylvia, who is interested in Dick, explains that Nancy had lived with them, and they'd had a misunderstanding, but bygones were bygones. Next day Sylvia calls on Dick at the architect's office where he is employed, asks him to plan a house for her, and boldly invites herself to his home for dinner. Sylvia assures Nancy that her secret of the reformatory is safe. She asks Nancy for the written confession, but Nancy tells her she had torn it up. Sylvia's new home is started and Dick spends most of his time with her. Nancy learns that she has inherited another small legacy from her aunt. Mr. Digger suggests that she pass the two legacies off as one. He also offers his help if she is ever in trouble. Nancy returns home unobserved and overhears Sylvia begging Dick to get a divorce. Mrs. Heritage has gone away for a week-end with Mrs. Lane. Nancy and Dick dine out. Nancy suspects that Dick has an engagement with Sylvia. To forestall him she decides to pay Sylvia a visit. Sylvia tells Nancy that her mother is going to tell Mrs. Heritage the secret of her past. When Nancy returns home she finds her mother-in-law is back and knows her secret.

INSTALMENT XXIX.

HER WORST ENEMY.

Nancy's lips quivered. "Mother, if I were to tell you, on my word of honor, that I was innocent of those thefts and should never have been disgraced at all, would you believe me?"

"I think you are asking a lot, Nancy."

"Very well, I'll put it differently: If I really were innocent, would you grant that I was justified in not telling Dick?"

Edith deliberated briefly and then said: "I don't think anything could justify your silence. If you had been innocent, all the more reason for confession."

"I shall tell Dick now," she said. "I shall tell him, too, the truth about the money I have inherited. Only a small portion of it came from my relatives. Most of it came from that Miss Satchell you have always been so curious about. She was the lady governor of the reformatory—and the only person in the world who believed in my innocence. She had no proof of it, but she believed me when I told her I was not a thief."

Then she went downstairs.

Dick was wandering about the living room, his uncomfortable dinner jacket exchanged for an old tweed coat, a pipe clenched between his teeth. His forehead was furrowed and he looked definitly unhappy.

"Well, Nance," he said, "you've been a deuce of a time up there. Is she in a wax about something?"

"No, I think your mother's quite happy in her mind," Nancy replied. "The dearest wish of her heart looks like being gratified."

"More mysteries! This whole evening has simply buzzed with 'em. What is 'the dearest wish of heart' then?"

"Sit down, Dick, and I'll try to tell you. It may take a long time."

"If you don't mind, I'm quite happy on my feet."

"You don't look it. You look utterly wretched."

"So do you—for all your keeping up this high-flown game of hide and seek. Nance, you and I have got to come to some sort of an understanding. Things can't go on as they have been. It isn't only tonight——"

"I know—I know!" Nancy said softly.

Dick was making a business of knocking out his pipe and refilling it, but when he had struck a match to light up again he suddenly changed his mind and laid the pipe on the mantelpiece.

Nancy must have taken leave of her senses, for what she was saying hardly seemed possible.

It was in Sylvia Lane's home, she was telling him, that she had been arrested for a series of petty thefts and from thence committed to a home for delinquent young females!

This had happened when she was eighteen, and for four years afterwards she had languished in the reformatory. She had only been out of it six months when he, Dick, fell in love with her beautiful face and followed her off that bus.

It was partly a lie, she went on, that her inheritance had come from her uncle and aunt. Almost all of it—the £5,000 she had mentioned—had been left her by that Miss Satchell Dick's mother was always inquiring about, and Miss Satchell had been the head of the reformatory when Nancy was there. She had died but recently.

Dick felt almost as stupid as if some one had given him a blow on the head, but presently he found himself asking questions, and Nancy's story began to have more coherence.

Yes, that was obviously why she had left the Lanes; that was the "misunderstanding" Sylvia had so graciously alluded to, and undoubtedly such a charitable explanation showed Sylvia up in a good light.

But Mrs. Lane had decided that his mother should be told, said Nancy; that was why Mrs. Heritage had been asked to Bournemouth, and she had come home quickly because she didn't want to lose any time over it.

"You wouldn't have told me a word of all this if you hadn't been forced to," Dick said. The unexpected revelation had appalled him, and he felt that he was dealing with a strange woman.

"I thought I would tell you after the baby came," Nancy replied.

"About three years too late," he commented.

He picked up his pipe again, relit it and puffed furiously.

Perhaps it was the smoke, for Nancy was seized with a choking feeling in her throat and she felt rather sick. "I wonder if I can hold out much longer!" she thought.

"You don't feel that you can forgive me, I suppose?" she asked.

"What have I to forgive you for?"

"Why, for not telling you," Nancy faltered.

"It isn't a question of forgiveness, anyway," Dick said slowly. "I simply feel as though you had made a fool out of me. It's not easy to believe that you are a thief, Nance."

"I'm not," Nancy said.

"Well, 'were' a thief, if that sounds better. I daresay you had your lesson."

"I never was one. Miss Satchell believed me when I told her I was innocent. It seems strange that my own husband can't believe me, too."

"Did somebody put those marked notes in your purse, then?"

Nancy made a little gesture of despair.

"I can only repeat that I never stole that money. I pleaded not guilty, in spite of being warned that I'd get a heavier sentence than if I owned up, but I wasn't going to pretend I was guilty when I was not—I wouldn't have done that if they'd given me a life sentence."

There was an expression of skepticism on Dick's face, but he kept on probing.

"If you didn't steal the money, who did? Do you know who the real thief was?"

"I am not accusing any one else. I am only trying to defend myself," Nancy said bitterly.

"It looks to me as if, in an underhanded way, you were trying to accuse Sylvia Lane. That's what it seems to be leading up to."

"I haven't mentioned Sylvia's name!" she cried hotly.

"No, but now I realize that I've been warned about this."

Why should she ask who had warned him? She knew well enough that it could only be Sylvia herself, but Nancy couldn't help asking.

"Did Sylvia tell you that I might try to accuse her of something?"

"In a way—yes, she did."

"And you listened to her? At least you stored it up in your mind. You—my husband!"

Dick shrugged his shoulders. "And you are accusing her by implication. That's rather cowardly of you, Nancy; just as you played the coward by hiding it from me all this time."

Nancy's chin went up. "I accept your rebuke, Dick Heritage, on the last score. I was a coward because I loved you so much. But if I knew that Sylvia Lane was thrice guilty and if I could produce proofs to back up such an allegation against her, I would not do so."

"Why? Because you love her so much?" Dick asked sarcastically.

"No—not because I love or even like her. I don't. But because you are in love with her. I wouldn't take such a low revenge on my worst enemy, and Sylvia is my worst enemy—unless I count your mother first."

Mrs. Sisson Issues New D. A. R. Defense Handbook

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—A new handbook outlining the objectives and work of the national defense committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution was announced today by Mrs. Vinton Earl Sisson of Chicago, national chairman of the committee. The book gives an outline of American defense and contains suggestions for promoting an interest in the subject and combatting communist, Socialist, Athiest, and pacifist doctrines through speeches, publicity, and work in the schools.

Mrs. Clara C. Thompson to Be Fall Bride

showers given for the bride-to-be are a shower Miss Marie Louise Gardner will give next Friday afternoon, and a kitchen shower at which Miss Betty Brawley will be hostess on the 11th in the apartment of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Brawley, on Lake Shore drive.

Edmonds-Frazer Nuptials Today.

Today's bride is Miss Betty Edmonds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Edmonds, who will be married to William A. Frazer Jr., son of Mrs. William A. Frazer of Omaha, at 8:30 o'clock this evening in Christ church, Winnetka. The Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard will read the ceremony and a reception will follow at the Indian Hill club.

Miss Edmonds will be attended by a cousin, Mrs. Harold C. Rittenhouse of Pontiac, Ill., as matron of honor, and by Miss Margaret Huxley of Evanston as maid of honor. The bridesmaids will include another cousin, Miss Mary Turner of Evanston; Mrs. John B. Clemens [Louise Stanton] of Wayne, Miss Eleanor Barron of Southern Pines, N. C., and Miss Billie Anderson of Winnetka.

George Frazer will serve his brother as best man, and ushering will be Joseph Barker Jr. of Omaha, Robert D. West of Manitowoc, Wis.; William P. Wilke III. of Hammond, Ind.; Samuel A. Bingham Jr. of Tryon, N. C., and G. Bowman Kreer of Winnetka.

After a wedding trip to Canada Mr. Frazer and his bride will make their home at 8011 Edgewater road, Riverside.

Miss Roberta Storms and Maxwell Bland Runyon, who are to be married on Saturday, Sept. 7, are being widely entertained. Miss Jane McMurray is giving a luncheon today for the bride-to-be, who is the daughter of Mrs. Tinsley Storms, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Doheny are giving a cocktail party Sunday in their Winnetka home.

On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. George Rust will entertain at dinner in the home of Mrs. Edwin Clark on Spruce street, Winnetka. Tuesday night the junior Robert J. Grafs will give a supper party for Miss Storms and Mr. Runyon and the following night the bride-to-be will give a spinster dinner at the Chicago Athletic association.

Miss Barbara and Miss Patricia Vail will entertain at dinner and dancing at the Drake hotel on Thursday night. Miss Storms and Mr. Runyon will be married in the Church of the Redeemer at 5 o'clock and a reception will follow at the home of the bride's mother, 5470 Cornell avenue.

Cocktail Party for Virginia Prussing.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Seibold Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fleming are entertaining at cocktails from 5 until 7 o'clock Sunday afternoon for Miss Virginia Prussing and her fiancé, William Davis Ward, who are to be married on Sept. 5. The Seibolds and the Flemings are giving the party in the Evanston house where Mr. and Mrs. Fleming live with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Fleming.

When Mrs. John P. Hermes and her daughter, Miss Florence Hermes, return from the Bishop's Lodge at Santa Fe, N. M., they will make definite plans for Miss Hermes' debut party which will be given during the Christmas holidays. Miss Hermes will not be at home for the fall debutante festivities, for she will return to Vassar for her sophomore year.

While she is in Chicago for the few weeks that will elapse between ranching and college there undoubtedly will be some entertaining for her because she will have a house guest, Miss Jean McWilliams. Miss McWilliams also is a sophomore at Vassar.

Miss Katherine Armstrong, whose parents, the Julian Armstrongs, are presenting her to society at a dance in their Lake Bluff residence on Sept. 7, has been giving a pre-Labor day house party all week, and today she and her guests are driving to Angus Lake, Wis., to visit Mrs. Frank Stout and her daughter from Atlanta, Mrs. George McRay.

In the group are Miss Margaret Hildreth, Glessner Paull, and Dr. Paul Hildreth, all from Wheeling, W. Va., and Victor Garritt Le Van from Princeton, N. J. They will stay with Mrs. Stout until Wednesday.

The Vassar scholarship which has just been awarded to Miss Lydia Hastings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland T. Hastings of Highland Park, is of almost sentimental interest because Miss Hastings' mother and her aunt, Mrs. Charles P. Blaney of New York, are both graduates of Vassar as well as her grandmother and a great-aunt. The scholarship, which is given by the Chicago Vassar club and the North Shore Vassar club, amounts to $500 and was earned at the dance given at the Vassar house last Christmas and at the lecture given by Commander Cortlandt C. Baughman of the Great Lakes in Evanston last March.

Wedding Announcements

Miss Mary Brandon Paynter, daughter of Mrs. Henry M. Paynter of Glencoe, will become the bride of Nathan S. Sharp of Highland Park at noon today in St. Elizabeth's church in Glencoe, with a reception following for the immediate families in the Paynter home at 449 Hazel avenue. Miss Theodora Paynter will be her sister's only attendant and Robert Mason of Glencoe will serve Mr. Sharp as best man.

Mr. Sharp and his bride will sail Saturday on the Franconia for a Caribbean cruise, and on their return they will live in Chicago until their new home in Ravinia is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Roepke of Eaton street, Hammond, Ind., announce the marriage of their daughter, Etta Irene, to John Gerald Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Power Burke of 7215 South Park avenue, on Aug. 26. The bridegroom, who is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, had his brother, Edward Jr., of Columbus, O., for his best man. Mr. and Mrs. Burke are honeymooning in the south. They will live in Chicago.

Samuel Mishkin, 855 Margate terrace, announces the marriage of his daughter, Gwendolyn, to Harold S. Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Osias Stahl, on Aug. 17. Miss Mishkin, who is a graduate of the American College of Physical Education and is a teacher in the Chicago public schools, was a Tribune Golf school tournament winner this summer. Her husband attended the University of Missouri. The couple will make their home at the St. James apartment hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Ormuf Brockett of Evanston and Los Angeles announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marion Gent Brockett, to John Macy Micholson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Macy Micholson of the Homestead hotel yesterday afternoon. The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis S. Gent, at 1632 Ashland avenue, Evanston, and was followed by a reception. After their honeymoon the couple will live at 2210 Maypole avenue, Evanston.

CHILD'S DRESS.

This small dress is one that should be satisfactory from any angle. It's pretty, it hangs straight from the shoulders, allowing plenty of freedom for school girl activities, and it opens out flat for ironing. One of the red ground, cotton broadcloths with navy pin dots, and with plain blue for trimming, will find favor with any small girl. A plaid, woolly cotton weave also would be nice for it.

The pattern, No. 2769, comes in sizes 4, 6, and 8 years. Size 4 requires 1½ yards of 35 inch material, with 2¼ yards of braid, ¾ yard of 39 inch dark contrasting, and ¼ yard of 12 inch contrasting for the shield.

Paris Predicts Fall Coiffures Fuller, Lower on the Neckline

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Word comes direct from Paris about hair styles for fall. Lower and fuller in the back is the trend reported. For some time past the American hairdressers, at least, have been trying to educate women to keep the hair off the neck in the back. Perhaps it was because it required a well groomed woman to subscribe attractively to the fully exposed back of the neck, that there was a trifle resentment at this order. Or, perhaps it is that innate appreciation on woman's own part of a feminine quality to the longer locks that swings them away now from the earlier order.

Personally, we disliked Joan Crawford's long bob in her recent picture. We refer to the one in which low cut bangs and the long bob seemed to foreshorten her face. But Joan may have been just a little ahead with the new coiffure arrangement, for the longer bob is being shown at Paris openings as the nicer complement to the Raphael style of chapeau. The hats for fall come lower on the back of the head, and this, too, may be an influence in favor of curls and flowing locks below.

While I have been reporting the off-the-neck-trend of hair as fashion news, I do think a woman must be tres chic and have a lovely swirled line to the back of the head to look her best with the bare neck. Finishing the ends off with half of the neck covered does soften the line of head. But, of course, the short-necked woman does better for herself not to clutter the back of the neck with flowing hair.

What killed the long bob before was the plump shouldered, short-necked woman appearing with undisciplined hair hanging to her coat or dress collar. One does not have to, nor should follow a hair style because fashion decrees it so and so.

Jackie Cooper's Pay Cut $200 a Week; $44,000 for Year

Los Angeles, Aug. 29.—(AP)—A reduction of $200 a week was made in the contract of Jackie Cooper, juvenile film star, with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, in an agreement approved today by Superior Judge Marshall F. McComb.

Jackie, however, will get it all back and more, too, if M.-G.-M. exercises an option and renews his contract next year.

The new contract, for 40 weeks, sets Jackie's salary at $1,100 a week, and the renewal calls for $1,500 a week. Under his old four year contract, which has just expired, his salary was $1,300 a week.

When the above hand was dealt East opened the bidding with one heart. I do not recommend an opening bid on the East cards, but I was not there to throttle East into silence.

South doubled and North bid four spades. This is definitly a slam try and South, with his splendid distribution, did not hesitate. He bid five spades. If he had bid six, North would have been justified in going to seven, but six spades was the ultimate contract and of course it's a lay-down.

Without East's bid North would have opened with one spade. South bids three spades. North bids four hearts in an effort to find out whether South has an ace. South shows the ace of diamonds at the five level and North goes on to the small slam in spades. The way the cards lie, even six clubs is a spread.

I am not going to advocate the bidding of a slam when it isn't in the cards, but South, the strongest player in a weak game, deserves a few laurels for his psychological handling of his cards. He opened up with a spade. North took a firm grip on his cards and bid three clubs. After some pondering, South bid three no trumps and North naturally went to four spades. The hand is a perfect example of complete duplication, but it is difficult for North and South to scent the presence of the demon. South filled out his partner's club suit and had some nice secondary values. He therefore bid four no trumps. North might have passed, but he bid five no trumps and South went to six.

West, being the sort of player that he was, would have laid down the ace of hearts against six spades, but the no trump bid scared him. He opened his club, probably the worst opening lead on the hand. South put up the ten spot and, when it held, simply garnered five spades, five clubs, and three diamonds for a grand total of seven.

"You never bid your hands," said South afterward to North.

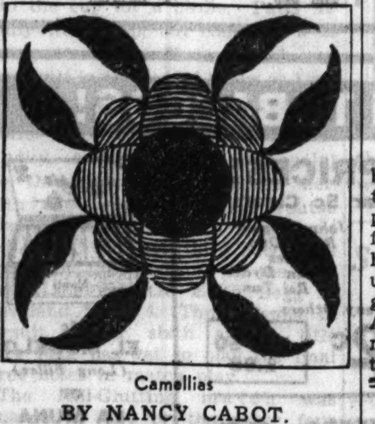
Camellia Quilt Is Intricate, but Rich in Beauty



Camellias

BY NANCY CABOT.

With handsome red and white double flowers, and shiny green leaves, the "Camellia" block strongly resembles a rose. The pattern itself is another of those designed to try the patience of saints and quiltmakers, but it is of such outstanding beauty when completed that all the trials and tribulations of creation are completely forgotten. Twenty-four appliqué blocks and 48 plain ones are combined to make an entire coverlet. The 48 plain blocks allow much ingenuity to be expressed by the needleworker.

Girls Only Are Sorrowful About Romantic Tiffs

BY DORIS BLAKE.

It's difficult for young women to understand that young men do not take their love hurts and disappointments in the same manner that they themselves do.

June tells of how hurt she felt during that last quarrel with her beau. She was so upset, she says, that the last thing she could dream of doing would be to go out with some other chap. Yet she heard through friends of how her beloved was seen out stepping with a rival creature and from all accounts enjoying himself.

Could he really love me, she asks, and be seen at night clubs with another girl, drinking and dancing and having a good time?

Very likely he could be in love with you, at the same time putting up a big front being seen in public places with another girl. Maybe it's just his way of showing you he does not care, which need not mean that he does not care, only going to show you there are girls in whose eyes he still can find favor.

We just heard of a young man reeling in on his electrified parents for the first time in his 23 years for no other reason than that his girl had quarreled with him. Surely it is a weak way of facing an issue, but that doesn't overrule the fact that men have ways of their own of drowning their troubles.

It's a darned silly idea to expect a man to sit home with an aching heart for company because of a misunderstanding with his best girl, a quarrel in which he is sure he has not been in the wrong. But the main thing to recognize is that it is not in the nature of man to mourn as woman does.

Grace Moore Home from England with Stories of Conquest

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Grace Moore, opera singer and screen star, returned to the United States today and told how she had captivated England.

She sang a command performance at Covent Garden for Queen Mary, and at her third appearance there fully three thousand persons who were unable to purchase tickets gathered below her dressing room, she said, and shouted, "We want Gracie!"

"It was so nice of them and so appealing to me," murmured Miss Moore. "I never had any one call me Gracie since my old mammy down in Jellicoe, Tenn."

Mother Who Works Needs Capable Maid

Must Be Experienced in Handling Children.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The plight of the working mother who comes home to tales of woe about her children has been described and suggestions promised as to the possible causes. We'll have to do this briefly, in order to cover the ground.

One of the chief reasons why mothers who are away from home all day find chaos when they reach home is because the maid or housekeeper or nurse is not adept with children. [I am not talking now about those children who always were unmanageable, even when their mother was at home.]

When a mother who understands her children and how to handle them has to leave home each day to work, and then finds an unfavorable change in the children, she should first consider poor management in her absence as a possible cause. In that case she could either try to train and enlighten her housekeeper or maid, or get another. And this second time, in making her selection, she should if possible engage some one who has good references regarding her liking for children and her ability to handle them.

The next cause to consider is the situation of the mother whose children seem to be quite manageable when she's away, but become difficult the minute she enters the house at night. This may be due to the fact that, having always had her at home, they crave her attention when she comes in.

But why, you may ask does that make them so annoying? Perhaps because when she does get home she is too tired, or too busy, or too socially engaged to give them her whole hearted interest. And they may have discovered that if they are contrary, persnickety, naughty, or demanding enough, they can get her attention even if it is not of a pleasant kind.

Other factors may be those that confront any mother—either physical or psychological difficulties. If you are a working mother and are troubled about the children's behavior, look sharply for causes.

London Sees Draped Skirts at Style Shows

Note Edwardian Influence at Opening.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Draped skirts of Edwardian days for evening wear and ultra streamlines were featured at a fashion parade here which was attended by many American and European buyers.

Evening gowns define the figure almost to the knees and flair to a trained back, or, alternately, drapery is used. Material is looped below the knees to form wide folds of drapery which swirl round the feet. In day wear also the figure is stressed.

Deep bands of fur bordering three-quarter length coats or forming deep cuffs reaching from elbow to wrist on day clothes are other Edwardian revivals.

Some evening cloaks are slit down the back with the edges bordered with fox fur; others have the fur trimming on the sleeves. Velvet evening gowns with matching fur trimmed coats have sleeves finishing in gloves. Many instep length skirts are slit nearly to the knee.

A formal evening gown is entirely covered with white celluloid plaques, with black plaques used in the sleeves below the elbow.

A mist blue crêpe romaine has a matching sultan's turban. "Deep sea" effects and "hail" are given by the use of sequins on green taffeta and black net respectively.

Necklines on evening gowns are varied but a preference for the backless bodice is marked. Large bows are still used to finish necklines. Gleaming materials—silver or gold tissue and soft lames—are still popular, with velvet as an alternative.

MEN MENTIONED FOR THIRD PARTY SPURN ITS CALL

But Curtis and Capper Open Landon Boom.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—A Democratic party split into two warring factions, with Republicans bombarding both, was a prospect for the next campaign, but the men W. R. Hearst proposed for "Jeffersonian Democratic" ticket leaders shunned the idea today.

As if to take quick advantage of the suggestion that Alfred E. Smith lead the conservative wing of the Democratic party against President Roosevelt, Kansas Republicans, led by former Vice President Curtis, rallied behind their governor, Landon.

Hearst also had mentioned Landon as a possible Republican color bearer. Among the conservative Democrats whom he proposed should be aligned with Smith were Senator Byrd of Virginia, former Governor Ritchie of Maryland, and Gov. Talmadge of Georgia.

Smith Keeps Counsel.

Aside from a hopeful pointing to the next Democratic convention for a smoothing of differences there was little comment from those mentioned. It ran something like this:

Smith at Raritan Township, N. J.—No comment.

Ritchie in London—"I have never subscribed to third party movements. I have always been a Jeffersonian Democrat. My hope still is that the Democratic party will return to Democratic principles."

Talmadge at Atlanta—"I'm a Democrat, and as national Democratic committeeman from Georgia it is my duty to fight for the principles of old line Democracy and try to help the party on to victory next year. We want to start them off on the right foot, disapprove of communistic policies, and nominate standard bearers opposite from Roosevelt and his Brain Trusters."

Byrd, at Berryville, Va.—"I have repeatedly said I would have no part in it [a third party movement]."

Capper Joins Landon Backers.

There was no comment from Landon, either on this or on the declaration by Curtis that he favored the Kansas governor for the Republican nomination. Senator Capper and Representative Hope of Kansas joined the former Vice President in such declarations.

Regardless of whether the next campaign brings a divided Democratic party into the field, party leaders today saw the certainty of a fight in the convention next year, with one wing endeavoring to turn it into more conservative paths and another shouting a battle cry of Roosevelt liberalism.

They read this into the statements by Ritchie and Talmadge. Byrd and his Virginia colleague, Senator Glass, have opposed many administration policies. Some thought they might be among the conservatives in the convention floor fight, but both have said they would not desert the party.

Farley Can't See Any.

Winslow, Ariz., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley expressed belief here today that there will be no substantial third party, "if any at all," in the 1936 political campaign.

He asserted in an interview the "malcontents are not organized and the administration has made so many friends through its legislative record that 'Mr. and Mrs. John Public' will turn a deaf ear on all criticism."

PLAN FOR 75,000 THRONG AT G.O.P. LABOR DAY RALLY

The Cook county central committee of the Republican party met yesterday at its headquarters in the Hotel La Salle and laid final plans for a big roundup of followers at the annual picnic to be held on Labor day at the Riverview picnic grove. Committeemen representing 60 wards and country town precincts attended the meeting.

The committeemen were urged to conduct a house to house campaign to boost attendance at the picnic. Tickets and coupons passed out by the precinct captains will entitle holders to free entrance to the picnic grounds and to the dance pavilion. Edward F. Moore, secretary of the county central committee, predicted an attendance of 75,000 if the weather is fair.

Speakers on the program will include Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, and John W. Bricker, attorney general of Ohio.

STREET CAR VICTIM DIES.

Emma Nelson, 57 years old, a maid at 732 Buckingham place, died yesterday at the county hospital from injuries incurred on Aug. 24 when she was struck by a street car at Milwaukee avenue and Paulina street.

[ADVERTISMENT]

LET KIDNEYS FLUSH OUT 3 LBS. A DAY

Clean Out 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes

Nature put over 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters in your kidneys to strain the waste matter out of the blood. Kidneys should pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

When the passing of water is scanty, with smarting and burning, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body may take up some of these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and help the kidneys to flush out 3 pounds a day. Insist on Doan's Pills.

SEARLE ATTACKS HORNER'S REGIME AS TAMMANY

Hits Sales Tax, NRA State Law.

Plymouth, Ill., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—"Gov. Horner and the Democratic Tammany of Illinois bow on bended knee to the royal order from Washington," State Representative Clinton Searle [Rep., Rock Island] said today before a large audience at the annual Plymouth Homecoming and Old Settlers' picnic.

Searle, one of the state administration's most caustic critics, added he was glad to quote a prominent Democrat, former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, that "the government at Washington has gone socialist, bolshevik, and communist."

Cites State NRA Law.

Continuing, Searle declared that the Horner administration, by passing the state NRA law and increasing the sales tax by the Hopkins bills was "listening to burocrats in Washington and to 'Postage Stamp' Farley, boss of the 5 billion dollar pork campaign bill.

"The Tammany crowd may discard 'High Tax Henry'—the penny collecting governor of Illinois—or kick him upstairs to a better position, or persuade him that he is sick, and thereby attempt to change the scenery by selecting another gubernatorial candidate, yet they will not be able to fool the people of Illinois.

Says Minority Keeps Faith.

"They have coerced a legislative majority, over the protest of a militant minority and practically have reduced the sovereign state of Illinois to a province of Washington."

Talking of the Hopkins bill, which increased the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent, Searle declared that "week after week the fight continued, with Autocrat Hopkins threatening to starve the state into submission and finally the acquiescent Democratic majority bowed."

AUTO KILLS CYCLIST.

Remember to ask for Gordon's Gin

That is because the American taste is becoming more critical every day. People are learning that there is a big difference between gins.

Made after a secret formula that is 166 years old, Gordon's Gin has an inimitable smoothness and flavor.

The favorite in every other country in the world, it is rapidly coming back into its own in America.

Next time, try to remember to

BEARS STOP STARS 5 YARDS FROM VICTORY

CHECK HUTSON IN SECOND TRY AT END AROUND

Pros Fooled Once—but Not Twice.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The All-Americans came mighty near to upsetting the Chicago Bears last night at Soldiers' field. Might-have-beens cannot be counted and the final score of 5 to 0 probably represents a fair summary of the strength of the two rival elevens as the game was played.

The Collegians' opportunity came in the fifth minute of the fourth quarter as nearly 80,000 spectators boomed forth a vast cheer and the All-Stars hammered to the Bears' five yard line.

A slanting, drizzling rain which did not affect the field but did make the ball difficult to handle was not discouraging to the fans who roared approval as the All-Americans advanced toward the goal. At the time the Bears were leading, 3 to 0, on Jack Manders' first period place kick. The fans thought the All-Stars would score a touchdown. At least a kick for a tie seemed highly probable.

Gain on Exchange of Kicks.

Bill Shepherd gave the impetus to the advance after John Regeczi, Michigan's star punter, with the wind at his back, had gained valuable ground in exchange of kicks.

Shepherd went back to pass, failed to find a receiver, and then skipped around end for a first down. Here came the All-Americans' sideline strategy. For two weeks the coaches had drilled their men on an end around play. This was kept under cover until Shepherd set up the attack deep in the Bears' territory.

Out of Position for Kick.

Shepherd on third down thereafter, with the ball on the Bears' five yard line, forgot his football long enough to carry out of position for a place kick. The end around play, on fourth down, was stopped by the Bears, who refused to be fooled twice, and the ball passed over on downs.

Regeczi cannot be too highly praised for his kicking under adverse conditions. More than any other, he staved off the Bears in the third period. The Bears, who had choice of kick-off or goal, to start the second half, chose to have the wind. Had the All-Americans come through in their fourth period drive, this might have been criticized.

The rival coaches were keyed for the game even more than the players. A last minute decision by the management of the game was necessary to determine whether the game would be played with a black striped white ball or the usual tan colored ball. The All-American coaches objected to the white ball because the Bears wore white jerseys and they thought it would be difficult to follow the man with the ball. The white ball with black stripes was used.

Argue Over Goal Posts.

Another argument was also settled by decision of the management on the night before the game. This placed the goal posts on the goal line instead of on the end line, as in the collegiate code of rules. Jack Manders' place kick, however, would have cleared the bar even if the goal posts had been on the end line. Jack wasn't fooling when he booted. Automatic Jack is correct nomenclature.

Beattie Feathers, the outstanding ball carrier for the Bears, was found guilty of holding in the first period, which stopped the Bears' drive and finally resulted in Manders' place kick. It was an unintentional play on Feath-

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 29.—As their season's parting salute to the east, the third place Cubs turned loose a broadside of assorted hits today, thereby collaring an easy triumph in the final with the down trodden Braves. The batting enterprise netted a final score of 8 to 2, the fifteenth triumph for Gen. Bill Lee, and lopped a full game from the margin by which the leading Cardinals are tearing down the home stretch. The Cards, who stumbled at Pittsburgh, now top the field by two games.

Gen. Lee is a Brave nemesis of consequence, so his part of the performance occasioned no surprise. The tall southern gentleman now has trimmed them four times this season and they can't claim credit for inflicting any of the five defeats he has suffered. However, the Braves derived some consolation. They scored against him in the late innings, thus avoiding being shut out for the third time in his four starts against them.

Demaree Shades Hartnett.

Because his mates were in a mood for batting, Lee was on easy street right from the jump. They slipped him a two run lead in the first inning by showering Fred Frankhouse, who at times is a tough customer. With the aid of Gabby Hartnett's twelfth homer and Augie Galan's seventh they continued to make merry with the ex-Cardinal and after six innings had him out of action. Then Danny [Specs] MacFayden held them in check for a spell, but they got loose again in the ninth and climaxed their day's work with a three run blast against Huck Betts.

Hartnett, back after several days of inactivity because of his weak left ankle, also rendered assistance with a pair of singles. He was a participant in the first inning spurt when runs meant something and in the ninth blast when runs were of no consequence except that they furnished fun for the boys. Frank Demaree shaded Gabby's three hits by producing four, but only two of them, singles in the first and ninth, figured in getting men around to the plate.

Start with Two Runs.

The Cubs got two to base with none out in the first and before completing the inning collected four hits and a pass, but only two scored. Galan led off with a high bounding infield single and went to third on Herman's single to center. Klein tapped to Fletcher

ALONSO DEFEATS BELL; ALLISON AND MAKO WIN

National Tennis Tourney Opens at Forest Hills.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Clear and cool weather and a record first day crowd of 5,000 spectators scattered over the twenty turf courts of the West Side club sent the first combined men's and women's national singles tennis championship off to a flying start today. Two seeded players were beaten in the first round.

All told, sixty-five matches were played. The final encounter resulted in the outstanding battle of the day as the former Spanish Davis cup star, Manuel Alonso, outlasted Berkeley Bell, seventh seeded American, in a five set struggle, 6-4, 7-9, 6-8, 7-5, 6-4.

Theirs was a match of frequent and long driving rallies with Alonso displaying surprising stamina against his much younger rival.

Mako Beats Brugnon.

The only other surprise was the uphill victory scored by the unseeded Gene Mako, freshman member of the 1935 United States Davis cup squad, over the sixth seeded foreign entrant, Jacques Brugnon of France. Wild in the first set, Mako snapped back into form and accounted for the French veteran in four sets, 0-6, 6-2, 7-5, 6-1.

Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., the top seeded American, made short work of Henry C. Brunie of New York, winning 6-0, 6-2, 6-4. Frank Shields of New York scored a similarly simple victory, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1, over Henri P. Emard of Montreal, but Sidney B. Wood Jr., Davis cup alternate and former Wimbledon champion, dropped the first set before eliminating William B. Reese of Atlanta, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

While Fred J. Perry of England, the defending champion, drew a first round bye, other members of the foreign seeded list survived with the exception of Brugnon. Roderich Menzel of Czechoslovakia, No. 2, lost a set to young Norcross Tilney of Orange, N. J., eastern intercollegiate titleholder, before winning 7-5, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

Mrs. Fabyan Wins.

The most impressive victory in the women's division was turned in by the second seeded Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., who accounted for Lenore Adelman of Chester, Pa., in the brisk time of 15 minutes without the loss of a game and with only ten points charged against her. Mrs. Fabyan won five games at love.

Miss Jacobs, meanwhile, had to struggle to survive against Mrs. H. Walter Blumenthal of New York, the former Baroness Levi, 6-3, 6-4. The champion was far off form, and so was Mrs. Blumenthal. Miss Jacobs was never in real danger, but she lacked her usual steadiness and self-assurance.

English Players Advance.

The five player invasion from England, comprised of members of the Wightman cup team, advanced in straight set fashion with the combined loss of 16 games. Mrs. Phyllis Mudford King scored a shutout victory over Diana Pope of Canada, while Kay Stammers and Nancy Lyle lost two games apiece to Gertrude Dwyer of New York and Elisabeth Blackman of Detroit, respectively.

20 to 1 Shot Wins Stake at York, England, Track

YORK, England, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Paulberg today defeated Barrowby Gem by a neck to win the Gimcrack stakes. The winning colt, owned by Sir L. Parkinson, returned 20 to 1 in the betting. Windsail finished third, a length off the leaders.

Toronto Defeats Reds in Exhibition Game, 10 to 4

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs of the International league hit two pitchers hard today to win an exhibition game from the Cincinnati Reds, 10 to 4.

CRACKING THE LINE AS CROWD OF 77,450 CHEERS

Beattie Feathers of the Bears (No. 48) is brought down by College All-Star tacklers in the first period. Other players whose numbers can be distinguished are Bill Hewitt (No. 56) and Ray Richards (44) of the Bears. Feathers' runs in the first period put the ball on the All-Americans' 3 yarl line in the opening quarter.

Buzz Wetzel, former Ohio State star, who is signed to play professional football with the Bears, plows into the Halas team's line in the second quarter. Luke Johnsos (24) and Ookie Miller (76) are Bears and Bill Lee (48) is an All-Star. A crowd of 77,450 saw the game, which was arranged by The Tribune.

Glenna Vare Reaches Golf Semi-Finals

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Two of Minneapolis' golfing youngsters, Patty Berg and Beatrice Barrett, joined Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare of Philadelphia, former champion, and Charlotte Glutting of West Orange, N. J., in the semi-finals of the national women's tournament today.

The matches, played in a drizzle were featured by Miss Glutting's 2 and 1 triumph over Mrs. Opal S. Hill, veteran from Kansas City.

Miss Barrett, only 18, scored a surprising 4 and 3 victory over Marion MacDougall of Portland, Ore., who upset Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews yesterday. Miss Berg, a youngster of 17, won her match from Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, Tex., by rolling a mud caked ball up hill 40 feet and into the cup for a birdie. Patty actually won 2 up, but conceded a 25 foot putt to the Texan which put the result in the record books as 1 up.

Glenna Wins Easily.

Mrs. Vare was expected to win handily, and she didn't disappoint the thousands who followed her. With one-over-par golf, she routed Elizabeth Abbott of Los Angeles, 4 and 3. It was her third successive victory by that margin. In the first round, she defeated Edith Begg of Cleveland, 5 and 4. Thus, Glenna, in pursuit of her sixth annual title since 1922, has yet to play the final three holes in match play.

The Hill-Glutting match was squared by one or the other four times before they came to the 16th green. There Mrs. Hill pushed her niblick into the sand as she addressed the ball. The penalty was loss of the hole and Miss Glutting ended it on the 17th by sinking a 14 foot putt for a birdie 3.

Minneapolis Is Satisfied.

Miss Berg's finish was the end of a perfect day for the home folks. After a battle all the way against the long driving Texan, Patty came out of trouble with a 5 iron to send her ball ten feet hole high on the 15th green. She sank the putt to go 1 up. On the 16th her 5 iron did the trick again, saving her a par and winning the hole to send her 2 up. Mrs. Chandler did the same thing on the 17th in a final desperate rally, scoring a birdie 3 with a 10 foot putt.

SOPWITH PLANS NEW YACHT FOR AMERICA'S CUP

PORTSMOUTH, England, Aug. 29.—(AP)—T. O. M. Sopwith definitly has decided to build a new challenger for the America's cup.

The new craft, to be known as Endeavour II., is expected to be ready for launching in May of next year. It will be built at the Nicholson yard in Gosport. The hull will weigh about 164 tons, with a water line of 87 feet and a sail area of 7,560 square feet—the same as the first Endeavour, with which Sopwith made his losing bid for the cup last year. The keel will be lead and weigh about 86 tons. Whether the hull will be steel or bronze alloy has not yet been determined.

In the meantime, the Boston sloop Yankee will complete its racing season tomorrow at Dartmouth and then will be laid up for the winter at Gosport, where it will be placed in readiness for the 1936 British season. The racing mast will be lifted out, the sails dried and stored, the standing rigging stripped down and the bare hull hoisted onto a slip ashore and cleaned and covered with canvas as a protection against the weather.

BRITISH POLOISTS BEATEN, 12 TO 9, BY LONG ISLAND

Locust Valley, N. Y., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The Long Island team continued its surprising success with the other entrants in the open polo tournament this afternoon when it took a practice match from the visiting Hurlingham team of London, 12 to 9, before a big gallery at the Piping Rock club. It was the first appearance of the English on Long Island. They were without the services of their regular No. 1, Capt. Mike Ansell.

PHYSICIANS FIND LOUIS IN GOOD SHAPE FOR BOUT

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Joe Louis, former Golden Gloves champion and now a contender for Mr. Braddock's heavyweight title, today submitted to a physical examination at the offices of the New York state athletic commission. Louis, who was pronounced in perfect condition for his bout Sept. 24 with Max Baer, former world champion, departed tonight for his training camp at Pompton Lakes, N. J.

Physicians paid especial attention to Joe's hands, and, unlike the case of Max Baer, whose hands showed traces of old fractures, the colored battler's were pronounced thoroughly sound. Physicians said Louis' hands showed no sign of the battering they have sustained while crashing against opponents' heads.

PRATT, MITCHELL TIE FOR LEAD IN SKEET SHOOT

Solon, O., Aug. 29.—(AP)—An Indiana marksmen and one from Massachusetts led the way today as 114 of the nation's outstanding skeet shooters started their three day race for the all-bore championship.

L. S. Pratt of Indianapolis, Oliver Mitchell of Natick, Mass., captain of the all-American skeet team, each broke 99 of 100. The marksmen will fire at another 100 tomorrow and finish with 50 on Saturday, the high gun for the entire route taking the title.

Mickey Walker Knocks Out Menger in Second

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, former middleweight champion, of Rumson, N. J., knocked out Thys Menger of Paterson, N. J., in the second round of a scheduled ten round bout at Fort Hamilton tonight.

MYRTLEWOOD TO RACE CLANG IN SPECIAL MATCH

World Record Holders to Meet Labor Day.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The "on again, off again," match race between the two world record holders, Myrtlewood and Clang, is "on again" at Lincoln Fields and will be run on Labor day, the closing day of the season at the Crete track.

Col. Matt J. Winn yesterday offered a purse of $3,000 for the match and the owners of both the fleet thoroughbreds signed up for the encounter. It will be at 6½ furlongs. Each horse will carry 110 pounds. The winner will receive $2,000 while the loser's share will be $1,000.

Muddy Track Will Cancel Race.

The conditions of the race will be fashioned to include only the two world's record holders. Myrtlewood, owned by Brownell Combs of Lexington, Ky., ran six furlongs at Arlington in 1:09 2-5. A few days earlier over the same course Clang had negotiated seven furlongs in 1:22 which was another world's record. The race will be canceled in the event of a muddy track.

Soon after the match was made yesterday afternoon Clang was brought out on the track for a workout between races and demonstrated that he was as sharp as a razor's edge when he breezed seven furlongs in 1:25 3-5. He went the first quarter in :24 2-5; the half in :48 3-5; the five furlongs in 1:00 4-5, and the six furlongs in 1:13.

The workout was highly impressive and Clang was no sooner off the track when the betting started on the outcome of the struggle. Horsemen from New Orleans and other parts of the old south backed Clang with great confidence and with considerable money. Kentuckians rallied to the support of Myrtlewood.

Myrtlewood Is 4 to 5 Favorite.

For a time the betting was even money take your pick, but Kentuckians eventually wore the turfmen from New Orleans down and when the action stopped with the running of the last race yesterday Myrtlewood was the favorite at 4 to 5 with Clang quoted at 6 to 5.

The race threatens to overshadow in interest the renewal of the $5,000 added Marquette Handicap, which is also to be run on Labor day. Jockys had not been picked for the two horses last night, but it was reported that two veteran riders would have the mounts. Jimmy McCoy was reported to be slated to ride Myrtlewood and Johnny Leyland, a New Orleans boy, was expected to be engaged to ride Clang, which is owned by John F. Clark of New Orleans.

First Match Race of Year.

Not since racing was revived in Chicago back in 1922 has there been a match race run on a local track and this will be the first match of the year on any track in America.

Clark, the owner of Clang, is a cotton broker in New Orleans, while Combs, owner of Myrtlewood, owns a thoroughbred breeding place in Kentucky and is also an extensive tobacco grower.

The owners, it is said, are anxious to make a sizeable wager between themselves.

Cold Postpones Canadian National Women's Swim

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Cold water in Lake Ontario—thermometers registered 52 degrees this afternoon—forced postponement of the Canadian national exhibition's five mile swim for women. Officials hope to hold the distance swim tomorrow.

Neighbors of Mikel Vouch for My Bane

The neighbors from downstate appeared before the Illinois Racing commission yesterday to back up the plea for reinstatement of J. D. Mikel, the Carlock, Ill., turfman who was ruled off at Lincoln Fields a fortnight ago for having run the alleged 3 year old, My Bane, in a race for maiden 2 year olds.

One of them, Harold [Skinny] Carlock after whom one of Mikel's horses is named, declared that he had seen My Bane a week after his foaling in the spring of 1933, had seen the horse at least once a week until it was sent to the races, and could vouch for My Bane's being a 2 year old at present.

Hersel Crump, the young groom who cared for My Bane at the Mikel farm, told of weaning the colt in the autumn of 1933, and declared there could be no doubt he is a 2 year old. D. V. Dunlap of Danvers, Ill., a country horse doctor who admitted he "never went to veterinary school but had been looking in horses' mouths for forty years," declared he had examined My Bane this week, and from his teeth judged him to be around 30 months old.

Because Charles J. Michal, Mikel's attorney, wishes to summon more witnesses to determine whether a horse is as old as his teeth, Peter B. Carey, chairman of the racing commission continued the hearing until Sept. 8.

Church League Nines Play 2 Games Tomorrow

Beats Singing Heart by 1½ Lengths.

Charley Peck's white and blue silks were carried to victory by Be Shy in the Hermitage purse at Lincoln Fields yesterday. The son of Apprehension-Bit Of White which formerly raced for Col. Edward R. Bradley came from behind at the head of the stretch, conquered the early pacemaker Singing Heart and won by a length and a half.

It was the third victory Be Shy has scored for the Chicagoan since he purchased him from Col. Bradley a month ago. Singing Heart saved second money and Back Log was third.

When Be Shy won he collapsed a double for Owner Peck who is from the board of trade. His 2 year old Valerie Jean captured the 2 year old race which opened the program. She had all she could do to deefat Ald. Coughlin's filly Evil Eye by the length of her nose. Jerry H. finished third. Jocky F. A. Smith who rode Evil Eye lodged a claim of foul but it was not allowed.

The Coldstream Stud stable owned by C. B. Shaffer and his son Dale Shaffer, including the leading 2 year old Coldstream and the speedy 3 year old St. Bernard, will move from Saratoga Springs to the Hawthorne track over the week-end General Manager C. W. Hay of Hawthorne was advised yesterday. The noted trainer Alex Gordon is bringing the stable back into the west after a month's campaign in the east. The Coldstream stable horses figured prominently in the racing at Arlington Park last month.

An open race, with T. C. Worden's Nedrow shaping up as the favorite, is in prospect for the eighth running of the $5,000 added Joliet handicap at six furlongs tomorrow. The 2 year old fixture—which has fallen in the past to such good youngsters as Anita Peabody, Siskin and Hygro—promises to attract a field of a dozen. Nedrow, already an impressive winner at the meeting, is being asked to give away weight to the other likely starters under his impost of 118 pounds. Dixiana's Erin Torch and Joseph E. Widener's Rushaway are figured to give him the most contention. Of the outsiders J. H. Gaines' Adolf is expected to attract the most support.

FROSTY PETERS TO MANAGE ST. LOUIS BLUES ELEVEN

Urbana, Ill., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Frosty Peters, former University of Illinois football star, will take a new post in professional football this fall. Peters will manage the St. Louis Blues. The Blues are reported to be a combination of two professional teams which operated in St. Louis last year.

Peters made a fine record last year with Memphis, Tenn. Tigers as manager, promoter and player.

Emmerson Dexter of Illinois, who was to have played with Memphis this year under Peters, received word today that he will be offered a contract with the St. Louis eleven.

VALERIE JEAN, away fast and under light restraint for three-eighths, wore down SADIE F. without need of strong pressure, swerved badly in final sixteenth and, coming again when straight, was up in closing strides. EVIL EYE, a strong factor from the start, swerved badly soon after reaching stretch and went to inside as winner swerved out in last sixteenth, but after getting up failed to hold the lead.

ANNAN, never far out of it, lost much ground on stretch turn, responded well when straight and, after wearing down the leaders, came away slowly. KAPENA saved ground throughout and held on well. JAZ AGE, much used in racing with SECRET TRYST, swerved out slightly in stretch and held on well to final fifty yards before faltering.

CRINOLINE, on inside throughout, took command quickly and, continuing gamely after giving way to MASTER BUCK, regained the lead in last sixteenth and won drawing out. MASTER BUCK had speed from the start, but weakened after taking a short lead.

BE SHY, under strong pressure the first quarter, followed SINGING HEART'S pace under restraint on the turn, disposed of latter slowly in the drive, and had little left. SINGING HEART had fine speed from the start, saved ground throughout, and though failing to withstand winner, held on well.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and one-sixteenth. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 3-5, :47, 1:12, 1:37 2-5, 1:44. Two dollar mutuels paid: Browneyed Pat, $15.40 straight, $5.60 place, $4.20 show; Good Cheer, $5.20 place, $4.20 show; Maple Ricca, $8.20 show. Winner trained by E. McCown. Went to post at 4:14.

BROWNEYED PAT made the early pace under steadying restraint, increased her advantage gradually when called upon and, sustaining fine speed to the end, won with something left. GOOD CHEER, reserved off the pace and saving ground for three-quarters, came around MAPLE RICCA soon after reaching stretch but did not threaten the winner. MAPLE RICCA had speed from the start, saved ground throughout, and came again mildly in late stages.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and one-sixteenth. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25.

SEA EAGLE began to make up ground after reaching the final three-eighths, came to extreme outside in stretch, and outgamed BUSY SPAIN in the drive. Latter made the early pace under strong restraint and bore out slightly when entering the stretch and held on well when straight. THE BREAK finished fast in a fine effort.

TEMPLE DANCER, lucky to secure room on inside practically throughout and beginning slowly, improved her position gradually the final half-mile and drew out fast after getting up. ADELAIDE A., taken off the pace, responded well after reaching last five-sixteenths, bore over while wearing down WISE ADVOCATE and MARABOU, held on well, but could not hold the winner and was disqualified for fouling.

FABULOUS, racing with improved speed, took command easily and aided by good rating held sway thereafter. OLD LADY, under light restraint early, raced between horses approaching the far turn and stood a drive gamely but did not menace the winner. SHASTA BROOM, near middle of track throughout, finished well under timed handling and might have been more of a factor under a stronger ride.

OLD MR. BOSTON Distilled DRY GIN

"I've printed lots of flossy words about liquor, but here's ONE gin that dares stand or fall on its own flavor. Not mixed, understand—but just as it comes out of the bottle. Of course, you and I, and millions of us country-wide KNOW that Old Mr. Boston is the swellest, smoothest, grandest-tasting gin—STRAIGHT—that ever slaked a thirst. But lots of folks don't know it's priced low. That's THE miracle . . the low price."

PIRATES DEFEAT CARDINALS, 5-1, FOR 8TH IN ROW

Advance to Within Seven Games of First Place.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The league leading Cardinals succumbed to the fast-flying Pirates today as big Jim Weaver turned in one of the best games of his career to beat Dizzy Dean, 5 to 1.

The defeat left the Cards only one and a half games ahead of the second place Giants, who defeated Brooklyn, and two in front of Chicago's Cubs, who beat Boston. It was Pittsburg's eight straight victory and left the Pirates only seven games away from the leaders.

Weaver outpitched Dean by a big margin, yielding seven hits, one a triple by Joe Medwick in the fourth which led to the only Cardinal run. He struck out eight, and in the third fanned Jack Rothrock and Burgess Whitehead with the bases full.

Four Teams Play Today in Polo Tourney

Lineups were set yesterday by the four polo teams that will meet this afternoon in the semi-final round of the central circuit championships at Oak Brook Polo club, York road and 22d street. Both games will start at 4 o'clock on fields Nos. 2 and 6, respectively.

Battling for the right to meet in the finals Sunday will be the Twin Cities Polo club, St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn.; Oak Brook Polo club, Fort Sheridan, and Chicago Black Horse Troop.

By agreement of team captains, a ruling of the committee in charge calls for drawings to be made an hour before game time this afternoon, when opponents for the two matches today will be decided. The tournament, awarded to Oak Park by the U. S. Polo association, is being handled by the Central Polo association. The Infant Welfare society and Boy Scouts will benefit from the proceeds.

The tournament winner will represent the central circuit in the intercircuit championships next week-end at Oak Brook, to be followed by the national 12 goal tourney.

RECORDS BROKEN IN HORSESHOE PITCHING MEET

Moline, Ill., Aug. 29.—(AP)—With C. C. Davis of Kansas City, former world champion, setting the pace, all records were broken today as 24 of the country's finest pitchers swept into the championship round of the National Horseshoe tournament.

Davis, who holds the Missouri title, made 84 ringers in 100 pitches as he led the attacks on the world marks with a 266 qualifying total. His score was the best ever compiled under the modernized conditions.

Tigers Pile Up 13-3 Victory Over Browns

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The last place Browns opened their final home stand of 1935 by dropping the first of a four game series to the league leading Detroit Tigers today, 13 to 3.

The tail enders wilted early under the Tigers' sixteen hit attack. Two passes donated by Jim Walkup, a sacrifice by Charlie Gehringer, and singles by Fox, Hank Greenberg, and Owen gave the visitors a four run lead in the first inning and sent Walkup to the showers.

Hal Coffman replaced him on the mound, but ran into trouble in the second when Mickey Cochrane, who had walked, scored on Gehringer's home run to the top of the right field pavilion. Greenberg followed with his thirty-fourth homer of the season.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Wes Ferrell won his twentieth game of the season by pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 6 to 2 triumph over the Athletics in the series opener today. Except for home runs by Joe Cronin and Dusty Cooke in the fourth inning, it was a featureless game.

Ferrell kept eight hits well spaced and was not in serious trouble at any time. He was opposed by Johnny Marcum, who yielded ten hits.

Cubs Will Watch Cardinals Meet Pirates Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 29.—The Cubs went away from here tonight and won't finish train riding until 2:30 tomorrow afternoon at Pittsburgh, where they play Saturday and Sunday. Having nothing else to do tomorrow the Cubs will watch the Cardinals and Pirates work, and they won't be rooting for the former.

The Cubs apparently are going to beat the gun in the annual straw hat frolic. The summer skimmers are supposed to be immune until the last minute of August, but Coach Red Corriden's met its fate this morning. The boys cut it into ribbons.

The Cubs didn't fare well financially here. Yesterday's double-header drew about 3,000 and today's game around 1,600. In fact the Cubs did not draw well in any of the four eastern cities, at least not in keeping with their lofty position in the race.

Cubs Win, 8-2, for Bill Lee's 15th Victory

and Galan was nailed at the plate. Hartnett poked a single into short left, Herman scoring and Klein going to third, whence he scored on a single by Demaree. Cavarretta flied to Thompson. Hacked walked, filling the bags. Then Jurges popped foul to Spohrer.

There was another outbreak by the Cubs in the third, but it was mild. This was where Hartnett slapped homer No. 12 into the left field bleachers. After two were out in this same inning. Cavarretta singled and stole second, but Hack flied to Moore. One more Cub scored in the fourth, making it 4 to 0. Lee singled to left with one out, Herman walked after two were out, and Klein singled to right, Lee scoring. Hartnett popped to Whitney to conclude the inning.

Braves' Hits Scarce.

The Braves were so docile before Lee's pitching during the first three innings that only one of them reached base. Moore singled after one was gone in the second. A double play came next. The next Brave base runner didn't turn up until the fourth when, with one out, Fletcher bounced one high in front of the plate and ran all the way to third because Lee, in his haste, heaved the ball into right field. Whitney then flied to Klein and Fletcher foolishly tried to score, probably because the Braves felt any kind of a chance was worth taking if they could break Lee's protracted shutout spell. Fletcher was doubled at the plate with room to spare.

The Cubs started on another run expedition in the fifth, but didn't go through with it. Demaree opened with a double and went no farther than third before the session ended. The Braves also messed up Lee slightly in this inning. Berger led off with a single. The next two men popped out and Mallon then doubled over first base, Berger going to third. Jurges threw out Spohrer to prolong Lee's shutout string.

Break Shutout Streak.

Galan dropped a drive into the corner of the right field bleacher in the sixth for his season's No. 7 homer, and right after this the Braves staged the little act that finally presented them with a run off Lee. Lee started it himself by walking Jordan, who batted for Frankhouse to open the home sixth. A couple of force plays followed, but on the second one Jurges, attempting a double play, threw the ball into the dugout. This permitted Fletcher to reach second, and he scored when Whitney punched a single through short. Demaree had to race back to the fence to capture a drive by Berger.

The tail enders assessed Lee for another run in the eighth. Spohrer inagurated this by doubling to right center. He went to third while Pinch Batter Mowry was being set down on a roller to Cavarretta. Urbanski walloped a long fly to Galan and Spohrer scored after the catch. Then Fletcher singled over Herman's head and Whitney bounced to Hack for a force play at second.

Three More in Ninth.

The Cubs had two men out in the ninth before giving any indications of a scheme that finally netted them three runs off Betts. Four hits in a row did it. Hartnett singled to left for his third safety. Demaree singled to right for his fourth hit. Cavarretta beat out a grounder to Whitney, filling the bags. Hack then lifted a fly to left center and it fell between Moore and Berger for a double. The three fellows on bases ran home. Jurges then was thrown out by Urbanski. Lee wasn't annoyed in the home ninth except by one single.

White Sox Are Idle; Drop to Fifth Place

The White Sox, who had an off day yesterday following their four tough double-headers in a row with the New York Yankees, will head for Milwaukee this morning and this afternoon will clash with the Milwaukee Brewers. Manager Jim Dykes, realizing his pitchers put in some hard days against the Yankees has indicated he will let three hurlers share the pitching against the Brewers.

Their day of idleness was costly for the Sox, however. They dropped into the second division when Boston beat Philadelphia, 6 to 2.

Wyatt, Salveson, and Fischer will get the call against Milwaukee, which may give the Sox something to think about before the day is over.

Big league play will be resumed tomorrow at Comiskey park when the Cleveland Indians, breezing right along now under the leadership of Steve O'Neill, drop in for a single game and another Sunday.

Monte Stratton, right hand pitcher, who has won seventeen games while losing nine for St. Paul this season, has been recalled by the Sox. He will report tomorrow.

SPARTA STADIUM HOLDS MIDGET RACES TONIGHT

The second series of midget automobile races will be held tonight at the new Sparta stadium speedway, 22d street and Kostner avenue. Promoter Billy Cepak has augmented the program to include a consolation race for nonmoney winners and a special match race which will bring together Johnny Baldwin, last week's feature winner, and Ernie Carlson, Chuck Neidel, and Everrett Rice, who followed Baldwin across the tape in that order.

GREENBERG AND HARTNETT ADD TO BIG SIX MARKS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Gabby Hartnett, returning to action after an injury, and Hank Greenberg did practically all the hitting for the big six yesterday. They each made three hits, including a home run apiece, in five trips to the plate. Hartnett added four points to his average and Greenberg three. Arky Vaughan, big six leader, failed to hit at all in three official times at bat, dropping three points to .395, while the other active member, Joe Medwick, lost one point with one hit in four times up. DOYLE STOPPED BY BUDDY BAER IN FIRST ROUND

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Jacob [Buddy] Baer, brother of the former heavyweight champion, knocked out the Irish fighter, Jack Doyle, in less than a round of a highly entertaining six round combat in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Doyle Cries Foul.

The first round lasted only two minutes 38 seconds, and in that time Doyle managed to get himself floored three times, once with a ringing cry of foul, before Referee Bill Cavanaugh stopped the bout.

In the course of the round Doyle reached out and smacked Buddy on the chin a couple of times with right hands that did young Baer no good.

Buddy, who is only 20 and therefore can fight only six rounds in this state, moved for adjournment immediately. He chased the Irishman across the ring and smacked him to the floor under a neutral set of ropes for a count of three. Doyle pulled himself erect, but collapsed once more under the next set of ropes as a right cross and left hook boomed on his chin.

Referee Stops It.

This time Doyle was only fooling when he climbed to his feet at six and tried to appear in command of the situation. His knees buckled as he tried to walk. He turned his muscular back to Maxie's brother and tottered away. Buddy clipped him once before Referee Cavanaugh solicitously stepped in and called things off.

BEARS WIN, 5-0, FROM ALL-STARS; 77,450 AT GAME

Manders Kicks Field Goal in First Period.

No Fumbles in First Half.

The effect of the weather on the play in the second half was noticeable to observers, though it was not reflected especially in the statistics, except in the matter of fumbles. Neither side fumbled in the first half when they were playing with a dry ball. In the span of a few minutes in the second half two fumbles, the one by Lund and the one by Shepherd in the end zone, swept away the All-Americans' only real scoring opportunity and instead gave the Bears two points.

In the matter of first downs the Bears had the advantage, nine to six. They made five first downs in the first half and the other four in the rain. The All-Americans made two first downs in the first half and four in the rain. All first downs were made on rushing except two which the All-Americans got in the second half on penalties.

Fail to Open Up.

The All-Stars gained a total of 127 yards, 70 of which were negotiated in the second half. The Bears gained 166 yards, 93 in the first half and 73 in the second.

The expected passing game never developed, possibly due to the fact that it was raining hardest during the fourth period when the game might otherwise have been opened up.

Block All-Star Placement.

The All-Americans enjoyed an edge in punting with an average of 37.9 to 30.4, even though the Collegians fizzled badly in several tight spots. The All-Americans attempted one placement kick, by Regis Monahan, and it was blocked and recovered by the Bears. Ookie Miller blocked the effort and George Musso recovered on the Bears' 49 yard line.

Shepherd, cast in the rôle of left half back in the Notre Dame system of play, though he'd never played the system in his scholastic career, was the busy man for the losers. He carried the ball 11 times and gained 44 yards. Hutson's average was the highest for the losers. He carried the ball 20 yards the time he gave pro partisans their big scare and on his other attempt he gained two yards on a similar try in the same goal threat.

Feathers was the high yardage man for the winners, with 42 yards on nine attempts. Manders was runner-up with 30 yards and Reds Pollock did some trotting to the extent of gaining 27 yards.

The Bears found the officiating a bit too strict for their technique. The Bears were socked 90 yards as compared to five assessed against the All-Americans. Two of the Bears' penalties were for holding and two for roughing.

Haas to Play Johnson for District Title

No matter how the final match of 36 holes ends today, the Chicago district championship is going to take a ride. It will be the first time since the championship was inaugurated 22 years ago that an outsider has won the title.

The finalists in today's round will be Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans, twice western junior champion, and Keith Johnson of Bloomington, Ill., three times city champion in his home town and winner of the state open at Urbana.

Both of these youngsters had a tough time getting to the finals. In the quarter-final round Haas won, 1 up, over Gus Fetz of Medinah, the original home made golfer, while Johnson defeated Henry Bowbeer of Big Oaks by the same margin.

In the semi-finals yesterday afternoon, Haas had rather easy sailing, winning, 5 and 3, from Arthur B. Sweet of Bob o'Link. Haas started out with two birdies and another birdie at the eighth allowed him to turn 2 up, Sweet also having a birdie at the first. On the back nine, Sweet did not win a hole. Fred took the 12th when Sweet was in the woods; the 14th and 15th, on both of which Sweet wasted shots in the rough.

Johnson had a harder time disposing of Al Andereggen, the Midwest and Knights of Columbus champion. Keith was 5 up at the turn, but Andereggen began to whittle it down and at the 15th was but 2 back. On the 16th Al was wide of the green, rolled into a trap, needed two to get out, and lost the hole and match, 3 and 2.

In reaching the finals, Haas had defeated four of the district's best amateurs. In addition to his victories over Fetzand and Sweet he eliminated Bob Baldwin of Rolling Green and Larry Witt of Midlothian.

Here's Play by Play Story of Bears' 5 to 0 Triumph

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

The play by play account of last night's game at Soldiers' field, in which the Chicago Bears defeated the College All-Stars, 5 to 0, follows:

FIRST QUARTER.

Bevan kicked off for the College All-Stars, the ball going out of bounds on the 25 yard line. He kicked off again, Sisk carrying the ball back eight yards to his 30 yard line. Sisk failed to gain, Barber nailing him. Shepherd took Feathers' punt on his 15 yard line and ran out of bounds.

Shepherd went off right tackle for nine yards. On a reverse, Shepherd to Kostka, the Collegians' full back made a first down on the All-Stars' 28 yard line.

Nichelini made one yard over tackle. Shepherd's pass to Hutson was batted down by Richards. On the third down with nine yards to go, Munjas kicked a high one that bounded back, being downed by Monahan on the Bears' 42 yard line. Manders hit center for four yards. Feathers went over the All-Stars' right guard for four yards. He was stopped by Nichelini. Masterson's pass for Sisk fell short.

Feathers Makes Big Gains.

Feathers punted out of bounds on the All-Stars' 14 yard line. Munjas punted and Feathers returned his kick nine yards to the Collegians' 46 yard line. A short pass, Masterson to Manders, netted five yards.

Manders bucked over the right center of the Collegians' line to the 37 yard line. Manders took out two tacklers for Sisk who went around left end to the opposite side line for first down on the All-Stars' 33 yard line. The Collegians took time out.

Feathers broke through for 18 yards, Manders clearing a hole through the center of the College line to the secondary. Nichelini bumped Feathers out of bounds on the 15 yard line. Feathers, behind Manders, ran the Collegiate left end to the three yard line. Manders bumped into Kostka on a line buck and gained only a foot.

Feathers failed to gain on a similar try. Manders attempted to run the Stars' right end but Fuqua tossed him for a loss on the five yard line. The Bears were penalized 15 yards to the 20 yard line for holding. Shepherd knocked down Masterson's pass intended for Hewitt in the end zone. With Masterson holding the ball, Manders place kicked from the 27 yard line. Score: Bears, 3; All-Stars, 0.

Manders kicked off over the goal line. Shepherd made one yard at center. A pass, Shepherd to Hutson, gained four yards, Manders and Kawal tackling the Alabama end. Feathers returned Munjas' punt eight yards to the Bears' 48 yard line.

Lee went in for Barber at tackle, Wetzel for Kostka at full back, and Salatino for Munjas at quarter back.

Feathers' pass to Masterson lost 2 yards. Feathers' long pass to Karr was incomplete. Blazine batted down Feathers' pass behind the line.

Feathers' punt took a bad bounce and Salatino let it roll until a Bear downed it on the Stars' 19 yard line. Shepherd cut through his own right tackle for seven yards, Hewitt dragging him down on the 26 yard line. Nichelini hit the Bears' right guard for 2 yards. Regeczi replaced Nichelini at right half back for the Stars.

Feathers received Regeczi's long punt and ran it back four yards to his own 32 yard line. The Bears were penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness, putting the ball on the 17 yard line. Manders was stopped without gain as the first quarter ended. Score: Bears, 3; All-Stars, 0.

SECOND QUARTER.

With the Bears defending the south goal, Halas sent in Nagurski at full back and Pollock and Ronzani at the halves. Pollock made nine yards around end and added 2 more on the next play. Ronzani went to the 29 yard line. Nagurski ran around the Stars' left end for another first down to the Bears' 42 yard line.

Ronzani ran left end for a four yard gain. Pollock reeled off four yards over the Stars' left guard. Blazine stopped Nagurski for no gain. Nagurski hit left guard for four yards, but the ball was called back and the Bears were penalized for back field in motion. Pollock punted to the Stars' 27 yard line.

Nichelini, who went in for Regeczi, made 3 yards over the Bears' right tackle. Time was taken out by the collegians. Becker went in for Karr at end for the Bears and Trost replaced Buss at tackle. Barclay replaced Bevan at guard for the Collegians. The Stars were penalized 5 yards for their fourth time out.

All-Stars Try Passes.

Shepherd cut through his own right tackle to the 40 yard line. Shepherd's attempted pass to Hutson was incomplete. A pass, Nichelini to Wetzel, gained 2 yards. Shepherd passed to Fuqua on the 46 yard line. Shepherd's punt was downed on the Bears' eleven yard line.

Ronzani and Nagurski went to the 19 yard line on two plays. After a penalty for backfield in motion, Pollock punted out of bounds on the fifty yard line.

Zeller, now at guard for the Bears, sifted through to nail Shepherd for a one yard loss. Pollock batted down Shepherd's attempted pass to Hutson. Shepherd made 9 yards over center.

Monahan attempted a placement from the 49 yard line, but Ookie Miller blocked it and the Bears took the ball on their own 42 yard line when Musso recovered it. Leeper went in at end and Siemering at center for the collegians.

Bears' Pass Fails.

Manders provided enough interference for Pollock to net five yards around end. Pollock cut back through the All-Stars' right guard for three more. Blazine and Siemering stopped Manders with a foot gain. On fourth down, with less than a yard to go, Pollock faded back for a long pass, which was incomplete.

The All-Stars took the ball on their own 49 yard line. A pass to Hutson gained four yards. Lund made three yards around end. Johnsos went in for Hewitt. Lund took Shepherd's pass to the Bears' 44 yard line where he was hit hard by Manders. Regeczi replaced Lund and booted out of bounds on the Bears' 33 yard line.

Pollock gained three yards in the line, and added 2 more yards on the next play. Rain by this time had soaked the field and the uniforms were smeared with mud. Siemering intercepted Pollock's pass on the Bears' 44 yard line. Shepherd made no gain as the half ended. Score: Bears, 3; Stars, 0.

THIRD QUARTER.

Shepherd took Manders' kick-off on the goal line and ran it out to the 28 yard line. Wetzel failed at center and Shepherd failed on a spinner. Feathers took Munjas' punt on his own 22 yard line.

Feathers gained six yards at end. Sisk added 2 more but the Bears were penalized ten yards for unnecessary roughness. Feathers' punt rolled badly for Shepherd, playing safety, and he let a Bear down it on the All-Stars' 33 yard line. Wetzel gained one yard and Shepherd three. Shepherd made a low kick that barely cleared the linesmen's heads, the ball going out of bounds on the Bears' 37 yard line.

Bears are Penalized.

A short pass, Dunlap to Sisk lost a yard. Dunlap made one yard. Feathers' punt rolled over to the Collegians' goal line. Regeczi, who replaced Nichelini, punted out on the Stars' 35 yard line, Crawford bumping the kicker just as the ball left his foot. The referee called the ball back and penalized the Bears five for running into the kicker.

Bevans replaced Barclay at guard. Mucha replaced Monahan. Sisk made five yards over his own left tackle. Crawford downed Feathers' punt on the Stars' 7 yard line. Feathers fumbled and recovered Regeczi's punt on the fifty yard line. A lateral, Dunlap to Feathers, lost four yards when Regeczi bumped the fleet Bear out of bounds. A reverse, Dunlap to Manders, gained four yards. Feathers' quick kicked out of bounds on the Stars' 19 yard line.

Bears Make First Down.

Mucha downed Regeczi's punt on the Bears' 33 yard line. Munjas batted down Feathers' attempted pass to Dunlap. Feathers' quick kick rolled out on the Stars' 12 yard line. Regeczi's return punt was out on the Bears' 48 yard line.

Feathers passed to Crawford for nine yards over the right end of the line. Dunlap's pass for Hewitt was a few inches short for the end to reach in the open. Manders made a first down on the Stars' 42 yard line.

Leeper smashed through the Bears' three man interference and stopped Manders for a six yard loss. Dunlap's pass was batted down by Wetzel. Manders slipped on a spinner and was nailed by Siemering for a loss of one yard as the quarter ended. Score: Bears, 3; All-Stars, 0.

FOURTH QUARTER.

Ookie Miller went in at center and Pollock and Ronzani in the back field for the Bears. Pollock's punt squirted out of bounds on the Stars' 39 yard line. Monahan went in at guard for the All-Stars.

Regeczi kicked to Pollock on the Bears' 24 yard line. The Bears were penalized on the next play 15 yards for holding to their own 9 yard line. With first down and 24 yards to go, Ronzani failed to gain. Pollock punted to the Bears' 42 yard line.

Wetzel gained 1 yard over center. Shepherd streaked around his own left end to the 25 yard line. Hutson went in at end for the All-Stars and Masterson at quarter for the Bears. Hutson on an end around took the ball from Shepherd and ran his own right end to the 8 yard line for first down.

Regeczi hit center for 2 yards and added another at the Bears' left tackle. The All-Stars substituted Lund for Regeczi. It was third down and 5 to go. Shepherd was bumped by three tacklers for a loss of 11 yards.

Bears Get Ball.

Hutson tried the same end around, reaching the Bears' eight yard line. The Bears took the ball on downs. Karr went in at end for the Bears.

Pollock dropped five yards behind his goal for a fake kick and Manders gained four yards on the trick play. On the next play Wetzel caught Pollock from behind on the 12 yard line. Feathers went in for Pollock.

Lund fumbled Feathers' long punt and Wetzel touched it but Sisk recovered on the Stars' 43 yard line. Manders made five yards. Morse went in at end for Hutson. Masterson threw a lateral pass to Manders and lost three yards.

Sisk picked up four yards at the Stars' left tackle, and it was fourth down with 3 yards to go. Feathers kicked out of bounds on the Stars' eight yard line. Barber went in at tackle for the Stars.

Shepherd, back in punt formation, fumbled in his own end zone, but recovered for a safety. Score: Bears, 5; All-Stars, 0.

Putting the ball in play on the 20 yard line, Bevan free kicked to Karr who returned it to the Stars' 38 yard line. Fuqua went in at end for the Collegians, Leeper going out. Mucha replaced Monahan at guard. Manders slid past three tacklers for an 11 yard gain. Manders cleared a path for Sisk to gain eight yards to the 19 yard line. Bengston of Minnesota replaced Barber. Larson went in at end.

Corbett went in at quarter for the Bears in place of Sisk. Feathers took the ball to the 8 yard line. Lund ran him out of bounds. All the players were smeared with mud. The Stars recovered Manders' fumble on their own 9 yard line and Munjas punted to Feathers on the Stars' 39 yard line.

Borries Goes In.

Borries of Navy went in at half back and Steen for tackle for the Stars. Masterson made 2 yards. The Bears were penalized five yards for too much time with signals. One more play failed to gain, but Corbett made a yard, making it fourth down and ten to go. Feathers kicked out of bounds on the Stars' 8 yard line.

Borries' pass to Larson was incomplete but it was ruled that Masterson interfered and the pass was ruled complete on the 27 yard line. Borries' next pass was intercepted by Joe Zeller on the Stars' 39 yard line.

Gundlach and Schiralli went in at guard for the Stars. Masterson made 2 yards at the line, but both sides were offside. Ford went in at center for the Stars and Borden at end. The game ended with a 2 yard gain into the line by Masterson. Score: Bears, 5; Stars, 0.

ALL-STARS AND COACHES HAVE ONE REGRET: RAIN

Collegians Satisfied They Gave Their Best.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

A weary band of young men, their features hidden by the remnants of divots from the turf of Soldiers' field, made a collective off tackle plunge into a gap in the east wall of the stadium about 11 o'clock last night, their last play of a game which had seen them—the cream of American college football—lose, 5 to 0, to the Chicago Bears, the head men of the professional side of the game. That play brought them into a dressing room, where they found several of their fellows, who had preceded them to the college All-Stars' dressing room.

One of those was Bill Shepherd, the Western Maryland scoring star of 1934, who had been released from duty a few minutes before the game ended. Another was Ray [Butch]

Rain Only Cause for Complaint.

The boys freed themselves from their watersoaked regimentals, uniforms of elegant gold and silver no longer, and hopped thenceforth into the showers. Damon Wetzel of Ohio State and Stan Kostka, Minnesota's hammering full back, regretted not that they had not been in a position to make a touchdown plunge. Don Hutson of the Alabama Hutsons, a pass fielder if ever there was one, did not grumble that he didn't get his hands on a scoring ball.

The one complaint the boys might have had, and they were philosophical about it, was the same as that of the coaches, the victorious Bears, and the hardy 78,000 who attended the game, the rain through which they played the entire second half, the same rain through which they trudged to their dressing rooms.

They were followed by the four men who within three weeks had welded them into a team. One by one they came in—first Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, then Charley Bachman of Michigan State, and next Dr. Clarence W. Spears of Wisconsin. They, like the players, were not overjoyed about the results, but satisfied that they had given their best.

Thomas Congratulates Boys.

Finally the man they had all been more or less waiting for fought his way through the crowd outside the dressing room and inside. He was Frank Thomas, the short, sharp eyed man who last year directed Alabama to a Rose Bowl victory, the man who won the vote of eight million fans throughout the country as the coach to lead the All-Stars.

Mr. Thomas made the attitude of the losers unanimous, by what may be taken as an official expression.

"I was darned well satisfied with our boys throughout the whole game. We had a few bad breaks, such as that chance in the last quarter, but the worst break of the evening for everybody—All-Stars, Bears, and crowd—was that rain. It turned what started out to be a great, wide-open game into a contest where each team's style was cramped. There was no opportunity for a passing or running game once the rain settled down to stay. The main reason why I am well content with the work of the All-Stars is that they met a team which charged hard through the whole game, and the Bears will be the last to deny this."

ers' part, for he held with his legs after blocking. The Bears also were called for motion [a five yard penalty] on the same play, but Capt. Miller Munjas of the All-Americans chose to take the penalty for holding.

Refuse to Handle Punts.

Refusal of the All-Americans to handle the Bears' punts was particularly noticeable throughout the game. This was the instruction from the coaches and the only serious fumble resulted when Pug Lund, in the fourth period, tried to grab the ball and lost control. In the subsequent scramble the Bears grabbed the ball and started on the drive that eventually forced the All-Stars into a safety.

Shepherd scored the safety after he received a bad pass from center, fumbled, and recovered in his own end zone.

Bill Bevan of Minnesota and Regis Monahan of Ohio State turned in fine defensive games at the guard positions for the All-Americans. Monahan was practically out on his feet in the fourth period when Carl Erickson, the trainer, came out and ordered him from the game.

Blazine Is Aggressive.

That more of the All-American players didn't get into the game was due to the desire of the coaches to keep first line strength. Among the lads notable for his aggressiveness was Tony Blazine of Illinois Wesleyan. Blazine failed of mention on the usual All-American selections last fall, but he was the best tackle on the All-Star team last night.

The All-American defense was impregnable as far as touchdowns were concerned. This makes two years in succession that the All-Stars have kept their goal line inviolate. For this a great deal of credit is due Dr. C. W. Spears of Wisconsin, who laid the plans.

That the game wasn't a free scoring affair can be laid to the rain. The figures for the first period indicated that each team would approach 200 yards from scrimmage for the evening.

Fans Hail All-Americans in Impressive Ceremony

Shortly before 8:30 o'clock at Soldiers' field last night Announcer Ted Canty called for attention and for all present to stand and face the north. With all lights off, the throng of 77,450 stood and faced that end of the field, where a giant American flag was raised with a spotlight focused on it while the bands played the national anthem.

Canty then began the impressive ceremonies in which the collegiate starting lineup was introduced individually under a special spotlight. George Shotwell, Pittsburgh center, was the first to find the light, followed by Regis Monahan, Bill Bevan, Tony Blazine, Jim Barber, Don Hutson, Ray Fuqua, Miller Munjas, the captain, Al Nichelini, and Stan Kostka. Then came the coaches in the same fashion, with Slip Madigan first, Dr. Clarence Spears second, Charley Bachman third, and last, Head Coach Frank Thomas. Finally came the three Bear bosses—George Halas, Red Grange, and Luke Johnsos, the last named in uniform.

The All-Stars were the first of the combatants on the scene, arriving in a huge bus and docking at the extreme south end of the stadium, whence they were rushed to their dressing quarters underneath the east stands opposite the south goal line. First to alight was Frank Thomas, the boss coach of the collegians, looking none the worse for the attack of arthritis which has been annoying him of late. The All-Stars reached the stadium at approximately 7:15 p. m. and within five minutes their headquarters was the scene of an activity smacking of October in a thousand stadia throughout the country.

Probably the most surprising feature for early birds was the well scattered profusion of customers all over the big lake front arena. It didn't seem to matter whether a customer and his party held seats on the 50 yard line, the goal post crossing, or whether he was one of the hardier souls looking down from the farther reaches toward the Field museum. From one end of the stadium to the other there was not an appreciable vacancy before 7 o'clock, each section showing fans. Within the ensuing hour these premature arrivals were being constantly joined by hundreds of others.

The solid wall of blue back to the southeast, flecked with vagrant white clouds, appeared to have no effect on the enthusiasm of the fans, many of whom had beat autumn to the punch by blossoming out in topcoats and mufflers. That black barrier, with its half-hearted promise of showers, was soon forgotten as night fell and the battery of lights surrounding the stadium poured their radiance on the field.

Not much attention was paid to the presence of the Bears, who arrived in small groups, until a charging troupe of players burst onto the field from the west side of the stands. It was professional football's greatest team, and within less time than it takes to say Melinkovich they had romped down to the north end of the gridiron, to go through a brief limbering up exercise. Then came a flock of passes and an awe inspiring exhibition by the fearsome Manders' toe.

The most summery, even vernal, note of the evening was supplied by Red Grange, who circulated among the Bears during their preliminary maneuvers, attired in a light suit, a turned down panama, and a pair of sports shoes. Owner-Coach George Halas was more in the sartorial mood of the evening, wearing a dark suit and a felt hat.

The ball used in the game was an innovation, being marked with two black stripes across the white surface. The black stripes were found to give the ball more body and increase its visibility, as in the case of railroad crossing danger signals.

BEARS LAMENT THAT TOUCHDOWN THEY DIDN'T GET

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

No cheers resounded in the Bears' locker room after their victory over the All-Americans last night. They stripped off soaked and mud crusted jersies, loosened adhesive tape with gasoline swabs, and heaped muffled curses on an adverse fate that prevented them from getting a touchdown.

They were satisfied they had restored professional football to its proper place at the head of the parade. They felt revenged for last year's surprising scoreless tie. And to a man the Bears praised this year's All-Americans as a better team than the one that held them last year.

Mistaken assignments and lack of effective blocking was blamed for the failure to get a touchdown, and a mistake on the defense, coupled with a smart bit of generalship, was credited with opening the way for the All-Stars' only serious threat, a dash to the eight yard line in the fourth period.

Coach Is Satisfied.

"Individually, the boys played great ball," Coach George Halas said. "I think we got all the bad breaks in the game, particularly on penalties. Our blocking and team work were far from what we had hoped. With a little luck we should have had at least one touchdown.

"The All-Stars were better than last year's team. That backfield was as good as I have ever seen. Against the team we had on the field a year ago, that team would have piled up half a dozen scores. We were in so much better shape, physically and mentally, however, that the game never was out of our control. Crawford got fooled once, on Shepherd's attempted pass, and the whole team was taken by surprise when Hutson sneaked around, but aside from that we were never in danger.

"Art Buss at left tackle, played a whale of a game. They said they were going to run wild through him, you know. Bill Hewitt was a standout and Beattie Feathers carried that ball better than any back in the game. Jack Manders gave us the kind of full backing we are accustomed to and the center of the line on defense was about all anybody could ask. We'll improve, though. When we come back from St. Johns' Military academy in two weeks, I think we'll be ready for the league season."

They All Praise Shepherd.

Bill Shepherd, the Western Maryland star, was the chief topic of discussion. Every man on the squad paid him a high compliment and the vote was unanimous for discouraging him on a pro career unless it is with the Bears. The Bears do not relish meeting him at Boston this fall.

"Those fellows were much tougher than last year," said Ookie Miller, who blocked Regis Monahan's attempted place kick, "but I don't think they had as much fire as last year's crowd."

Trafic Delays Prevent Many Seeing Kickoff

BY HAL FOUST.

Although the crowd of 77,450 at the All-Star game moved with gridiron alertness, many missed the kickoff in Soldiers' field last night. Thousands still quick-stepping from taxicabs, street cars, and parking lots when the first quarter was well under way.

Trafic engineers, trying to coach the public in yesterday's TRIBUNE to start early for the game, found their advice ignored by large numbers. Five hundred policemen shouted and whistled from the side lines approaching the Stadium, but there still were thousands who were tardy.

As had been predicted, the 17,000 going to the Grant park band concert interfered with progress toward the game. THE TRIBUNE roadster, in six solid lanes of cars in Columbus drive, required 22 minutes to travel from Monroe street and arrive at Field museum at 8:12 p. m., eight minutes before the ceremonies were due to begin. The slow progress was due to a large degree to police halting vehicles to allow the music lovers to walk across the pavement.

Three and some times four lanes of cars swung over the Monroe street bridge with the double file from Michigan avenue squeeking tires on the turn. Police called signals like quarter backs. But there just was not enough available pavement to avoid blockades closer to the stadium.

The drizzle that started between halves sent a few of the 77,450 homeward bound in the third quarter, but it was not until the last few minutes of the fourth quarter that the rain became heavy enough to disperse any appreciable number.

There were still some 70,000 in the open bowl when the final gun sent them scurrying out of the gates to automobiles, taxicabs, buses, and street cars.

The rain slowed up drivers on the slippery pavements and the congestion was worse than had been anticipated. The crowds, however, accepted the long jams cheerfully.

CHICAGO BANKS' ANNUAL FDIC LEVY $2,000,000

Pay 1-12 of 1 Per Cent on 2 2-3 Billions.

Federal insurance of deposits up to $5,000 per account will cost Chicago banks more than $2,000,000 annually. Estimates made yesterday on the basis of the rate of 1-12 of 1 per cent set by congress and the total deposits of $2,626,932,000 reported by state and national institutions in Chicago at the most recent call on June 29, indicate premiums aggregating $2,187,000 a year will be paid to the FDIC.

The first payment, due Nov. 15 for the last four months of this year and amounting to 1-36 of 1 per cent would amount to $729,000. Only a small part of this first levy actually will be paid out, however, because banks will receive credits equal to the amounts advanced under the temporary insurance plan.

Deposits Point Higher.

The estimates, of course, can be no more than approximations, at least two factors entering into the immediate picture. One is the change in amount of deposits, probably upward in view of current trends. The June 29 total was the largest since December, 1930, and nearly double the low of March, 1933.

The second factor which may change the amount of payments concerns interbank deposits. Chicago institutions hold 509 millions of deposits of other banks, and in turn have 210 millions of their funds on deposit in New York. Under the new banking act, these deposits would be subject to assessment in each bank where they are listed. Reduction in these balances as between banks is a possibility which might alter the amount of payments.

The Chicago assessments will vary from the estimated $797,600 annually on the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company's $957,107,000 deposits on June 29 to $279 a year on the $335,000 reported by the West 31st Street State bank. The Continental's payment every six months is placed near the $400,000 mark, and the initial assessment for the last third of this year would be about $266,000.

Figures for Other Banks.

The First National bank would be required to pay about $667,000 yearly on its $800,559,000 deposits. Its initial assessment is $222,000.

The Northern Trust's annual stint is set at $223,000. The first assessment would be $74,500 on the basis of $268,021,000 deposits. The Harris Trust and Savings bank will be required to pay $193,000 annually, and $64,500 for the last third of this year on $232,285,000 deposits.

The City National's $102,872,000 deposits would require $86,000 annually. The American National annual outlay would be approximately $24,000 on deposits of $28,426,000.

The two largest outlying banks—Drovers National and Live Stock National—are expected to pay out $18,000 and $16,000 a year on their respective deposits of $21,263,000 and $19,044,000, as last reported.

It was proposed in congress that the levy be set at one-eighth of 1 per cent. Had the higher rate been adopted, the cost would have been approximately $3,284,000 annually for the Chicago banks instead of the $2,187,000 estimated on the basis of June 29 reports.

How Levy Is Determined.

After the plan becomes fully operative assessments will be based on average daily balances during each six month period and statements filed by each bank on Jan. 15 and July 15 of each year.

The initial payment for the period from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, 1935, will be based on average balances during October, and statements must be filed by Nov. 15. The first six month assessment will be based on average deposits during October, November, and December, and statements must be filed by Jan. 15 next for the period of Jan. 1 to June 30, 1936.

STEEL INDUSTRY PONDERS NEXT STEP IN SHAKEUP

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Steel circles here today speculated as to the next moves to be made in connection with the announcement of the United States Steel corporation yesterday that operations of two subsidiaries, Carnegie Steel company and Illinois Steel company, will be unified in Pittsburgh under Benjamin F. Fairless, former executive vice president of Republic Steel corporation.

Major questions asked were what will happen to I. Lamont Hughes, president of Carnegie, and George G. Thorp, president of Illinois.

"I hope so," was the comment of William A. Irvin, president of U. S. Steel, when asked if Hughes will stay with the company. Thorp is eligible for a pension.

Link Failure of Bond Sale to Vast Spending

BY HOWARD WOOD.

La Salle street yesterday considered it significant that the first attempt by the United States government to borrow money following the adjournment of the most extravagant congress in its history was a flat failure. Disclosure of the treasury's unsuccessful attempt to sell 100 million dollars of four year bonds came yesterday when Secretary Morgenthau announced that subscriptions for only 85 millions had been received and that most of the bonds had to be sold for less than par.

The seventh-fourth session of congress, which ended early Tuesday morning, voted to spend 10 billion 256 million dollars, the largest amount ever appropriated at a peace time session of congress.

* *

Having made these enormous appropriations, congress made a feeble attempt to increase the nation's revenues, but its efforts fizzled into a program of soaking the thrifty through increased estate, gift, and income taxes and soaking the stockholders of big corporations by raising taxes on corporate income. These increases, according to the government's own estimates, will produce 250 million dollars in additional yearly revenues—or about one-sixteenth of the estimated federal deficit of four billion dollars for the current fiscal year.

Only once before in the history of the United States has the federal government failed in an attempt to borrow money. Just a year ago when Secretary Morgenthau offered three series of Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds subscriptions failed to cover the amount offered.

* *

During the war when the government was borrowing billions on Liberty bonds there were times when strenuous efforts had to be made by local Liberty bond committees to sell them all, but no issue failed.

This week's offering consisted of 100 millions of Federal Farm Mortgage corporation bonds. These, like the Home Owners Loan corporation issues, are United States government bonds because the government guarantees them unconditionally both as to principal and interest. They are obligations of the United States as completely as are treasury bonds and are accepted as such by the public.

Following the disclosure of the failure of the bond offering bankers and bond dealers yesterday quickly advanced the explanation that it was due to Secretary Morgenthau's innovation in offering new bonds at auction instead of establishing in advance, as has been done in the past, a definite offering price at which the treasury will sell the bonds and asking subscriptions at that price.

* *

Government bond prices have been declining steadily since early this month. Two issues that until recently were selling at a premium in the open market are now quoted below par. This decline also, said the bankers and bond men, was due to the uncertainty generated by what they term Morgenthau's "grab bag" method of selling new issues.

This was accepted in professional circles as a logical explanation, but Secretary Morgenthau quickly denied it by saying that the auction sale policy not only was not to blame but that it would be continued in later offerings.

Beyond saying that the result of his latest borrowing attempt was "not so good," Morgenthau advanced no reason for this situation, thus increasing the uncertainty in the minds of bankers and bond experts, instead of allaying it.

* *

According to bond experts in La Salle street, Morgenthau has also unsettled the market by statements to the effect that the treasury would not try to maintain prices but would let investors set the level at which government bonds should sell. They complain of a lack of badly needed leadership normally afforded by the treasury.

Despite Morgenthau's assertion that his policy of selling bonds at auction has not been responsible for this month's break in prices and the failure of the latest offering, bond experts still insist that the auctioning policy is largely to blame.

"I'm not going to bid for a new issue at par and take a chance that my competitor across the street will get bonds of the same issue at 98," said another.

* *

To support their criticism of the auctioning policy, bond dealers point out that while Morgenthau was receiving bids below par on the new offering of the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation bonds similar outstanding securities of the Home Owners Loan corporation were actually selling at higher prices on the open market, indicating that purchasers preferred to pay a premium and know what the bonds were costing them rather than try to guess on the price of the new issue.

The weakening of government bond prices comes at an inopportune time for the treasury because some time next month it must arrange for the sale of a big refunding issue to retire the billion and a quarter of Liberty bonds which last April were called for redemption on Oct. 15.

Labor Department Reports Gain in Commodity Prices

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—A slight gain in wholesale commodity prices last week was reported today by the labor department. Farm products went up from 80.3 to 80.7 per cent of their average 1926 price. Foods advanced from 85.4 to 86.1.

Treasury Dips Into 'Free' Gold Supply Again

Apparently finding itself short of small pocket change, the United States treasury last week dipped into its "free gold" fund for a pittance of about 30 million dollars. The treasury has been reaching into this fund with increasing frequency in recent weeks.

The drain on the fund was disclosed by the weekly banking reports issued last night. The statement showed that the treasury deposited 40 million dollars of gold certificates with the federal reserve banks. As only 10 millions of foreign gold came into the country last week the treasury apparently used the "free" gold, resulting from dollar devaluation, as collateral for the remaining 30 millions of the certificates deposited with the reserve system.

Deposits Exceed Imports.

A check up of the statistics shows that since July 1 the deposits of certificates by the treasury has exceeded the gold imports by approximately 176 million dollars. Part of converted "free" gold was used to retire the last of the 2 per cent consols which were called Aug. 1. How the balance was used the treasury has not divulged.

The reserves of the member banks of the system showed a declined in the report issued yesterday, the first recorded in several weeks. In New York, however, banks continued to pile up idle funds in their balances at their federal reserve banks. For the country as a whole the decline was 129 millions while the increase in reserves in New York was approximately 57 millions.

Commercial Credit Rises.

There was a trickle of funds into commercial credit channels in both New York and Chicago. Chicago banks advanced 4 millions to commercial borrowers while loans of the same type in New York were 7 millions above the preceding week.

The downward swing in stock prices which followed the adjournment of congress was accompanied by a sharp contraction in the volume of brokers' loans which fell 63 milions in New York.

Bank clearings expanded again in the week ended Wednesday, according to Dun & Bradstreet. Total clearings in the reporting cities were $4,555,636,000 as compared with $3,622,921,000 in the corresponding period of 1934, an increase of 25.5 per cent. In the preceding week a gain of 21.4 per cent was recorded over a year ago.

In New York City the increase for the week was 31.6 per cent while the aggregate of other reporting cities showed a gain of 15.8 per cent. Chicago clearings were $218,100,000, or 8.5 per cent above a year ago.

PROCESSING TAX COLLECTIONS DIP MORE THAN 70%

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The treasury's collections of processing taxes on farm products this month are running more than 70 per cent below a year ago, it was reported today. Collections up to Aug. 27 were about 11 millions, as compared with slightly more than 42 millions in the corresponding period last year.

In July the government collected only 2,653,000 in hog processing taxes, against $7,326,000 in June and $18,127,000 in July last year. Court injunctions against collection of the tax and the sharply reduced supplies of hogs were partly responsible for the decrease. It was also reported that the government has been more lenient in forcing collections since the large number of court actions were filed.

Baltimore and Ohio Diesel Train Arrives on Time

The Baltimore and Ohio's Capitol Limited which left the city Wednesday on its regular run to Washington drawn by a 3,600 horse power Diesel electric locomotive arrived at the capital on time to the minute, officials of the road here said yesterday. On Wednesday's trip the engine hauled 10 standard sized cars. On a recent trip to the capital from Chicago the same engine hauled fourteen cars 26 minutes faster than the regular schedule. No endeavor was made to establish speed records.

PARK DISTRICT'S BIG REFUNDING PROGRAM IS UPHELD BY COURT

Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski of the Circuit court yesterday upheld the validity of the new Chicago park district's $108,000,000 bond refunding program which had been attacked in a suit brought by a taxpayer in the former West Pullman park district. An appeal of the case will be taken to the Illinois Supreme court, according to Attorney Clyde L. Day, who represents Joseph Kocsis.

Kocsis contended that the consolidated park district did not have the right to assume the debts of the park districts which it superseded. It was alleged that the taxpayers in the small park districts which had comparatively small funded debts would be shouldered with an additional tax burden as a result of the merger.

The refunding program calls for the refinancing of approximately $108,000,000 of bonds and floating debt outstanding against the 22 park districts which were united under a special act of the state legislature.

The bonded debt of the 22 units amounts to $103,707,760, and the districts have a floating debt of $4,956,000.

EXTRA DIVIDEND PAID BY ABBOTT LABORATORIES

Abbott Laboratories yesterday declared an extra distribution of 30 cents and the regular quarterly of 50 cents, both payable Oct. 1. Like amounts were paid in preceding quarters. Chicago Flexible Shaft declared an extra dividend of 10 cents and the regular quarterly of 30 cents, both payable Sept. 30. In the two preceding quarters similar disbursements were made, before which 25 cents a share was paid quarterly.

Parke Davis declared an extra payment of 20 cents and a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, both payable Sept. 30. Like distributions were made in the two preceding quarters. Crowell Publishing declared an extra dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, payable Sept. 24. Wesson Oil and Snowdrift declared an extra disbursement on the common stock of 87½ cents and the regular quarterly of 12½ cents, both payable Oct. 1.

Federated Publications resumed dividends with a 25 cent payment on the voting trust certificates on Sept. 1. The last distribution was 15 cents on July 31, 1931.

U. S. DROPS SUITS TO TAKE LAND FOR HOUSING PROJECT

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday dismissed some 300 individual condemnation proceedings started against property owners in the west side district in which the housing division of the Public Works administration proposed to erect large low cost housing structures.

A motion to dismiss these actions was presented by Frederick Z. Marx, counsel for the housing project, and Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney. The government abandoned its original plan because of the high prices asked by property owners, and is now confining its activities to the area bounded by Polk street, Roosevelt road, Racine avenue, and Ashland avenue.

Secretary Ickes in Washington yesterday ordered speed in preparing plans for the Jane Addams houses, which the PWA will finance in the west side territory. He said the architects are expected to have preliminary drawings ready in a few weeks.

RFC SELLS CITY BONDS AT PROFIT; TAKEN FROM PWA

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Disposition by the Reconstruction Finance corporation of $14,489,500 of municipal bonds originally pledged as collateral security for PWA construction loans was announced today by Chairman Jones. He said bids had been made on all but four of the 56 issues at an average of 102½ per cent of par and that the RFC had realized a profit of $326,076 on the offering.

Included in the group were 27 issues of 4 per cent bonds of the city of New York, aggregating $6,431,000 that were sold at a profit to the RFC of $200,004.

Only two small issues brought bids of less than par. Two issues which failed to bring bids of par or better probably will be rejected.

Gifts of Stocks to Escape Tax Grow Larger

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Speeding to act ahead of new and higher taxes, corporation officials and large stockholders were shown by Securities and Exchange commission reports today to have given away more than $5,000,000 in stocks in July.

An estimated saving of $190,000—the extra payment under the new tax bill—was effected. Total gift taxes in July would be about $520,000 under the present law against $709,000 under the new. Aside from a $27,000,000 gift in June by John D. Rockefeller Jr., July gifts were at a higher rate and both months greatly exceeded previous months on the commission's records.

Andrew Mellon Makes Gift.

Largest July gifts were $1,470,000 by Kate Hanna Harvey, Cleveland, consisting of 70,000 common shares of the M. A. Hanna company, and $1,380,000 by Andrew Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, consisting of 46,000 shares of 6 per cent cumulative participating preferred in the Pittsburgh Coal company.

Under the present tax schedules, and on estimates by treasury officials, assuming the gift was made to one person and not considering the problem of appraising stock values, Kate Hanna Harvey would now pay $215,000 on her gift against $260,000 under the new bill. Mellon would pay $205,000 now against $247,000 under the new bill.

Edward A. Johnston of Chicago, International Harvester company official, made a gift of 3,000 shares of common stock valued at $142,500. This would be taxed at $3,350 compared with $6,900 under the new law.

Bill Not Yet Signed.

The new tax bill has not yet been signed by the President and gifts made up to Jan. 1, 1936, are not subject to the tax. The commission's reports do not disclose the recipients of any gifts made by other than corporation officials or stockholders holding more than 10 per cent of a company's stock. Neither do they show gifts of money or other property.

The gift taxes run about three-quarters of what the tax would be on the estates of the donors after their deaths.

CUBA REFUSES DISCUSSION OF CHASE BANK LOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Aug. 29.—President Carlos Mendieta informed United States Senators Gerald P. Nye and Burton K. Wheeler today that his provisional government will not enter into discussion over, much less pay 1 cent on, the amortization or interest of the repudiated Chase National bank loans to former President Gerardo Machado's régime. They total about $60,000,000.

Senator Nye, who is chairman of the American commission on Cuban public works bondholders, arrived this morning by plane from Washington. He joined Senator Wheeler and Albert F. Coyle, secretary of the committee, who arrived yesterday.

MORTGAGE, RAIL PENSION BILLS ARE MADE LAWS

Both Are Designed to Evade Court.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt today signed into law the Frazier-Lemke three year farm mortgage moratorium bill and the railway pension bill, with its companion tax measure, all passed in the closing days of congress. Both the railway pension legislation and the new Frazier-Lemke law were designed to replace similar measures passed by the Seventy-third congress and held unconstitutional by the Supreme court.

Representative Robert Crosser [Dem., O.], who introduced the pension bills in the house, and Timothy Shea, chairman of the legislative committee of the Railway Labor Executives' association, were present at the signing and received pens used by the President. The President signed these bills with a number of minor measures, in a cleanup rush preparatory to departure Saturday night for a vacation at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Signs Without Comment.

Mr. Roosevelt made no comment when he signed the Frazier-Lemke law, although in signing the original act he commended its purpose and predicted that it would accomplish much. The Supreme court demolished it with a unanimous decision holding that it took money out of one man's pocket for the benefit of another, in violation of the due process clause of the 5th amendment.

The new act permits farmers who fail to secure compositions with their creditors to petition the federal courts and become adjudged bankrupts. Thereupon all proceedings are stopped for three years and the farmers may retain their property, paying only a "reasonable rent" fixed by the court.

Wide discretionary powers are vested in the courts, which may order a foreclosure sale at public auction at any time during the three year period upon petition of the creditors. There is no provision for the scaling down of the principal or interest, but the courts are directed to order reappraisals in accordance with the existing "fair market" value.

Maximum Pension $120.

The railway pension act authorizes retirements of employés upon reaching 65 [retirement is mandatory at 70] or upon completing 30 years' service. Pensions will be computed upon the average salary received and length of service, with a maximum of $120 a month.

The companion measure levies a tax of 3½ per cent on employers' pay rolls and a tax of 3½ per cent upon employés. The pension bill killed by the Supreme court carried a tax of 4 per cent on the railways and 2 per cent on employés.

Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, dissenting, stated that the majority opinion of the Supreme court barred all approaches to such legislation by congress, but the authors, including Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] profess to believe they have circumvented this decision by putting the taxes in a separate piece of legislation. Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.] predicted that the court would lose no time in "seeing through this subterfuge."

Effective in March, 1936.

The pensions do not become effective until March 1, 1936, but $600,000 nevertheless was carried in the third deficiency bill, killed by Senator Huey Long, for the administrative setup and preliminary preparations. The administration expects to get these funds from other sources.

President Roosevelt conferred with various officials of the New Deal on a plan to "coördinate" the government's manifold housing activities, now being carried on by the housing administration, the Public Works administration, the Subsistence Homesteads corporation, the HOLC, the Works Progress administration, and the rural resettlement division. It was tentatively agreed not to consolidate any of the activities, but to create a new central clearing agency with a paid secretary and such assistants as he may require.

Stock Market Edges Higher, but Sales Dip

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 29.—Despite dullness that prevailed most of the session the stock market staged a modest advance today and gains were confined largely to fractions.

There was little in the news to cause excitement, and with traders beginning to leave the shore and the mountains for the Labor day holiday transactions fell below the million share mark for the first time in more than a month. Total transactions were 903,150 shares.

Monday's shakeout was regarded as a technical correction, which has provided a sounder foundation for a resumption of the bull movement. Failure of the bearish element to extend the declines substantially in yesterday's session lent credence to this theory.

Give Hint of Real Advance.

Steel, amusement, motor, and airplane stocks made the best showing. At times some members of those groups acted as though they would send the market into full advance. Bethlehem and United States Steel were forced down from their day's highs to finish fractionally better. The preferred stocks of both companies gained more than a point. Chrysler was a strong spot in the automobile section, gaining a point. General Motors rose a fraction.

Following publication of its report, which seemed to disappoint some of the more optimtistic prophets, but which revealed large earnings, Columbia Pictures skyrocketed. The stock in early trading shot up some 5¾ points, but slipped in later dealings to wind up the day with a gain of 3⅝ points. Fox gained more than a point.

Public Utilities in Favor.

The market showed a liking for the public utilities. North American and American Telephone rose a point and Pacific Gas did almost as well.

In less known stocks unusual strength and activity were shown. American Express shot up 25 points, American Type Founders preferred moved up 3 points, and Certainteed preferred bounded 9¼ points.

Rails made slight gains here and there notwithstanding unsatisfactory earnings reports for last month. Westinghouse was a firm spot in the equipments and du pont strong in the chemicals.

CARNEGIE STEEL CUTS PRICES TO BIG CONSUMERS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Carnegie Steel company announced today a new price setup for hot rolled carbon steel bars whereby large purchases will pay 5 cents a hundred pounds less than at present.

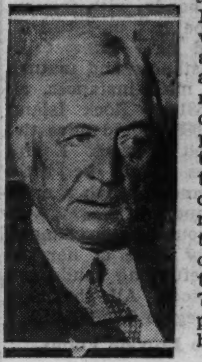
The old rate was $1.80 per hundred pounds for all orders, while the new rate increases the base for ten to twenty-five tons at $1.85, with reductions up to 10 cents a hundred for more than 100 ton lots. The new prices are effective for the fourth quarter of the year, f. o. b. Pittsburgh, and subject to the usual list of extras. Hot rolled carbon steel bars have a general use, including particularly in the automobile industry.

The company, principal subsidiary of the U. S. Steel corporation, said: "The new feature involves certain deductions to give buyers the benefit of savings effected when sufficient tonnage is ordered to permit economical mill operations and is the result of several years' study of costs as related to quantities produced. Some minor revisions in extras which have been in effect for many years for small quantities are also included."

UNION OF THREE BIG WESTERN RAILS PROPOSED

Involves Rock Island, Frisco, C. & E. I.

Consolidation of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company, the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway company, and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railway company is proposed in a plan to be presented to the interstate commerce commission today by the protective committee for the Rock Island's 7 and 6 per cent preferred stockholders.



FRANK O. LOWDEN.

This is one of the most far reaching proposals in rail consolidation in the last quarter century, and would create a system ranking among the largest in the world. All three companies have filed petitions for reorganization under section 77 of the amended bankruptcy laws. The consolidation constitutes the first plan to be put forward under modification of the law at the recent session of congress, permitting stockholders to submit proposals for the first time.

Presented to All Interests.

While presented only in connection with the Rock Island proceedings because the committee has no connection with the other reorganizations, the proposal has been laid informally before interests in both the Frisco and C. & E. I. What their attitude may be was not disclosed.

The trustees of the Rock Island were not consulted in the preparation of the plan, and were not prepared to comment on its fairness of advisability, Attorney Joseph B. Fleming said last night. Other trustees are former Gov. Frank O. Lowden and James E. Gorman, president of the road.

Carter H. Harrison Jr. heads the committee, whose other members are Stephen V. R. Crosby of Boston, Charles F. Grey of Chicago, and George E. Pike of Waterloo, Ia. Gann, Secod & Stead are counsel, Malcolm Mercartney is associate counsel, and R. Harland Shaw is secretary.

Promise Aid to Middle West.

The proposed billion dollar system, the committee statement said, "would have access directly to every important terminal and shipping center in the middle west and own its own lines to the gulf ports of Galveston and Pensacola, and have important connections at Mobile and New Orleans. It would be one of the most important factors in American agricultural life." The consolidation also is calculated to make for improvement in service, it was said.

Citing "real provisions for paying off past debt," opinion is expressed that the new company "should be able to pay off practically all of its underlying bonds between now and 1961, with a very limited recourse to new financing." Use of sinking funds instead of "drastic surgical operation" is cited as outstanding in efforts of the plan to protect interests of all parties.

An unusual feature of the plan is that it involves no advances from the Reconstruction Finance corporation or from any other governmental or banking sources.

The RFC, Railroad Credit corporation, and bank loans now outstanding against the three roads would be transformed into 8 year 3 per cent secured notes, with interest cumulative but not fixed. These would be paid out of earnings. These loans include: RFC, $24,292,289; banks, $9,261,863; RCC, $5,525,139.

All underlying bonds, with few exceptions, would be left undisturbed. First liens would have interest reduced in some instances and maturities extended in most instances, although the $61,581,000 Rock Island general 4s, due 1988, would have the maturity shortened 25 years. Equipment trust notes would be little changed, and retired through a mandatory sinking fund.

Junior liens would be exchanged largely for a new issue of new 30 year 3 per cent refunding bonds and new preferred stock. All the new issues would aggregate $328,000,000.

Stockholders to Provide Funds.

Stockholders will be asked to provide new money for reorganization expense and working capital, but may share in the new company to a lesser degree without putting up cash. Reserves of $132,000,000 are set up in a pro forma balance sheet, and the committee states that the values arrived at for stockholder equities "have a reasonable and demonstrable relationship to underlying value."

Stockholder participation is outlined as follows: Rock Island preferred holders receive one-half share of new preferred and one share of $50 par common for each present share and payment of $2.50 cash. Rock Island common would receive one new common for each old $100 common and $2.50 cash. Frisco common and preferred would participate equally, receiving one-half share new common for each present share and $1.25 cash. For each share of C. & E. I. preferred would be issued one-half share new common without cost and another half share on payment of $1.25. One-half share of new common would be given for each present C. & E. I. common share and $1.25 cash.

The new company would have assets of 984 millions. Its capitalization would consist of $179,000,000 in underlying liens, $328,000,000 in junior liens, $47,000,000 in equipment trust notes, $39,000,000 in 8 year secured notes, $106,000,000 in preferred stock, and $100,000,000 in common stock. The figures are approximate, and total capitalization would aggregate about 800 millions.

Capitalization per mile of the 15,000 mile trackage in the consolidated system would be about $54,000. Only the Santa Fe and Burlington among western roads and two others in the nation have a lower capitalization per mile, the committee said.

A board of directors of 19 members would be set up, 10 to be selected by creditors and 9 by stockholders. Whenever a creditor's interest rate becomes fixed [the plan contemplates this to occur in 5 to 10 years], his representation would pass to the shareholders.

Fixed charges during the first five years, set at $2,600,000, would have been covered two to three times in each depression year, it was said. The new company would have working capital of $14,000,000 and have in its treasury $6,900,000 in underlying mortgage bonds free for use for compensation and other undetermined claims.

Have Been Closely Linked.

The three properties have been closely associated in the last 30 years, one or the other having had control of substantial interest in one or both of the others during that period.

With the expansion of the Rock Island soon after 1900, control was obtained by interests known as the Reid-Moore-Yoakum group. Under it the road acquired direct or indirect control of both the Frisco and the Chicago and Alton. In addition, the Frisco was caused to obtain control of the C. & E. I. This "empire" collapsed in 1913-1915.

In consolidation plans of the interstate commerce commission in 1929 and in 1932 the Frisco and Rock Island were placed at the head of one system. The C. & E. I. was made part of a system headed by the Chicago and North Western in 1929, while in 1932 it was assigned to the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate group.

DENY LEGALITY OF RFC LOAN TO OLD DAWES BANK

Stockholders Resist Suit to Collect Liability.

The legality of the 90 million dollar loan made in 1932 by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to the Central Republic bank and Trust company, the old Dawes bank, has been attacked in the federal court here by a group of stockholders headed by John A. Lynch, it was disclosed yesterday. Lynch was chairman of the board of the National Republic Bank and Trust company before its consolidation with the Central Trust company. After the merger he became a director and vice chairman of the Central Republic.

The basis of the allegation that the loan constituted a violation of the RFC act is similar to the defense made in the federal court in New York last Wednesday by a group of eastern shareholders. The charges were made as part of the defense in the suit brought by the RFC for recovery from stockholders.

Term $50,000,000 Advance Illegal.

In their defense against the government suit, Lynch and the other stockholders contend the advance of the last $50,000,000 made to the bank in October, 1932, was a violation of the amendment to the RFC act which prohibited loans to financial institutions any of whose officers had served as directors of the RFC during the preceding 12 months.

Charles G. Dawes was chairman and a director of the bank during most of 1932 and until May of that year was a director of the RFC. The stockholders assert Dawes resigned as an officer of the bank on Oct. 5, the day prior to the execution of the $50,000,000 RFC note. The $30,000,000 loaned to the bank earlier in the year had been approved before congress adopted the RFC amendment.

Question Dawes' Resignation.

"The act of Charles G. Dawes," the stockholders assert, "in resigning as a member of the board of directors of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company and as an officer after completion of all arrangements toward the making of the loan of $50,000,000 was ineffective to avoid the prohibition cited."

The answer was made on behalf of 28 stockholders of whom Lynch, with 3,553 shares, is the largest. All the defendants before the Central-Republic merger were stockholders in the Republic bank. Attorney Don M. Peebles filed the answer to the RFC suit on behalf of this group of stockholders.

An echo of the hectic days which preceded that merger is contained in one section of their plea. They assert while they did not oppose the merger with the Central Trust it was brought about by a misunderstanding of actual conditions.

Charge Duress in Merger.

"The consolidation was obtained," it was asserted, "by duress and statements made to stockholders of the two institutions that if such a merger and consolidation did not take place the whole financial structure of the city of Chicago and the territory surrounding would be seriously affected, and that a major panic would thereby be brought about. These reasons given for the merger were in fact false and misleading and no occasion actually existed for the merger of the two institutions at any time."

The merger was announced after a dramatic night meeting which was attended by all the leading Chicago bankers and government officials. At that time the heads of all the principal banks were fearful of runs on their banks.

CHARGE AIR STOCK POOL HEADS WON, MEMBERS LOST

Suit Involves Dealings in Curtiss-Wright Shares.

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Members of the syndicate operating in 1929 for the purchase and sale of stock in the Curtiss-Wright corporation charged in the Supreme court today that the syndicate managers conducted the transactions in such a way that the managers earned large sums and the members of the syndicate lost heavily.

These allegations were made in an application by Henry S. Rogers for an order to examine Charles Hayden, head of the stock exchange firm of Hayden, Stone & Co.; Robert Adams, president of the Bancamerica-Blair corporation;; James C. Wilson, head of the brokerage firm of James C. Wilson & Co., and Herbert P. Howell, president of the Commercial National Bank and Trust company, executor under the will of Richard F. Hoyt. The petition alleges that Hayden, Stone & Co., the Bancamerica-Blair corporation, Wilson's firm, and Hoyt were syndicate managers.

Suit on Assigned Claims.

The suit is brought by Rogers on claims assigned by Thomas Collington and Hiram M. Rogers, both of whom say they had been active customers of the Springfield, Mass., branch of Hayden, Stone & Co. They want to question the defendants concerning all their operations of the syndicate.

Collington said that prior to July, 1929, he had an active trade account in Hayden, Stone & Co., and dealt actively in stock of the Wright Aeronautical corporation, holding 6,000 shares of that stock in July, 1929. As a result of the merger, he received 19,000 shares of common stock and 6,000 shares of "A" stock of the Curtiss-Wright corporation.

Collington said that soon after the merger he decided to dispose of his Curtiss-Wright holdings and discussed it with the Springfield manager of the brokerage firm. Immediately after ward he got a communication from Hayden, Stone & Co. advising him strongly not to sell and "advising us that we would be given a wonderful chance to come in on the ground floor of a syndicate being formed to trade in the stock of the Curtiss-Wright corporation.

Took $200,000 Interest.

He was offered an interest of $200,000 which he said he accepted.

Collington said that just before the syndicate quit in the latter part of 1929, his account with Hayden, Stone & Co. was charged with $140,000 against the syndicate operation and when it was closed the broker delivered to him 1,449 shares of common stock of the Curtiss-Wright corporation and charged him $39,100 additional, making a total of $179,160.

He sold his stock for $52,061, leaving his loss $127,098, he said.

OIL CONTROL FAILS; STANDARD (CAL.) CUTS PRICE

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The Standard Oil Company of California today announced reductions in prices it will pay for crude oil shortly after J. R. Pemberton, oil umpire, declared in Los Angeles the breakdown in NRA production curtailment had brought a crisis in the industry.

The Standard Oil announcement said the new prices represent a maximum reduction of 50 cents to 60 cents a barrel on the lightest grades and no change on the heaviest grades. The statement said efforts by producers to bring about a voluntary curtailment agreement had failed.

The new prices were made effective tomorrow. They range from 65 cents a barrel for 14-14.9 gravity oil from most of the California fields to 40 cents and under for other grades.

300,000 FARMERS URGE ROOSEVELT TO KEEP TARIFS

Fear Losses Through Growing Imports.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Alarmed over the possibility of a continued increase in the importation of live stock and its products, an appeal in the name of more than 300,000 farmers and ranchmen, members and patrons of the National Live Stock Marketing association was sent yesterday to President Rosevelt urging that present tarifs and sanitary restrictions on animals, meats, lard, and similar products be maintained.

In a telegram, signed by Charles A. Ewing, president of the coöperative association, the chief executive was told that any concessions in the way of lower tarifs and the removal of embargos preventing diseased foreign animals from entering this country would further cripple the live stock industry, tend to defeat the recovery program.

Believe Officials May Yield.

The live stock producers say they fear that Washington officials may yield to the demand of some consumers for lower meat price and reduce the duty on cattle and live stock products which leaders of the producers say are now coming into the country at an alarming rate.

In making public the telegram to the President, Ewing cited figures showing that imports of live cattle, beef, pork, and canned meats have increased greatly during the last six months as compared to the same period last year. He said that from January to June there were 223,825 head of foreign cattle brought into the United States as compared with 48,387 head during the same period last year. Beef imports jumped from 102,590 pounds to 4,820,176 pounds.

Pork Imports Rise Sharply.

Pork came in at the rate of 1,452,286 pounds between the start of the year and the end of June, against only 95,008 pounds during the same period last year. In addition imports of canned meats were more than doubled, totaling 58,006,296 pounds for the first six months.

When expressed in terms of live weight, the imports of cattle and beef during the first five months of 1935 were about the equivalent of 9 per cent of the cattle slaughtered under federal inspection during the same period, according to officials.

SEES COLLUSION IN REORGANIZING BUILDING HERE

Charging collusion between Federal Judge John P. Barnes prior to appointment to the federal bench and the Chicago Title and Trust company in the Girard Investment company and Girard Trust and Savings bank receivership proceedings in 1930, Attorney George S. Marks appealed to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to have the Milwaukee-Sawyer Building corporation reorganization proceedings taken out of Judge Barnes' court.

The higher court gave Marks the right to appeal. The Appellate court is composed of Federal Judges George T. Page. James H. Wilkerson, and Walter C. Lindley.

In the Girard case, Attorney Marks contended, there was a misappropriation of $2,900,000. Judge Barnes, at that time not a judge, was charged by Marks with being instrumental in the alleged "collusive receivership arrangements."

"What you are really charging," said Judge Page, "is that Judge Barnes ought not to sit on the bench and that the Chicago Title and Trust company should not be appointed in any cases in this court. This matter involves the honor and integrity of a judge of this court. As far as I can see, there is nothing to it, but we shall give you an opportunity to be heard fully."

The Chicago Title and Trust company is trustee for the Milwaukee-Sawyer building $700,000 first mortgage bond issue.

SLOAN DOUBTS FUTURE VALUE OF DIESEL AUTO

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors, returned from Europe today to cast doubt on the future of the prospective Diesel engined passenger car.

"I'm not sure it will ever come," said Sloan. "The Diesel engine is nothing new, but no one has yet produced a Diesel passenger automobile that is as acceptable to the public as the gasoline car.

"The future of the Diesel engine largely revolves about taxation. The state and federal authorities get about a billion and a half dollars in gasoline taxes. If crude oil engines suddenly were distributed, the oil would be taxed, and then Diesel economy would not look so well."

Sears, Roebuck to Expand Its Subsidiary in England

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Searsint Company, Ltd., a subsidiary of Sears International, the British unit of Sears, Roebuck & Co., has been registered in London with a nominal capital of 100 pounds sterling, it was announced today. The new company will market its products through the Universal stores in England. It is believed that later Sears-Roebuck may operate its own units in England.

Ludlum Steel Obtains Control of Wallingford

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—By obtaining options to purchase substantially more than a majority of the outstanding common stock of the Wallingford Steel company of Wallingford, Conn., the Ludlum Steel company has virtually acquired control of the former company. Wallingford manufactures stainless steel strip and sheets.

T. M. HOWELL APPEALS ORDER BARRING HIM FROM GRAIN TRADING

Thomas M. Howell, wealthy Chicago grain speculator, yesterday filed an appeal from the order of the grain futures commission which would bar him from trading on grain markets for a period of two years. Howell brought the action in the United States Court of Appeals. Judge George T. Page of the Appeals court entered an order staying execution of the suspension until the case has been reviewed.

Howell's suspension was to have taken effect Sept. 15. A similar case involving Arthur W. Cutten is now pending in the Appeals court. Oral arguments in the latter case will be heard some time in October.

Howell's suspension was announced in Washington Aug. 16. The commission, consisting of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Attorney General Cummings and Secretary of Commerce Roper found the speculator had violated the grain futures act in connection with his operations in the Chicago corn market in 1931.

HEAD OF GRAIN "CO-OP" DENIES BOYLAN CHARGES

C. E. Huff, president of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, yesterday took issue with the statement of Robert P. Boylan, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, that the commodity exchange bill had failed of passage in closing session of congress because it was a selfish measure designed to give the government financed coöperative a monopoly in its field.

The bill was lost, Huff declared, in the congestion of legislation in the final sessions. He also denied the charge made by Boylan that the corporation was attempting to weasel out of its $14,000,000 debt to the farm credit administration. Boylan based his charge on the resolution introduced in congress by Representative Lemke which provided that coöperatives should be reimbursed for "losses" suffered by them as a result of the operations of the old farm board.

"Nothing in the resolution was aimed at the obligation of the Farmers' National to the farm credit administration, which is adequately secured by collateral," Huff asserted.

Huff made no comment on the report of the senate agriculture committee, made public last week, which charged part of the farm board's losses were due to "inexperience, avarice, and in a few cases dishonesty on the part of the officials and employés of the coöperatives."

FOREIGN MONEYS EASE, CONTROLED LIRA IS FIRMER

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Leading foreign currencies, with the exception of the controled Italian lira, were somewhat weaker against the dollar today. Pound sterling was off ⅜ cent at $4.97⅜ and French francs dropped ¾ point to 6.61¾ cents.

This decline in the franc raised dollar values against francs to $1.0024 from $1.0013 yesterday, with the dollar also worth 59.20 cents, on the basis of the old parity, compared with 59.14 cents yesterday.

Scandinavian currencies were 1 to 2 points lower, Canadian dollars declined 12½ points to 99.65⅝ cents, Swis francs 3½ points to 32.65 cents, guilders 2 points to 67.80 cents, and belgas 4 points to 16.85 cents. The lira was up ½ point at 8.19½ cents.

The price of bar gold in London advanced ½ penny today to 140 shillings a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.83. Bar silver was unchanged in both New York and London.

ASSOCIATED GAS FILES $10,000,000 EMPLOYE ISSUE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Employés of the Associated Gas and Electric company and its numerous affiliates, recently the subject of investigation by the senate lobby committee, will be privileged to buy $10,000,000 in bonds of the Utilities Employés Securities company if a registration statement filed today with the Securities and Exchange commission is approved.

"According to the registration statement," said the SEC announcement, "this issue is to be offered at face value and accrued interest directly to the employés of companies in the Associated Gas and Electric system. The interest rate, subject to provisions of the bond, will be 6 per cent."

Missouri National Life Alleged to Be Insolvent

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—R. E. O'Malley, state director of insurance, today obtained control of the Missouri National Life Insurance company through a temporary injunction granted by the Circuit court on charges that the company is insolvent. O'Malley alleges that the company's capital is impaired, and asks for dissolution and liquidation of the assets.

WHEAT PRICES EASIER; DEMAND IS AT LOW EBB

September Deliveries to Begin Today.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

With both speculative and commercial demand at low ebb wheat prices receded slightly yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Declining prices in the principal foreign markets and the fact that deliveries will begin tomorrow under the September contracts served to curtail operations. The session was one of the most uneventful that have been witnessed in the market in recent weeks.

	Yesterday.	Wednesday	Wk.ago.
Wheat	$ .89	$ .89⅛	$ .90⅞
Corn	.56¾	.57⅛	.55⅞
Oats	.25⅝	.26⅛	.28⅛
Rye	.43⅞	.44	.45

Cash Wheat Premiums Maintained.

Wheat has declined approximately two cents a bushel in the last week. The big premiums which are being paid in the cash markets for good quality wheat, however, have been maintained. At the same time, there has been a gradual readjustment in world prices, which is regarded as a healthy development. Wheat has been advancing in the international market in Liverpool.

The spread between Liverpool and Canadian prices has narrowed until Canada is now on an export basis. Exporting firms are predicting a substantial increase in Canadian sales to Europe. Canadian wheat is now selling only 8 cents a bushel above Australian wheat, compared with a difference of 16 cents a year ago.

Canadian Movement Reassuring.

The prospect that the big Canadian surplus will gradually move into consumptive channels is reassuring to all producing countries. As long as the big supply is backed up in Canada it acts as a check on all markets. The deficiency of wheat in the United States will help cut down the surplus. Already American millers are bringing in Canadian wheat and exports are expected to continue throughout the current season.

A decline of a cent a bushel in wheat yesterday in Winnipeg gave rise to reports that the Canadian wheat board will establish a low minimum price for farmers to assure a substantial increase in exports.

Canadian Minimum Not Fixed.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Although the Canadian Wheat board has been in session three days it has not yet set a minimum price to be paid farmers for this year's crop. However, it is expected that the government will announce an approved minimum before the Labor day holiday.

The wheat board wishes to set the price near the present quotation of 84 cents, but its advisory committee composed of grain dealers and millers prefers a lower figure.

FEDERAL APPEAL COURT TO REVIEW ROSENBAUM CASE

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday granted motions for the review of two orders of Federal District Judge William H. Holly in connection with the reorganization of the Rosenbaum Grain corporation under section 77B of the bankruptcy act.

One of the orders authorized transfer of the company's unexpired lease on the Northwestern grain elevator in South Chicago to the Cargill Grain company of Minneapolis for $70,000. The other order authorized transfer of other elevator properties under temporary lease to a new concern affiliated with the Norris Grain company.

Attorneys for the Rosenbaum family in seeking the appeal argued the District court had no right to transfer any assets of the company pending a final reorganization agreement.

Palestine Prohibits Wheat Imports for Three Months

JERUSALEM, Aug. 29.—[Jewish Telegraphic Agency.]—The Palestine government today prohibited the importation of wheat for three months. This action was taken because of the great abundance of the home crop. Only 1,500 tons of wheat for Matzoth, special wafers used by Jews on Passover, may be imported, the government order states.

Government to Purchase Under Old Code Provisions

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today signed a congressional resolution authorizing government departments to award contracts on the basis of bids submitted before NRA was invalidated.

Supreme Court of the State of New York
NEW YORK COUNTY
IN THE MATTER of the Liquidation of NEW YORK TITLE AND MORTGAGE COMPANY } NOTICE TO CLAIMANTS

Notice to Creditors and All Other Persons interested in the Liquidation of the NEW YORK TITLE AND MORTGAGE COMPANY

By order of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, New York County, dated August 4, 1933, the Superintendent of Insurance of the State of New York was directed to take over the New York Title and Mortgage Company for rehabilitation. By order of said Court dated July 15, 1935, further efforts to rehabilitate said Company being futile, the Company was placed in liquidation and was dissolved pursuant to Article XI of the Insurance Law.

By this order all persons are directed to render accounts of all debts owing to said Company and to pay the same forthwith to the Liquidator; to assign, transfer or deliver property or records of said Company to the Liquidator or to his duly authorized deputy; and to permit the Liquidator or his agents to examine any books or records pertinent to the affairs of said Company.

The same order directs all creditors to file sworn proof of claim with the Liquidator not later than December 31, 1935, which is the last day for filing claims. Blank proof of claim forms will be furnished on request.

Claims duly presented will be determined and the assets of the New York Title and Mortgage Company distributed without further notice to persons failing to comply with the directions herein contained.

All communications relating to the Company in liquidation should be addressed to the undersigned or to his Special Deputy Superintendent of Insurance, D. William Leider, 141 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Superintendent of Insurance of the State of New York, as Liquidator of New York Title and Mortgage Company.

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—All sections of the bond market improved today, not excepting the treasury list which, on frequent occasions recently, has shown a tendency to resist the trend.

The federal list suffered a substantial dip in the morning when it was announced that the latest treasury offering of long term federal farm mortgage 1½s had been undersubscribed. The failure of this loan to meet the same demand as others of a similar rating came as a shock to some financial quarters and served to shake out a number of government loan holders. Losses of around half a point or so, however, were soon recovered.

Federal Issues More Active.

The turnover in governments aggregated about $4,600,000 against $2,940,000 yesterday. Closing gains in this department ranged from 2-32ds to 19-32ds of a point. Transfers of all bonds totaled $10,785,000, par value, somewhat under yesterday's aggregate.

Corporation loans, for the most part, were fairly steady and the majority of price changes were held to a fractional range. The utitilties gave the best performance and there were scattered strong spots in the industrials. The rails were about even.

Several Issues Are Strong.

Among gainers up to a point or more were American Water Works 6s, Columbia Gas 5s, Federal Light 5s, Laclede Gas 5½s, Tennessee Electric Power 6s, Warren Bros. 6s, Certain-Teed 5½s, Interborough Rapid Transit 4½s, and New Haven 4½s. Low yield bonds were virtually unchanged.

Although Italo-Ethiopian war talk showed no signs of subsiding, Italian bonds rallied briskly. Italian government 7s advanced 3¾ points, Italian Public Utility 7s were up 3½ and Milan 6½s recovered 4⅝ points.

Affiliated Products.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me your idea as to Affiliated Products company?—P. H. J.

Answer: Affiliated Products, Inc., manufactures cosmetics and toilet accessories. Among its products are "Neet" depilatory and Edna Wallace Hopper, Angelus and Incarnat cosmetics. Operations have been consolidated in its Chicago plant, which has a capacity in excess of present needs.

Both sales and earnings dropped steadily from the peak figures recorded in 1931. They reached the lowest point in the history of the company in 1934. In the first quarter of 1935, however, net income rose slightly to $104,000, or 27 cents a share, from the $99,000, or 26 cents a share, reported for the first quarter of 1934.

	Net sales.	Net income.	Inc. per share.
1934	$1,982,000	$ 202,000	$0.53
1933	2,023,000	376,000	.98
1932	3,022,000	639,000	1.67
1931	4,838,000	1,006,000	2.64

At the close of 1934 current assets were $655,000, and current liabilities were $142,000. Capitalization consists of 382,800 shares of no par capital stock, of which 26,800 were owned by John N. Willys, a director, on Dec. 31, 1934. The stock pays 5 cents a month. It is speculative.

Galena Mining.

Investors' Guide: I hold several shares of capital stock in Galena Mining company, Wallace, Idaho. Will you please advise me as to the financial status of this company?—N. H. I.

Answer: According to Herman Marquardt, secretary of Galena Mining company, Wallace, Idaho, the company owns and controls several properties in the Coeur d'Alene mining district. All are in the development stage. The company has been idle for several years and has no present plans for resuming work. There are outstanding 2,000,000 shares of $1 par stock.

Mr. Marquardt said, "Although the company owns valuable undeveloped ground, its stock is highly speculative and its future value will depend on developments when work is resumed."

Marshall Field & Co.

Investors' Guide: Does the stock quoted on the exchange as Marshall Field represent the entire Field estate or merely the retail store?—C. S. W.

Answer: Stock of Marshall Field & Co., which is listed, does not represent the Marshall Field estate. It represents shares of Marshall Field & Co., a wholesale and retail merchandising distributor and manufacturer.

ANACONDA WILL SELL 55 MILLION 15 YEAR ISSUE

Bank Loans to Be Paid; Other Bonds Scheduled.

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The Anaconda Copper Mining company will market $55,000,000 of 15 year debentures to retire bank loans, Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of Blyth & Co., announced today. The Blyth organization will offer the issue next October.

At the close of 1934 Anaconda had bank loans of about 59½ millions, Mitchell said, but these have reduced since that date. The new issue will mature under a sinking fund arrangement. The coupon rate was not announced.

Pennsylvania to Sell Notes.

The commonwealth of Pennsylvania has set Sept. 5 as the date for the sale of $50,000,000 of tax anticipation notes, dated Oct. 1, 1935, and maturing May 31, 1937. Bidders will have the option of submitting tenders on a discount basis with no interest on the notes, or may designate an interest rate not exceeding 4½ per cent.

Stockholders of the Main Central Railroad company have approved the company's refinancing plan by which maturities of first and refunding mortgage bonds amounting to $20,000,000, due Dec. 1, and a note held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation for $2,449,000 and now due, will be canceled by two new issues of refunding bonds.

Call Savannah Electric Bonds.

The Savannah Electric and Power company announces a call for redemption on Oct. 1, 1935, of all of its first and refunding mortgage 7½ per cent gold bonds, series A, outstanding in the principal amount of $1,565,900, at 103½ and accrued interest. The company has also called for redemption on the same date all of its first and refunding mortgage 6 per cent gold bonds, series B, of which $1,082,500 are outstanding, at 103 and accrued interest.

The state of Arizona will offer on Sept. 16 a new issue of $690,000 tax anticipation notes, maturing Nov. 19, 1935. Bidders are asked to name the interest rate.

SEC GIVES MORE TIME IN LISTING FOREIGN BONDS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—A three-month extension until March 31 of the effective date for permanent registration on the stock exchanges of bonds of foreign governments and their political subdivisions was granted today by the Securities and Exchange commission after a conference with Charles R. Gay, president of the New York Stock exchange.

Gay advised such action, asserting that the former deadline, Dec. 31, did not permit the governments time to comply with the requirements in the registration form. The commission also granted a similar privilege to foreign corporate issuers for which registration otherwise would have been required to be effective on Dec. 31.

Gay estimated that the listed value of bonds of foreign governments and their subdivisions now enjoying temporary registration on the stock exchange was approximately $4,500,000,000. The stock exchange had acted, he said, for the purpose of protecting the interests of American owners of foreign bonds now listed on the exchange.

PRICES OF COTTON FUTURES ARE 1 TO 17 POINTS LOWER

Fears that the movement of the new cotton crop would increase materially in the near future and hedging pressure from the south yesterday resulted in a lower level of prices, with the October delivery leading the decline. Chicago was off 3 to 17 points and other markets 1 to 17 points.

Announcement that the WPA would purchase 150,000,000 yards of textiles during the next six or eight months started a general buying movement in New York with sales estimated at 25,000,000 yards, and prices were advanced ⅛ cent per yard yesterday in consequence of the improved demand.

Spot cotton closed 15 to 25 points lower, with New Orleans and Galveston 10.65 cents, Houston 10.60 cents, and New York 10.80 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

OCTOBER EGGS, 25⅞ CENTS; BEST LEVEL IN SIX WEEKS

Aggressive buying of October eggs, based on a better movement of storage supplies, carried that delivery up ¼ cent yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange with the close at 25⅞ cents per dozen, the highest level in six weeks. The November delivery made a new high at 26⅛ cents. Withdrawals fom cold storage were only 500 cases less than a year ago. Hedging sales were effective in checking the advance.

Production of butter is steadily decreasing. The American association report showed a decline of 2 per cent in output as compared with the preceding week and 5.57 per cent as compared with last year. Production on the Pacific coast was also smaller. Butter futures received fair support and the November closed unchanged at 26⅛ cents per pound. Sales of eggs aggregated 151 cars and butter 50 cars. SUGAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier today. Prices declined 5 points to 3.45c per lb for spot and forward. At this level 40,400 bags of Cuban from store and in port here sold to local refiners. Futures were irregular, closing 1 to 4 points net lower in the No. 3 contract and 2 points lower in the No. 1. Sales were 11,050 tons, all in the No. 3 contracts.

BUYERS OF TAX CLAIMS ON REAL ESTATE TO QUIT

Warn Officials New Law May Slow Collections.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Tax purchases of real estate as an instrument to help force payment of taxes will largely cease in Cook county as a result of complications caused by changes enacted in the Illinois revenue act at the last session of the state legislature, according to a statement sent yesterday to state, county, and city officials by J. Kenneth Smyth and R. C. Schultz.

Smyth said yesterday that he and Schultz during the last three years have purchased approximately 80 per cent of all real estate put up at official tax sales. He said they will make no more purchases and that buyers of the other 20 per cent have given their approval to the action.

Situation Is Termed Serious.

"This situation is so serious that we desire to call it to the attention of all officials of the state and county who are interested in the maintenance of government through tax collections. In addition to money produced at tax sales, it is highly important to keep in mind the fact that one of the most effective measures to cause property owners to pay their taxes in the past was the danger that their failure to pay them would result in tax buyers obtaining claims against their property.

"With the complete removal of this danger by reason of the withdrawal of all tax buyers, a logical consequence might be that property owners may refrain from paying their taxes promptly. Therefore, you will see that the result of tax buyers refusing to buy at tax sales may have serious consequences."

Explains Effect of Change.

Smyth explained that before the amendment to the revenue act was passed tax buyers were issued a certificate upon the payment of the tax for the specific year's tax involved. Under the amendment they are not issued a certificate until search has indicated that all prior back taxes have been paid. The result, Smyth said, is that, for example, a property may be purchased on a 1933 tax delinquency for $300, but search may disclose that large amounts in the past have not been paid. In order to secure a tax purchase certificate the tax purchaser must pay all prior back taxes, Smyth said.

NEARBY LARD DELIVERIES ADVANCE 15 TO 17½ CENTS

Continued strength in the hog market and reports of a better shipping demand for cash meats brought in a larger speculative business in lard futures yesterday. There was active buying of October lard, part of which was attributed to shorts and also some buying by houses which frequently act for foreigners. A leading packer was a seller, but the finish was firm. Nearby deliveries gained 15 to 17½ cents. January lard was neglected and closed 2½ cents lower. Firmness in corn brought in some buying of May, which moved up 30 cents and closed at the top. Clear bellies [salt pork] were nominally 5 cents higher.

As a result of efforts to stimulate hog production in England there has been a fairly steady increase in supplies in that country. On June 1, it was estimated farmers had 3,317,000 head, compared with 2,869,000 head a year ago.

Cash lard closed at $15.87; loose, $16.12; leaf, $16, and clear bellies, $19. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

PRICES OF HOGS RISE AS SUPPLY FALLS SHARPLY

Packers' live costs of hogs rose sharply on a buoyant market again yesterday. The effects of bearish reports from wholesale pork markets, which are being held in check by consumer resistance to higher prices, were counterbalanced by the abnormally low receipts at all packing centers. Unseasonably cold weather also stimulated buying of hogs, but apparently had little effect on the demand for meats.

Best grades of 200 to 250 pound hogs rose mostly 10 to 15 cents while heavier butchers advanced 15 to 30 cents. Lights were largely steady, but a few of the plainer kinds met narrow outlet and weakened 10 to 15 cents near the close.

Prices for the day averaged 15 cents higher at $12.95, processing tax included, the highest average since Wednesday of last week, and 45 cents higher than four days ago. Selected 190 to 255 pound butchers reached the $14.10 top, the first time in nine days that hogs have been above $14.

Yesterday's additional advances brought live costs to the packers within 35 to 60 cents of the nine year highs established two weeks ago, but pork sold considerably less than when hogs were at the peak.

Cattle receipts were light, however, and prices of live steers and yearlings ruled strong to 25 cents higher. The light tonnage of beef in the run stimulated buying activity. Beef cows were strong to 15 cents higher, the lower classes showing the most action. Hefers rose 15 to 25 cents. Calves and bulls were firm. The top was $12.50, no highly finished kinds arriving. Most steers brought $8.75 to $11.65.

Lambs came under pressure and sold at the lowest levels since Aug. 2, the top at $8.85 for natives showing a decline of 65 cents in two days. Westerns sold at $8.75.

Y-O-U-R O-W-N B-U-S-I-N-E-S-S

Would you be interested in starting in business for yourself without one cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men were previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shop workers, mechanics, etc. and are now earning and receiving in net profit as much as $50 a single day.

We are an old line nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that defy competition and for which there is a constant, increasing demand.

Now here are our requirements—you must be under 50, preferably married, honest, reliable, possess a neat appearance and posses at least a grammar school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side of Chicago, northern Indiana, and northeastern Illinois.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview and, if selected, will be trained at our expense in our methods, which are successful.

There are no strings attached to this offer, as we even pay rent, light, heat, telephone, girl hire, consign your mechandise, and finance your accounts.

Apply Friday only between 9 and 11 a. m. Ask for Mr. Lovell, Suite 404, Maryland Bldg., 63d-st. and Maryland-av.

BURNHAM'S
ACT NOW
It is to your particular advantage to register now even if you cannot start your course until later. Call, phone, or write at once.
The easy-to-learn Burnham System quickly enables you to become a skilled beauty operator. Plenty of living models. You learn by doing rather than by studying. Each teacher a specialist. Fewer pupils per teacher; 64 years' knowing how to teach gives you a flying start.
SEE FOR YOURSELF WHY MORE GIRLS ENROLL IN BURNHAM'S THAN IN ANY OTHER BEAUTY SCHOOL.
BURNHAM'S AWARDS TRIPS TO PARIS TO STUDENT. Geneve Huffman, winner of semi-annual Burnham scholarship for efficiency while in training, sailed June 19 on S. S. Manhattan with all expenses paid. Burnham's offers opportunities not found elsewhere.

GREATEST FOOTBALL GAME OF THE YEAR COLORFUL SPECTACLE FOR MORE THAN 77,000 FANS—Panoramic view of the crowd at Soldiers' field which watched the Chicago Bears defeat the College All-Stars, 5 to 0, last night. Jack Manders, the Bears' great place kicker, gave his team a three point lead in the first quarter with a placement from the 27 yard line after Beattie Feathers' runs had carried the ball into scoring position. The professional team added two more points on a safety in the fourth quarter to complete the scoring. Autumnal weather cooled topcoated fans and proved beneficial to the players, but rain fell during much of the game. Colorful ceremonies, with the floodlights out, preceded the start of the contest and gave an added thrill to the thousands in the mammoth bowl. Note huge flag in right background. (Story on page 1.)

ALL-STARS TEST BEARS' STRENGTH AT ENDS—William Shepherd, Western Maryland half back and a native of Clearfield, Pa., carrying the ball around end in last night's game between the Chicago Bears and the College All-Stars at Soldiers' field. Shepherd proved one of the outstanding men on the field. The Bears were in white jerseys, black pants, and striped socks. Shepherd's work for the All-Stars was offset by the play of Beattie Feathers, Bear back and himself one of the outstanding players on the All-Stars' team last year. Running interference for Shepherd are Salatino (3) and Wetzel, Ohio State.
